NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn's beloved Bums finally won a World Series on the eighth try Tuesday after long years of bitter frustration, tumbling the mighty New York Yankees in a tense seventh game, 2-0, on Johnny Podres' gritty pitching.

Scorned as 19-5 underdogs after dropping the first two games at Yankee Stadium, the Dodgers slugged back to become the first team ever to win a best-of-seven series after losing the first two. Only the 1921 New York Giants had staged a comparable comeback but they had nine games in which to sink the Yankees' first pennant winners.

When Podres marched from the dugout to take his turn at bat in the ninth, a roaring ovation from the 62,465 fans at Yankee Stadium beat down upon his ears. It was Podres who lifted the Dodgers off the floor in the third game and it was Podres who led the grand march into the promised land of World Series victory.

When Podres worked the last Yankee batter, Elston Howard, to a 2-2 count, saw him foul off two and then send a sharp bouncer to Pee Wee Reese, a deep growl of triumph swept the cavernous stands of Yankee Stadium.

As Hodges gathered in Reese's fast throw for the final out, a twisting deluge of players, bench warmers, fans, and youngsters in striped sweaters overwhelmed Podres. The Dodgers club finally moved en masse, like one giant swarm of bees, toward the dugout and the inevitable champagne popping ceremonies.

It was the first Yankee series defeat since Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals upset them in 1942 and their fifth defeat in 21 series. They had won seven in a row since '42.

The game packed the drama of an entire season into nine glorious innings in the bright, warm sunshine of a perfect October afternoon.

You could almost hear the noise from the riotous Dodger dressing room in the distant stands as the boys cut loose after their long uphill struggle finally was capped with victory.

It was a ball game with $100,000 riding on every high pitch by Podres and his assorted opponents, starter Tommy Byrne and relievers Bob Grim and Bob Turley. For the difference between the winning and losing pool was just about $100,000.

Although official figures won't be released for some time by the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, it was understood that the Brooks had voted 32 splits, making each full share worth $9,684. The reported 36 Yankees full shares were each good for $5,739.

Byrne didn't allow a hit until the fourth. Then Campanella, who had gone 0 for 12 in the Stadium, slammed a double to the left-field corner with one out. Furillo was thrown out by the charging Rizzuto on a slow roller, Campy moved to third. Hodges then lined a 1-2 pitch into left for the first big run.

Brooklyn almost broke the game wide open in the sixth. Reese opened with a single and the Yanks' Skowron left Byrne's peg get away from him for an error as he tried to tag the bunting Snider.

Some eyebrows were raised when Alston, playing for a run with a 1-0 lead, had Snider bunt, but it paid off. Skowron took the throw a few feet off the bag and tried to make a tag as Snider went past. The ball was jarred loose, much as Skowron had jarred the ball out of Campanella's hand in the third game at Brooklyn.

Campanella also bunted, with two on and none out, moving up the runners with his sacrifice. Manager Casey Stengel came out to talk with Byrne, ordering him to fill the bases with an intentional pass to Furillo.

As Byrne prepared to pitch to Hodges, Casey came out again to call for Grim, a righthander. Hodges drove a deep fly to Bob Cerv in center and Reese romped home easily.

Series Sidelights

The fall classic this year should be renamed the "Misery Series" as Mantle, Bauer, Noren, Furillo, Newcombe, Snider and Robinson have been or are still ailing.

HEARD IN PASSING—Charlie Grimm is in as Milwaukee manager for another year.

Connie Mack Resting After Hip Fracture

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Connie Mack, baseball's "grand old man," was reported resting comfortably in Presbyterian hospital today after fracturing his right hip in a fall at his home on Saturday.

The veteran baseball figure, who will be 93 in December, suffered the injury when he fell out of bed while rising from his daily afternoon nap.

How many "impulse" items did Mrs. Brown buy?

Many customers have two food shopping lists—a written one, and a mental list of things they need. They depend on the convenience of a modern supermarket to help them fill both lists. At the store they see and select new, appetizing products and especially good buys. These "impulse" items supplement the purchases on their written lists.

Learning how to help shoppers make these selections—through special displays, convenient shelf stocking and efficient store layout—is one of the most interesting parts of food retailing. Here are facts about after-college opportunities in this field.

Q. Where does a career in food retailing begin?

A. The natural starting point is a position as a Food Clerk. Here a man learns how to meet the public...how to order, care for and inventory foods...and the techniques of displaying them attractively. He learns not only "how" things are done, but "why" they are done, as a basis for executive decisions later on.

Q. What makes Safeway a good place to start?

A. For one thing, beginning salaries in Safeway stores are very good—usually around $300 a month in this area. If you have ability, it won't be many years before you can make double that, or more, in a managerial position.

At Safeway you work in modern stores, use proven equipment, have pleasant people to work with. And you share in benefits like hospitalization insurance, life insurance, sick leave, paid vacations and profit-sharing programs for eligible career employees.

Q. What kind of a future is there in this field?

A. When you consider that there will be 15 million more people to feed by 1960, you can see there will be plenty of room for capable young men in this field. Few other fields offer such a wide-open opportunity for a young man to move ahead quickly.

If you're looking for a career in a well-paid, challenging field, aren't these things worth thinking about?
