

Health Service Awaits Tests to Resume Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Public Health Service Thursday night awaited word from a vaccine re-testing team before giving the signal for limited resumption of Salk antipolio inoculations.

Spokesmen for the service had indicated that if all goes well the signal might be given today for beginning the inoculations again.

Officials had expected to hear within a matter of hours from a scientific team re-checking vaccine made by Parke, Davis & company, Detroit.

Later the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, of which Public Health service is a part, said in a statement that no report had been received from Detroit yet.

No Decision Yet

Until that report is received and studied by Dr. Leonard Scheele, the surgeon general, there will be no decision on whether to resume the inoculations, officials said. Scheele had hoped that inoculations might be resumed this weekend.

The Public Health service said Dr. Scheele's decision will be made public immediately but added "It is not known when that decision will be reached."

If the report from Detroit is favorable and if public health officials here concur, they added, there is likely to be quick action to release batches of the Parke-Davis product previously approved and now in the hands of doctors.

At the beginning of the week the Public Health service urged states to suspend their inoculation programs until federal officials had re-checked the safeguards being used by drug firms producing the serum.

Checks Began Wednesday

These double checks began at Parke-Davis Wednesday and will be extended to the other pharmaceutical houses.

Sentiment grew meanwhile in Congress to give President Eisenhower broad, discretionary powers to control the distribution and price of Salk polio vaccine. Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking committee said standby controls "might well be the best solution" to the problem. Rep. Priest (D-Tenn), chairman of the Commerce committee, introduced a bill giving the administration discretionary powers over distribution and use of the vaccine.

Many members of Congress want to clampon immediate controls to make sure the limited supply will go to children who need it most and at a fair price.

Church Displays UO Coat of Arms

The design of a church window in Los Angeles contains the University of Oregon coat of arms along with 95 other insignias of colleges and universities.

The "University Window" is in the Westwood Hills Christian church on the edge of the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles. It is made up of a series of panels in which appear the coat of arms of 96 institutions of higher learning. Represented in the window are British institutions, American colleges and universities founded in the Colonial period, universities of the British Commonwealth, the continental universities, and universities and colleges of the United States.

The window, which will be dedicated by President Robert Gordon Sproul May 29, was designed by the Rev. Jesse Randolph Kellems, minister of the church, who received part of his education at the University of Oregon.

The University of Oregon is the only Oregon institution represented.

Prom Decorations To Be Used at Tea

Decorations used at the Junior Prom will also be used at the Mothers' Tea, to be held Saturday afternoon at Gerlinger hall.

Students are requested by Jackie Jones, decorations chairman for the Prom, not to remove or destroy any of them for this reason.

Sabine Writes Chapter For Special Handbook

Gordon A. Sabine, dean of the journalism school, has written a chapter in a special handbook on school-press relations. The book is put out by the National School Public Relations association and the Oregon Education association.

Other authors in the handbook are Tom Powers, superintendent of the Bethel school system; Harrison Hornish, editor and co-publisher of the Springfield News, and Wilma Morrison, Oregonian staff writer.

Trophies Honor Oregon Athletes

Two of the trophies awarded to outstanding athletes being presented this weekend are the Emerald athletic trophy and the Higdon cup.

The Emerald cup is given to an outstanding senior man who has not only been active in athletics, but in campus activities as well. The winner of the cup must have a 2.5 grade point average or above, have competed in varsity athletics, and contributed something other than athletics to the University.

This year will be the fifth year the cup has been awarded. It will be presented at the All-Campus Sing Sunday.

Past winners of the cup have been Jack Keller, 1951, basketball; Jack Hutchins, 1952, track; Jim Livesay, 1953, baseball, and Ron Lowell, 1954, tennis.

The Doyle Higdon trophy will be awarded for the first time this year to an outstanding sophomore athlete. The man must also have good scholarship and achievements during his two years at Oregon.

The cup is awarded by Druids, Skull and Dagger and Order of the O in honor of Doyle Higdon, who was a letterman in football and track as a sophomore.

Higdon was killed last summer in a logging accident. His mother, Mrs. Phillip Higdon, will present the trophy at the intermission of the Junior Prom.

Volunteers Needed For YW Day Camp

Volunteers are needed for the Central Lane YWCA Day camp for the week of June 13-24, according to Brenda Blaesing, Y service chairman.

Girls are needed to teach tennis, golf, swimming, handicrafts, and tumbling. These volunteer teachers will be giving instruction in these skills to children in the sixth, seventh and eighth grade. No experience is necessary.

Some of the jobs offer a small salary and others do not. For further information call the YWCA office in Gerlinger hall.

Oregon Retail Distributors Will Meet Sunday, Monday

The sixteenth annual conference of the Oregon Retail Distributor's Institute will be held on campus Sunday and Monday, starting with the ORDI banquet at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The conference is held in conjunction with the University's business administration school.

Barry T. Leithead, president of Cluett, Peabody and company, Inc., makers of Arrow shirts, New York, will be the main speaker of the conference. He will speak on "The Value of National Advertising to the Retailer," at the opening banquet.

Other main speakers are O. Meredith Wilson, president of the University of Oregon, and Rex L. Allison, vice-president of Allied Stores corporation, the largest chain of retailing department stores in existence. Wilson will speak at luncheon in the SU on Monday. Allison will make the opening address at 9:15 Monday morning.

The conference will also be open to upper division students in the school of business or to students who apply to R. E.

Dodge, Commonwealth 371.

Arrangements for the conference have been made by Dodge, director and secretary of the Institute, with the aid of John R. Watson, John Hart and Jean Underhill, officers of Eta Mu Pi, retailing fraternity.

The conference begins with registration at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the SU, and with the banquet at 6:30. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, will preside.

Keith Fennell, Eugene, will preside at the informal breakfast in the Eugene hotel at 8 a.m. Monday.

Hinkson Named as Winner Of Local Sigma Scholarship

Bud Hinkson, junior in history and newly installed ASUO president, Thursday night was named the winner of the third annual Sigma scholarship of $100.

The award is made on a basis of scholarship, leadership, activities and interest in the fraternity. Mrs. Jim Curley, president of the Eugene Sigmas, made the presentation.

Previous winners of the scholarship include Alex Byler, 1954, and Bill Drips, 1953.

Money for the scholarship is presented by the Eugene Sigmas, the wives of Sigma Chi's. Sigma Chi is unique among fraternities in having an organization for wives of members.
