

Federal Staff Reports ROTC Improvement

Oregon's Army ROTC department has shown "great improvement over a year ago, reflecting credit on Lt. Col. Robley Evens and his staff."

This report was given by the federal inspection team which completed its inspection Friday. Colonel Martin Moshberger, deputy chief of the Oregon military district, and his staff reviewed the Army cadet regiment, attended a reception given by the advanced ROTC students and viewed the formal guard mount and retreat ceremony held in front of the Student Union Thursday afternoon.

Six awards for outstanding shooting in the Willamette Valley League rifle match were awarded during the afternoon, to four Army ROTC cadets.

Receiving awards were David Goode, Carl Groth, Gordon Nobriga and Lee Tucker. Goode and Nobriga were high men in their respective classes.

Mental Tests Set For Naval Flying

Mental tests for men interested in naval flight training will be given tonight and tomorrow night at 6:30 p.m. in Commonwealth 172.

The tests will last for approximately three hours, and applicants will know the results immediately after taking them.

The men administering the tests will be available in the Student Union all day both days, and may be contacted through the administration office.

Men who pass the tests will be eligible to take the physical examination, to be given in Beattie, and to file an application for naval flight training. They will not be obligated until their orders come through, however.

One category, that for single men between the ages of 18 and 25, requires a minimum of 90 University hours completed. These men will then take a 16-week pre-flight training, and 14 months of flight training, following which they will be commissioned.

University graduates may be married, and will be commissioned following their pre-flight training. They will receive the flight training as commissioned officers.
