

Webfoots Face Strong Colorado In TV Contest

Coach Len Casanova's Oregon Ducks, eagerly eyeing an upset and their second win of the season, will face a different offense for the fourth time in as many games tomorrow when they meet the powerful Buffaloes of Colorado on Hayward field. Game time is slated for 2:00 p.m.

The Webfoots won their first game against Utah's split-T, lost their second to the multiple offense of USC, and were tripped last week by Washington's T formation. Dal Ward's Golden Buffs play a single-wing, and they play it well enough to be unbeaten and unscored-upon in their two games this year.

Big factor for Colorado is an immovable forward wall, which has held Arizona and Kansas to a total of 80 yards on the ground this year. Every man who picked up a monogram in the line for the Buffs last year is back—a total of 20. The second-string line is interchangeable with the first-stringers, and both ranks average a chunky 210.

Spearheading that impressive wall is a 225-pound senior Tackle Sam Salerno. Conference heavy-weight wrestling champion, Salerno is quick, fast and tough, and has already been mentioned for All-America honors. Other starting tackle is Bill Kucera, although Dick Golder, 210, and Harry Javernick, 200, are of nearly equal ability.

Oregon Scout Jerry Frei calls Senior guard Harlan Brandy, 196, the best he has seen this season.

Top Buffalo back is Homer Jenkins, 172-pound tailback, a quadruple-threater. Jenkins can run, pass, kick, and play defense with the best of them. He's a smart runner, and experts compare him favorably with Colorado's great of last year, Carroll Hardy.

John Bayuk, who rolled up 824 yards at fullback last year, has been replaced in the starting Buffalo lineup by Jack Becker, a junior who sat out most of last season with a shoulder separation.

Passer for the Colorado machine is Dick Hyson, soph quarterback from New Mexico, who has 87 yards and one touchdown to his pitching credit. Backing him up is last year's regular qb, Sam Maphis.

The Boulder men are also deep at wingback, where they have speed merchant Ray Engel and two-year letterman Em Wilson.

Against this formidable array, Oregon will throw a fast, aggressive line and one of the finest running backfields seen in Eugene for years.

Guard Spike Hillstrom led the Duck defense against Washington, and the 197-pound junior is sure to be in there at the opening kickoff. Two sophomores, Center Norm Chapman and Tackle John Raventos, showed lots of hustling line play in the Husky game, as did Jack Po- cock and Captain Lon Stiner.

It's the Oregon backfield, however, that has shown the most brilliance this year. Lacking an experienced passer, the Ducks have taken to the ground with amazing success. Sophomore Jim Shanley has the highest per carry average in the conference with 9.1 yards a shot. Shanley is second in yardage with 264, and senior Dick James is third with 184.

Good Weekend Seen for Sportsmen

NORTHWEST—Deer prospects in Tillamook burn will be good in areas with good cover, heads of brushy draws and rugged rocky slopes. Hunting success should improve with darker nights. Archery area deer population is good.

SOUTHWEST—Deer hunting is fair to good in Coos county. Eden ridge was good on opening day and Vaughn mountain fair. Prospects for coming week end are very good following Monday's rain. High Cascade country in Jackson county is drying out rapidly, but prospects are still good. Opening week end in Douglas county met excellent success.

CENTRAL—Hunting has been slow; however, some snow in the mountains and in the lower country should improve conditions.

NORTHEAST—Hunting prospects have been greatly improved by the general rainfall in the middle-of the week. The light snowfall has caused a movement of deer from higher ranges. Best prospects are in Grant, Wheeler, and Morrow counties. Deer are plentiful near alfalfa fields between Picture Gorge and Kimberly on the main John Day river. Hunting successful in the Wickiup forest camp, Dry Soda, Lookout, and Starr ridge areas; also on Morgan creek, Frenchy butte, and Jackson ranch in Izee. Conditions in Umatilla county should improve this week end. Recent storms have moved the deer to lower elevations in Baker, Union and Wallowa counties and success should be improved this week end.

SOUTHEAST—Conditions in the woods have been dry, but no campfire permits are required other than to carry axe, bucket, and shovel in forest boundaries. Rain before the week ends is indicated. Hunter success has been good in Lake, Harney, and Malheur counties. Malheur county indicates heaviest hunting in the Mahogany mountain area with Ironside area next.

NORTHWEST—Salmon and jack salmon angling is slow along north coast. Tillamook, Nestucca, Salmon river area salmon angling has been fair. Most salmon and jacks are in tidewater, but some are upstream. Jack salmon and chinook fishing is fair on the lower Sandy. Trout fishing is poor on the Clackamas. Fishing continues fair to good on the McKenzie and Willamette rivers. Lookout Point and Dexter reservoirs are producing good catches on troll. Dorena is fair. Clear lake is good, and fish are plentiful.

SOUTHWEST—Salmon angling in Coquille river is fair to good. The same at Coos Bay. Striped bass angling in Isthmus slough only fair. Steelhead catches have improved in the Grants Pass to the Galice section of Rogue river. Starting Monday, Oct. 10, only steelhead over 12 inches in length will be legal in main stem of Rogue below Shady Cove and in the Illinois river below Kerby. All other tributaries and lakes will be closed for season. The limit changes to three fish per day but no more than six fish in seven consecutive days or in possession. Silver salmon fishing is fair from the forks to Umpqua area. Steelhead angling in vicinity of Steamboat is spotty. The rivers are low and clear, but rains would change those conditions. Salmon angling is fair to good on lower Umpqua river.

CENTRAL—Angling is good throughout the region.

NORTHEAST—Rainbow trout catches have been excellent on the upper Wallowa, lower Grande Ronde, and Imnaha rivers above the town of Imnaha. A few steelhead are being taken on the Lower Grande Ronde river near Troy. Angling is good in the high lakes, but snow and freezing weather expected in higher elevations.

SOUTHEAST—Delintment lake and Moon reservoir are open to year round angling. Delintment lake at this time of year is good.
