

Phi Delt, Phi Psi Winners in Intramural League A Plays

Phi Delta Theta and Phi Kappa Psi won their games in the first round of the intramural league playoffs. The Phi Deltas posted a 35-16 victory over the Sig Eps, and the Phi Psi team ran away from Sederstrom in a very high scoring game, 52-28. Tuesday's games will find Morton meeting Hunter at 3:50, and Sigma Nu playing Phi Delt at 4:45.

The Phi Deltas completely outgunned the Sig Eps in running up a 35-16 victory. The Phi Deltas scored enough in the first half to edge the Sig Eps as they had an 18-6 lead at that point. A well rounded offense and good rebounding were the factors that made the difference. The victors played a very good defensive game holding the high scoring losers to their lowest point production of the season.

Leading the winners was Rich Costi with 13. He was followed by Call Callaway with 6. High for the losers was Don Steen with 6.

It was an easy run away from the opening whistle as Phi Psi ran up an extremely easy quarter final victory over Sederstrom hall in the A playoffs. The Sederstrom team was almost completely lost on defense and Phi Psi used their height to good advantage clearing both boards. Every man scored for the winners and six broke the scoring column for the losers.

High for the winners was Gary Newton with 17 followed by Mike Thomas with 11. Leading the losers was Stan Glassy with 12.

Town 'Hot' For Spokane Flyers

SPOKANE (AP)—Spokane has cooled off on baseball since 1947 when it was the hottest town in the minor leagues, but it has warmed up to ice hockey and the sport has 'em standing in the aisles.

The Spokane Flyers won the Western International Hockey league championship Saturday before 6,094 customers in the new Memorial coliseum. Officially, there are seats for only 5,700.

It brought home attendance during the worst winter in years to 84,000 for 24 games. With at least three more to go, it could exceed 100,000.

Selling Canadian hockey in an American city of 180,000 wasn't easy. There are no "sandlot," high school or college teams to develop fans. The Flyers, playing in a cold old arena that could seat only 2,200, lost money every year, starting with a $37,500 deficit in 1946.

It got so bad in 1953 that 25 of the 32 stockholders quit. The seven who were left decided to hang tough, hoping the game would catch on and that the new 2½ million dollar Coliseum would bring them in. It was completed in 1954 and it did.

All 13 Spokane players are Canadians, although a few are taking out U.S. citizenship papers. They earn from $450 to $600 a month for a 19-week, 50-game schedule.

The Western International is a "senior amateur" league. It differs from the professional only in that teams don't own the players. They are free agents after each season.

Spokane is the only American team in the W-I. The other three are in neighboring British Columbia.

With the W-I nailed down, the Flyers now go into a long series of playoffs that could last 60 days and lead to the Allan Cup, Canada's top amateur hockey trophy.
