DZ, Phillies Win Campus Cleanup

Delta Zeta and Philadelphia house are the winners of this year's all campus cleanup which was followed by the traditional terrace dance.

Lewis Blue was awarded the Alpha Phi Omega award for the outstanding freshman man at the dance.

These cleanup winners were presented with two new trophies donated by the John Warren Hardware store. Second prize for the cleanup went to Alpha Phi and Sigma Nu. Delta Gamma and Delta Tau Delta were awarded third place honors.

A new system for the cleanup was inaugurated this year which was highly successful according to Bud Hinkson, chairman of Junior Weekend. Each living organization sent five representatives for the cleanup rather than the whole group with successful results.

W. W. Weed of the physical plant and a judge for the event stated "There was more activity and hard work than I have ever seen." Other judges for the cleanup were Mrs. T. F. Mundle and Mrs. Sara Henderson.

Author of Theme To Attend Fete

R. H. Nelson, author of "As I Sit and Dream At Evening" will be in Eugene Saturday to attend the first Canoe Fete in 14 years.

Nelson's song has been chosen as the theme of the 1955 Fete. According to a letter from Nelson, he and his son, John, "are looking forward to the revival of the Fete." Nelson was graduated from the University in 1909 and his son in 1940.

The first junior weekend was held in 1908. Nelson originated the idea and organized what has now become one of the most outstanding events on the University social calendar.

Float Building To Stop at 10

All floats for the Canoe Fete must be completed by 10 a.m. Saturday, according to float co-chairmen Sally Jo Greig and Darrel Brittsan.

Participants in the float parade must have their special passes to be admitted to the construction area in the evening. Living organization chairmen who have not yet obtained these passes for those who will be in the area and riding on floats may get them by contacting Brittsan at Sigma Phi Epsilon or Miss Greig at Phi Beta Phi.

All ushers for the Fete are to meet at the main gate to the Fete area at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Helen Ruth Johnson, ticket chairman has announced.

Ushering for the event will be members of Phi Theta Upsilon, Kwama, Skull and Dagger and the Student Union hospitality committee. Uniforms are to be worn, Miss Johnson said.

Instructions on ushering will be given before spectators arrive. Ushers will be admitted free to the Canoe Fete.

Junior Class to Present The 'Stream of Dreams'

By Mollie Monroe
Emerald Reporter

Friday the 13th or not, tonight's Junior Prom, "Stream of Dreams" is going to be the "best one ever," according to Patty Fagan and Jack Socolofsky, co-chairmen of the dance.

Tickets are still on sale at the SU and the Co-op, and will be on sale this evening at the door, announced ticket co-chairman Norman Seidenverg. The prom starts at 9 p.m.

Because of the emphasis placed on the rebirth of the canoe fete this year, the decorations are in accordance with the Saturday night event. An aluminum foil stream will encircle McArthur court, and disappear into pink angel hair at one end of the dance floor.

The Queen's throne and the bandstand will be depicted as floats in the canoe fete. The four seasons of the year will be represented in three-D. The color scheme of shocking pink and mint green with accents in silver and black will be given special effects with unusual lighting. Jackie Jones served as chairman of decorations.

Programs Follow Theme

Even the programs for the dance, handled by Mary Helen Williams, are shaped like little canoes, to correspond with the theme.

Bill Becker and his 12-piece band will be on hand for the dance, which has been part of Junior Weekend for many years. His group is well-known in the Northwest, and he has played for college and university proms all over this section of the country. He played here last year for the Senior Ball, and plays annually for Oregon State's Military Ball. The group was house band at Jantzen Beach, Palais Royale, and McElroys in Portland.

Queen Will Be Crowned

During intermission, the Junior Weekend queen will be announced. She will be crowned by University President O. Meredith Wilson. An ROTC color guard will honor the new queen and her court. Members of the court are Barbara Bailey, Betti Fackler, Phyzz Pearson, Jackie Robertson and Gail West.

The Gerlinger cup, awarded each year to the outstanding junior woman, and the Koyle cup, awarded to the outstanding junior man, will also be presented during intermission.

A new trophy, the Higdon award, will be presented to the sophomore man who best combines athletics, scholarship and achievement. The cup is given by Order of the O, Skull and Dagger and Druids, and is given in honor of Doyle Higdon, who was killed last summer. Mrs. Philip Higdon will present the cup.

Section for Mothers

For mothers visiting the campus who would like to see the decorations and the Junior Prom-goers, there will be a special section reserved in the balcony. Mothers are admitted free.

There will be free punch and cookies upstairs for the mothers on the west side of Mac court. Candy, soft drinks, ice cream, etc., will be on sale downstairs for prom-goers.

Two rooms where wraps may be checked will be open on the east side of the building.

Closing hours will be 2 a.m., according to Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs.

Band Leader

BILL BECKER, who is appearing with his band tonight at the Junior Prom, is well known in the Northwest. His group played last year for the Senior Ball, and he plays annually at Oregon State's Military Ball.

The club also performs such services for the school as ushering, serving, and helping freshmen in the fall.
