Grants Received By Physics Men

Three members of the physics department have recently received grants for advanced study in their respective fields.

Bernard Crasemann, assistant professor of physics, was awarded a two-year grant by the National Science Foundation for study in the decay of radioactive materials. The grant, which amounts to $7700, is to cover the official subject of "Decay Schemes of Long-Lived Positron Emitters."

Assisting Crasemann will be Jim Pengra, senior in physics; Donald Rehfuss and Robert Forrest, both graduate students in physics.

F. A. Goldberg, assistant professor of physics, has received a one-year grant for the sum of $2000 for his study of fast fluctuations in the earth's magnetic field. The grant was awarded by Research Corporation, a non-profit organization whose funds all go toward supporting research.

Goldberg's study, which is concerned with ionospheric, atmospheric, and solar activity, is entitled "Extra Low Frequency Geo-Magnetic Phenomena."

The third grant was awarded to S. Y. Ch'en, professor of physics, by the National Science Foundation. The grant is a renewal of Ch'en's present grant which will expire in July. It will be done on the "Broadening of Spectra Lines in the Presence of Fluorine Gases."

VETS' NEWS

Numerous veteran students now enrolled at the University are approaching the time when they will have been discharged from the service for three years.

They are reminded that if there is going to be any possible change of objective that this one allowable change must take place not later than three years from their date of separation. An application in itself is insufficient; the actual change-over must be in force.

There is also mistaken information being circulated that a veteran may change from a resident school to a correspondence school and then back again to a residence school.

This is not the case. Although to the veteran there may basically be no change of course, the attainment of such objective is different in the eyes of the V.A.

Any veterans interested in either a change of course, school, or a combination of the two should contact this office immediately. This is especially true for those veterans who are nearing their three-year date of separation from the Armed Forces.

They should contact Larry Whitson, Officer in Charge, Veterans Administration Office, 208 Hampton Building, 610 Willamette St. Phone number is 5-3444.
