public relations co-chairmen, deserve much credit for their work with guests and early and last minute contacts.

Radio and television publicity was handled by Louie Blue and Dick Hyder, promotion chairmen. Joe Gardner sent out newspaper stories to dailies and weeklies all over the state. And the always troublesome finance problems were handled by Len Calvert. General secretary for the Fete was Ann Blackwell.

Success of Fete

As this story is being written, members of the steering committee are discussing the success of the Fete. They have worked hard but the reward was well worth it.

"We've done more than just put on a Canoe Fete on the mill-race," commented one of the students. "We've re-established Oregon's finest tradition."

Dulles Expresses Hope for Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles, returning from historic conferences in Europe, declared Monday he sees "some promise of constructive accomplishment" in the Big Four meeting he helped arrange. President Eisenhower will attend.

Setting up this meeting of top government leaders was listed by Dulles as one of several "great events" during an eventful week in Europe.

Dulles went immediately to the White House and conferred for some time with Eisenhower, who has taken a cautious attitude toward the Big Four sessions expected to be held some time in July.

Dulles On Radio

Arrangements have been made for Dulles to make a half-hour report to the nation by radio and television today from 3-3:30 P.M., Pacific coast time. The broadcast will go out "live" from the President's office over the American, Columbia, DuMont and National Broadcasting company television networks.

Radio rebroadcasts will follow this schedule: American, 4 P.M. PST; Mutual, 5:30 P.M.; National and Columbia, 6:30 P.M.

Dulles was met at the airport by most of the ambassadors of the 15 countries which make up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He had gone to Paris in the first place to attend a NATO meeting. Over the weekend he went to Vienna to sign the Austrian independence treaty and wrap up the Big Four meeting.

In his airport talk, Dulles listed

Mothers Dislike OSC Reception

CORVALLIS (AP) — Four mothers did not appreciate the treatment they received during the annual Mothers' Weekend on the Oregon State college campus.

While they slept in a fraternity house, a sneak thief made off with $200 from their purses.

Police Chief Cecil Pruitt said this happened at the Lambda Chi Alpha house before dawn Sunday.

Mrs. Lloyd C. Prock, Klamath Falls, reported $130 missing from her purse. Three other mothers said they lost amounts ranging from $4 to $50.

what may turn out to be an outline of his report to the nation Tuesday night.

"We have seen great events," Dulles said. "entry of Germany into NATO, the actual beginnings of European unity, good talks about China and about Indochina, the signing of the Austrian state treaty and agreement of the Western powers upon an invitation to the Soviet Union for a meeting of the four heads of government under conditions which will, I believe, hold some promise of constructive accomplishment."

Dulles made no mention in his arrival talk of speculation that Russia is trying to build a belt of neutrality across Europe, beginning with Austria.

After leaving the White House, Dulles met behind closed doors for an hour and 45 minutes with the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Chairman Richards (Dem-SC) said the secretary gave a "very frank and very comprehensive" report.

Richards said the topics included the outlook for a Big Four meeting of heads of state, the Austrian peace treaty, NATO and the Far East.

Library Chosen For Forest Data

The Oregon library has been chosen by the American Forest History foundation as an approved repository of history manuscripts and other forest historical material.

C. W. Hintz, librarian, received the Charter from the organization at the recent meeting of the Northwest History conference in Spokane.

The library will enlarge its forest history department and also will urge forest-interested persons and groups to use the material which includes business and organization records.

The library was chosen because of its past contributions in the collection, preservation and dissemination of American forest history.

Colonel William B. Greeley, chairman of the Pacific Northwest committee on Forest History, is urging local lumber companies to submit records to the library for future use.

Newsman Beaten

GENE SYMONDS, 29, right, United Press manager for southeast Asia, died from head injuries suffered during rioting by striking busmen in Singapore. Hospital officials said he never regained consciousness. At left riot police are shown forcibly removing pickets of the Hock Lee Bus company in Singapore, May 12, after turning hoses on them. Strikers had lain across the entrance to the depot to prevent busses being taken out by a rival union. As rioting increased in the island colony the British moved thousands of steel-helmeted Gurkha and Malayan troops into emergency positions. (AP Wirephoto)
