

Two Die in Post-Dance Crash

Oregon's Homecoming celebration ended in tragedy for two girls who met death early Sunday when the automobile in which they were returning from the dance struck a parked truck at Tangent, near Albany.

Killed were 17-year-old Patricia Roberts of Aumsville and 19-year-old Gay Lesley of Stayton.

Neither were University students.

William Weddle, the 19-year-old freshman in liberal arts whom police reported was driving the car, was severely injured. He was taken to the Albany

General hospital. His condition was described Sunday night as critical.

Weddle's doctor reported the University student suffered head injuries and multiple fractures.

Two other youths were seriously injured in the accident. They are Doris Minden, 18, Sublimity, and Larry Freres, 19, Stayton. They were also taken to the Albany hospital. Freres, a student at OSC, was transferred to a Portland hospital Sunday.

The accident occurred about 3 a.m.—only two hours after the dance, climaxing the weekend activities, ended.

State police reported that Weddle's northbound car struck the rear of a truck which had stopped with other traffic because of another accident. The truck driver was rendering aid at the scene of the other accident when the collision occurred.

Force of the collision tore the top from the car Weddle was driving, according to the police report on the accident.

The tragic mishap was one of two accidents which involved Oregon students this weekend.

Three other University students were involved in a three-car collision near Albany as they returned to the campus from Portland Saturday noon. They suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Robert Dryman, Tom Hogg and Victor Wandyke, all sophomores in liberal arts, were in Dryman's car, Hogg reported. Dryman was driving about 30 miles per hour when the two cars he was following stopped suddenly, causing his car to smash into them.

Hogg crashed into the windshield and Dryman bruised his knee, Hogg said.

No one in the other two cars was injured, according to Hogg. Both cars were also on their way to Eugene for the Homecoming game, he said.

French Minister Conducts Seminar

By John Moreau
Emerald Staff Writer

Pierre Millet, France's second minister to the United States, conducted a seminar on the "North African Situation" on the campus Friday night, just two days after the return of the Sultan of Morocco to his throne in that strife-torn protectorate.

Speaking to a group of University faculty members and wives, graduate students and townspeople in Allen hall, Millet said he expected peace and harmony in Morocco within six months. The French are now "grappling for the proper reforms," he continued.

Sultan a "Martyr"

Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who was exiled in 1953, was returned to power by the French on Nov. 16. Never an extreme nationalist, according to Millet, the sultan is nevertheless a martyr in the eyes of Moroccans. The situation in Morocco has quieted considerably since the sultan's return, he added.

(Moroccan peace was delivered a set-back on Saturday, with the assassination of Khalifi Berdadi, Caliph of Fez, in Youssef's Rabat palace. The caliph, a supporter of Youssef's uncle, had come uninvited to Youssef's palace to make peace with the new sultan.

Admittedly Unwise

Millet admitted that "The French government hasn't always been wise in its dealing with North Africa." He attributed this to the multi-party system in France. Each party which has gained control of the government has administered different North African policies.

Pointing to a period of harmony in Tunisia, lasting now six months, Millet said agreements can be reached.

Life Photographer Takes 'O' Picture

Bert Glenn, photographer of the Seattle bureau of Time, Life, Inc., was the guest of the University this weekend for Homecoming.

Les Anderson, director of public services, said that Glenn came to Eugene primarily to photograph the painting of the "O" on Skinner's Butte, but that he extended his stay to include taking photographs of the scrubbing of the University seal, the bonfire, and candid audience shots at the football game.

Anderson said that he didn't know whether any of the pictures would eventually appear in Life or not, but he said that if they were to appear, it would be during the next three or four weeks.

Groups Honored In HC Ceremonies

Homecoming honors were carried off by several other groups beside the Oregon football team this weekend.

Ducks Smash OSC at Homecoming

By Jack Wilson
Emerald Ass't Sports Editor

Oregon's Ducks ignored the press clippings of the Oregon State Beavers as they splashed through mud and rain to present a Homecoming crowd of 22,000 with a 28-0 upset victory Saturday.

Jim Shanley ran up 160 yards on the ground and Dick James, playing his last game and one of his greatest in an Oregon uniform, gained 114 as the crashing, fired-up Oregon line opened up holes in the Beaver forward wall.

Morris Sets Record

Fullback Jack Morris kicked all four conversions to set a new school individual season's scoring record of 68 points. The Medford sophomore also carried the ball 12 times for 36 yards.

The Ducks scored early in the first quarter, twice in the third quarter and again in the final stanza. Shanley and Quarterback Tom Crabtree both tallied twice.

It was the most lop-sided loss an Oregon team has tacked on the Beavers since 1899, when the score was 38-0. Last year the Ducks made a shambles of Oregon State's homecoming, trouncing them 33-14.

Shanley Scored Twice

Shanley raced around left end for the first touchdown, and, after Morris converted, the teams battled to a standoff until halftime. Then in the third quarter Oregon exploded again, Shanley again going over left end for one score and Morris converting, and Crabtree diving into the endzone from one yard out as the quarter ended.

Crabtree capped a fourth-quarter drive of 61 yards by going over from the two on an option play. Morris' conversion, straight and true as the three preceding, made it 28-0.

Pres. Wilson Named Foundation Trustee

O. MEREDITH WILSON
Carnegie Trustee

O. Meredith Wilson, University president, has been elected a trustee of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Elections were held Wednesday, and Wilson and three other educators were elected to the 24-member board of trustees.

The Foundation was founded by the late Andrew Carnegie for the purpose of providing a fund for pensions for retiring college teachers. It now sponsors a number of objective studies into specific educational problems. Another part of the Foundation's work is a program for the improvement of higher education.

Wilson recently returned from Washington, D.C., where he appeared on the program for the annual meeting of the American Council on Education. He was with the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education before his appointment in 1954 as University president.

Museum Displays Russian Paintings

The museum of art is currently displaying several Russian altar-piece paintings, dating from 1050 to 1800, which are a part of the Murray Warner collection of oriental art which is permanently housed in the museum.

The panels, once used in Russian churches of the Greek Orthodox Christian faith, constituted wings of altar pieces. They were used in religious service.

The panels, painted in tempera, also include gold and silver to suggest the presence of the holy spirit within the church interior.

'Harriman's Presence Tests Student Interest'

At a Chicago Democratic rally Saturday night Averell Harriman, governor of New York, said "I am not a candidate" for the Democratic nomination for President.

Harriman will speak at the University assembly Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom. If time allows, a coffee hour forum will follow immediately after the speech, according to W. C. Jones, dean of administrations.

The Lane County Young Democrats are sponsoring a luncheon for Harriman Tuesday noon at the SU. Open to the public, tickets are $1.25. Senator Wayne Morse (D-Ore) will attend the luncheon with Harriman.

Harriman will hold a press conference at the Eugene airport at 10:46 a.m.

Jones said that the assembly is a test to see if students want to hear political speakers and he hopes that "they will pack the place."

He went on to say that it will be University policy to bring any leading political figure to speak on the campus if there is such an opportunity regardless of their party.

A "much-talked about" presidential nominee for 1956, Harriman was recently described in Time magazine as the most important governor in the United States. A backer of Harriman says, "I don't suppose there is anyone around who has had more experience in government than Averell has had. The country needs someone with a thorough grasp of foreign affairs. Averell has it."

As a 1952 presidential nominee Harriman, who is 64, received 123½ votes at the convention in Chicago.

Arrangements for bringing Harriman to the campus have been handled by state Democratic leaders through the office of administration. Although no speech subject has been announced, Jones said Harriman is supposed to speak on a non-political matter.
