

NEARLY 400 people were served at the YWCA Smorgasbord Sunday night in Gerlinger hall. Fir boughs and lighted candles decorated each table including the Smorgasbord table. YWCA members in Swedish costumes acted as hostesses and waitresses. Chair-

Awards will be presented to 22 cadets at the first Air Force ROTC review of the year. The ceremony is to be held Tuesday at 2:15 p.m. on the lower drill field, Major Lewis B. Tiffany has announced.

Eleven of the awards will go to Air Science IV cadets who have been designated as distinguished AFROTC cadets. The eleven are Richard K. VanAllen, Baker; Timothy D. James, Eugene; Robert L. Ransom, Hermiston; Kenneth C. Moore, Silverton; George W. Waller, Eugene; Duane Reeves, Springfield; Donald E. Mead, Eugene; Otto M. Nelson, Eugene; Justin M. Smith, Medford; Arthur L. Weber, San Carlos, Calif.; and Everett Stiles, Portland.

Air Science I and II commendation awards are slated for the top two per cent of basic cadets. Those to receive Air Science I awards are Ron J. Aman, Eugene; Richard G. Carlson, Eugene; LeRoy E. Cothrell, Cottage Grove; John P. Colvin, Pendleton; John D. Earle, Eugene; Jerry R. Schwartz, Oswego; and Eugene S. Wall, Gresham.

Air Science II commendations will be presented to Kenneth D. Boyer, Haines; William J. Cook, Salem; Fredric C. Davis, Portland; and Owen T. Watkins, Wrangell, Alaska.

Senator Offers Research Spot To College Grad

The position of research intern has been offered by Senator Richard L. Neuberger to an Oregon college graduate whose interest is in political science.

For the third time since his election, Neuberger is offering the internship plan as a means of encouraging superior students to enter the field of government. The successful candidate will act as a research intern on the senator's Washington staff for one year.

Applications for University students should be made through the political science department, which will select the best qualified student for consideration by the final selection committee of various Oregon educators.

Both men and women, graduating seniors who have exhibited "sincere interest and outstanding ability in the study of problems of our society and government," are eligible for the position. Applications must be filed before March 1.

Candidates will be interviewed by the selection committee, which will announce its choice before April 1.

Friday Deadline Set For Quartet Contest

Friday is the deadline for entries in the Dads' Weekend barbershop quartet contest.

Any quartet representing an organization or group may enter, according to Fay Campbell, who is accepting applications at Kappa Alpha Theta. Judging will be based on national rules, copies of which have been distributed to men's living organizations.

The qualifying round will be held Jan. 30. The final contest is scheduled for Feb. 3.

Officers to Interview Men for Audit Offices

Commander Joseph R. Roszel, SC, USN, will visit the University of Oregon campus Wednesday to interview for the Army, Air Force, and Navy audit offices.

Interested students may call the office of student affairs for time and place of meeting.

Department Head Writes Psych Text

"The Psychology of Human Differences," written by Leona E. Tyler, acting head of the psychology dept., will be printed in second edition this week by Appleton-Century Crofts publishing firm of New York City.

This edition of the illustrated, 545-page textbook includes a large amount of research material from the field of differential psychology. The new material comprises more than half of this rewritten edition.

Designed for advanced courses in differential psychology, the text places emphasis on general principles and emerging ideas rather than on detailed research summaries.
