

Waits Patiently

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CAROLINE NELLIGAN waits patiently for an ambulance after being struck by an automobile while riding her tricycle on a Buffalo, N.Y., street Sunday. The driver, Mrs. Hiatti Prince, was charged by police with driving the wrong way on a one-way street. The child was reported in fair condition. (AP Wirephoto)

Bermuda Shorts Show Increasing Popularity

By Anne Ritchey

Bermuda shorts may only be for brave souls at Oregon, but a nationwide poll shows that they may be the coming thing.

Results of polling by Associated Collegiate Press at Minneapolis, Minn., revealed that 40 percent of all students asked think they will grow in popularity with women on campus, and 29 percent think they will be more popular than they now are, with both men and women, next year.

Only 21 percent of the students polled across the nation thought they would not grow in popularity with either men or women.

Two University football players, both 200-pound plus linemen, bravely bought Bermuda shorts Tuesday. They were Freshman Guard Bob Lopez and Sophomore Chuck Austin, who lettered in second-string varsity tackle.

An interesting question asked the students polled, which brought slightly less-enthusiastic results, was "If a few people around your campus started wearing Bermuda shorts, would you be willing to don a pair and help give the fad a boost?"

A brave 43 percent of the women said yes, while only 17 percent of the men said they would. More women would definitely not, however, because 49 percent answered negatively.

Evidently there is safety in numbers, because 51 percent of women and 26 percent of the men polled said they would wear them if a large number of people on their campus started wearing them.

There were still 71 percent of men who would hold out and not wear them, however.

One male sophomore from the University of Minnesota, quoted in the polling, decided it would probably be all right for women, though, saying "If the girls have pretty legs I'm all for them, (Bermuda shorts!)"

US to Ship Arms To West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—Substantial quantities of American military equipment will be delivered to West Germany as soon as the Bonn parliament passes laws creating her armed forces, the U.S. Embassy announced Tuesday.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said recently these laws will be passed before Parliament starts its summer recess July 15.

The Embassy announcement said:

"Substantial quantities of defense equipment have been stockpiled in the United States in anticipation of German rearmament and deliveries of this equipment are expected to start soon after the West German federal republic enacts the laws necessary for the creation of the German armed forces."

Before West Germans can be put into uniform a number of new laws, laying down conditions of service, rates of pay and other points, have to be passed.

Can a summer vacation job turn into a career?

Many young college men who have worked at Safeway in summer jobs have found food retailing a fascinating business. After college, they've gone on with their Safeway careers—and many of them now hold top jobs with our company. Perhaps these facts will give you some idea of whether you'd like a career in this challenging field.

Q. Is food retailing interesting work?

A. Modern food retailing is a fast-paced, dynamic field — as different from the old "cracker barrel" days of food selling as a jet plane is from the Wright brothers' first model. New food processing methods, new food products, make this field one of the most challenging in the business world.

Q. Do you get trained on the job?

A. Yes, every Safeway store employee "learns while he earns." In group sessions and in on-the-job training, trained supervisors help him broaden his skills and prepare him for the next job up the ladder.

Q. How big is the future in this field?

A. When you consider that there will be 15 million more people to feed by 1960, you can see there will be plenty of room for capable young men in food retailing. Few other fields offer such a wide-open opportunity for a young man to move ahead quickly.

If you're looking for a career in a well-paid, challenging field, aren't these things worth thinking about?
