West Virginia Club Tops Offense List

By the Associated Press
West Virginia, with a two-platoon team and a three-man pitching corps, is the nation's top passing and ground-gaining football team after three weeks of the major college season.

In the two games the Mountaineers have played, West Virginia Coach Art Lewis has alternated two teams by quarters and has called on Freddy Wyant, Alex Szuch and Mickey Trimarki to pass. The result has been two victories, 464 yards gained through the air and 483 on the ground for a total offense average of 473.5 yards per game.

Harvard Tops Offense
Harvard is the nominal total offense leader with 510 yards — 419 by rushing — in one game, a 60-6 rout of Massachusetts. Similarly, Boston College is listed first in rushing in statistics issued by the NCAA Service Bureau Wednesday with 440 yards and third over-all with 469 on a one-game performance against Brandeis. But among the teams that have played two or more games it's West Virginia in the total figures and Army and Oklahoma 1-2 in rushing offense.

Wyant has passed for 193 of the West Virginia yards, Szuch for 139 and Trimarki for 132.

Columbia, with one man, Claude Benham, doing all the throwing, is second in passing with an average of 181.5 yards a game to West Virginia's 232 average. Benham has completed 27 of 60 passes for 363 yards in two games. Holy Cross has passed to seven touchdowns — one more than Mississippi — and Wisconsin's .593 completion percentage is tops.

Cadets Rank High
In the running department, Army has averaged 394.5 yards and Oklahoma 380 in two games for each.

Boston College also is the nominal defensive leader, having held Brandeis to eight yards on the ground and 96 overall. But the two-game figures show Purdue, Navy and Auburn on almost even terms defensively. Purdue has allowed its opponents only 132 yards a game, Navy 132.5 and Auburn 133.

Holy Cross, the most passed-against college as well as one of the passing leaders has restricted its two opponents to an average of 28.5 yards by rushing and Maryland has allowed an average of 58 rushing yards in three games. Nebraska leads in pass defense with a 23.7 yard average in three games.

Pittsburgh's punters have averaged 45.9 yards on nine kicks and that proficiency may be useful when Pitt plays Navy Saturday.

Litchman Quoted In 'SI' Column

Art Litchman, Oregon's sports publicity director, appears as an interviewee for Jimmy Jemall's column in Sports Illustrated magazine this week.

Questions asked of eleven prominent sports promoters was, "What college sport do you most enjoy promoting?" Litchman's answer was, "Baseball. We have a good program which has given us championship teams. Our students and townspeople give us loyal support. Thousands attend. Our teams are colorful. There's no problem promoting anything that is a success, particularly when it's a great sport like baseball."

The magazine will be on the stands tomorrow.

Badger Wingman Lineman of Week

By the Associated Press
The first pass thrown to Dave Howard this season resulted in a Wisconsin touchdown and before he finished last Saturday's game against Iowa, the big Badger right end had caught five more, scored two more touchdowns and equalled to Wisconsin records.

As a result of that spectacular performance, Howard was named Wednesday as the second Associated Press lineman of the week by sports writers and broadcasters. He edged out such brilliant performers as Bruce Bosley of West Virginia, Walt Laraway of Clemson and Bo Bollinger of Oklahoma.

Howard, a 197-pound junior from Mondovi, Wis., was a bit peeved when they didn't pass to him in Wisconsin's opening game against Marquette. He made up for that omission in the Iowa game. Howard took a down-the-middle pass from quarterback Jimmy Miller, cut for the sidelines and raced 44 yards to score.

Later he caught three passes to set up Wisconsin's second score then made a flashy goal-line catch, picking the ball out of the hands of two Iowans covering him, for the touchdown.

Stanford Paces 3 Departments In PCC Stats

Stanford's brilliant offensive trio of runner, passer and receiver had a stranglehold on the Pacific Coast conference individual statistics released today by the PCC commissioner's office.

Fullback Bill Tarr leads the conference in rushing, quarterback Jerry Gustafson in passing, Tarr and Gustafson rank 1-2 in total offense and end John Stewart leads in passing. Tarr, the 1954 rushing champion, gained 102 yards last weekend to gain the lead for the first time this year. He has 289 yards after three games and an average of 4.1 yards per play to 264 and an average of 9.1 for Jim Shanley of Oregon. Dick James, Oregon, is third with 184.

Gustafson Tops Passers
Gustafson has completed 23 passes to rank ahead of Howard Willis, Idaho, who has 17, and Ronnie Knox, UCLA, 15. Gustafson has a 63.9 percent completion mark and has thrown for 225 yards and three touchdowns, one being for the only score in last weekend's 6-0 upset of Ohio State. Tarr is the first player in several years to lead the PCC in total offense onrushing yardage alone, his 289 yards being better than the 285 combined yardage of Gustafson (60 rushing, 225 passing) and the 264 of Shanley.

Stewart has caught 13 passes for 145 yards and the leadership in that department followed by Arnie Pelluer, Washington State, with nine and Jim Houston, Washington, eight. Jon Arnett, Southern California, maintains a huge lead in scoring with 44 points on six touchdowns and eight conversions in nine attempts.

Arnett Runback Ace
Arnett also leads in runbacks with 113 yards and an average of 56.5 on punts and 138 and an average of 34.5 kickoffs. Mike Monroe, Washington and Wesley rank second on punt returns with 57 yards each, while James has 124 yards on kickoff runbacks.

Phillies Release Waitkus, Lowrey

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday announced the unconditional release of veterans Eddie Waitkus and Harry Peanuts Lowrey.

Lowrey also was signed as a free agent, joining the Phillies last spring. He was used sparingly as a pinchhitter and utility outfielder. Lowrey, who saw service with the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, has spent 13 years in the National League.

Unusual Incidents Highlight Series

By Will Grimsley
Of the Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP)—High and low spots of the 1955 World Series:

Pitching star—Johnny Podres, Brooklyn, who beat the Yankees twice, clinching the series with a 2-0 shutout in the final game.

Hitting star—Duke Snider, Brooklyn, whose four home runs tied the record for a single series and placed him third behind Babe Ruth, 15, and Lou Gehrig, 10, in all-time homers with nine.

Steadiest performer — Yogi Berra, Yankees. He hit in each of the seven games and led both teams in batting with .417.

Biggest disappointment — Don Newcombe, Brooklyn pitcher, routed in first game and never able to pitch again because of minor ailments.

Outstanding play — Brooklyn lefthander Sandy Amoros' brilliant high fly in the sixth inning of the final game and his quick throw which doubled Gil McDougald off first. This saved two runs and took much of the fight out of the Yankees.

Most electrifying incident — Jackie Robinson's steal of home in home in the first game.

Best relief pitching — Clem Labine, Brooklyn, went into four games, allowed only six hits in 9 1/3 innings.

Screwiest incident—the act of the overly zealous fans who ran into centerfield in the seventh inning of the seventh game to try to get Duke Snider's autograph. He got a bum's rush instead.

Rookie standout—Roger Craig, surprise starter and winner of the fifth game for Brooklyn, although relieved after six innings.

Longest single hit—Duke Snider's home run in the fifth inning of the third game, a powerful wallop that carried far past Bedford Avenue into a parking lot.

Biggest boner—Pitcher Johnny Kuck's failure to cover first base in the fifth inning of t' fourth game when Pee Wee Reese's infield grounder set up Duke Snider's three-run homer. Casey Stengel said it was the most costly play in Dodgers' 8-5 win since he had planned to walk Snider if Reese had gone out.

Biggest comeback: Gil Hodges, Dodger first basemtn, who was the "bust" of the 1952 series when he went hitless in 21 times at bat, knocked in both runs in Brooklyn's 2-0 series-clinching victory.

Best television performer — Umpire Frank Dascoli, a John Barrymore in blue serge.
