

Miss Johnson Elected President of AWS

Miss Passmore YW President

Helen Ruth Johnson, Joan Passmore, and Margaret Holman were named presidents of Associated Women Students, YWCA, and Women's Recreation Association respectively in Tuesday's women's selections.

Over three hundred women voted in the AWS elections. The voting was held at Gerlinger hall during the afternoon. Results were announced at the conclusion of the women's week assembly held Tuesday night in the Student Union.

Installation of the new officers in all three organizations will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Student Union, according to Sally Ryan, AWS vice-president in charge of the elections.

Margaret Tyler, who opposed Helen Ruth Johnson, became vice-president of the AWS. Other

IFC to Vote Thursday On 'Hell Week' By-Law

Inter-fraternity council will vote Thursday upon a proposed by-law which would "oppose" hazing and "Hell Week" and call for punishment in case of property destruction or "actions adversely affecting the fraternity system."

The by-law was proposed two weeks ago by Bob McCracken, apparently as a compromise between various elements of IFC. Some house presidents said they felt IFC had no right to take any action unless property was destroyed. Others favored outlawing of "Hell Week."

The proposed by-law ready as follows:

"IFC as a group opposes all forms of hazing and pre-initiation activities. The IFC tribunal will take action upon any forms of hazing or pre-initiation activities brought to its attention involving the destruction of property or any actions adversely affecting the fraternity system as a whole."

All proposed IFC by-laws are introduced, and then voted upon at the following meeting.

Several of the presidents who spoke about the proposed revision at the last meeting are no longer members of IFC because of recent fraternity elections.

Thursday Emerald Not Published

There will be no Oregon Daily Emerald Thursday due to legal holiday Wednesday, George Washington's birthday. The Emerald will appear Friday as usual.

Wilson to Speak On Berlin Topic In SU Tonight

O. Meredith Wilson, University of Oregon president, will speak on the subject "Berlin and Biography" at the browsing room lecture tonight at 7:30 in the Student Union.

Wilson's talk is prompted by an examination of two works of Isaiah Berlin, distinguished British scholar. Berlin wrote the "Hedgehog and the Fox; an essay on Tolstoy's view of history" and "Historical Inevitability."

Wilson will present the concept of free will, as it conflicts with concepts of historical inevitability.

With the idea that there is no point in individual biography, if the individual is only a tool of a system, Wilson will examine the implications of the two concepts, particularly in the lives of the American statesmen, Washington and Lincoln.

E. S. Pomeroy, professor of history, will lead the discussion after the lecture.

Brown to Speak Thursday at 1 p.m.

John Mason Brown, specialist in literature and the theatre, will lecture in the Student Union ballroom Thursday at 1 p.m. A former drama critic for the Evening Post and the World-Telegram in New York, Brown is at present a contributing editor of "The Saturday Review," for which he writes a weekly column of criticism called "Seeing Things." This will also be the subject of his lecture.

Became "Stage Struck"

Brown was born in Louisville, Kentucky in 1900. At nine, he saw his first play, "King Lear" with Robert Mantell, and he became permanently stage-struck. As an eighth-grader, he wrote his first play, which was a somber historical drama dealing with Benedict Arnold.

After his second year of high school Brown entered a preparatory school in Morristown, New Jersey, to which a number of Louisville families sent their sons. Brown spent two years there, graduating in 1919.

in those days headed for Harvard and Professor Baker's 47 Workshop," he has said of his bolt from the blue.

Brown became a member of the "47 Workshop" in his senior year. In September, 1924, he became drama critic of "Theatre Arts Monthly."

Brown is the author of such works as "Daniel Boone — The Opening of the Wilderness," "Still Seeing Things," "Morning Faces," "Seeing More Things," "Many a Watchful Night," "The Art of Playgoing," and "Broadway in Review."

General Dean to Be Banquet Speaker

Major General William F. Dean, one of the nation's most honored military leaders and deputy commander of the Sixth Army, will be the featured speaker at the 1956 Eagle Scout Recognition Day banquet, at 6:30 tonight in the Student Union.

The banquet follows a full day of vocational and career activities for more than 50 Eagle Scouts of the Oregon Trail Council. Over 300 civic and Scout leaders from all parts of southwestern Oregon are expected for the activities.

The Eagle Scouts who are selected to participate will spend the day visiting and observing various business, industrial and professional operations in the Eugene area.

Duncan to Attend UW Press Clinic

Charles T. Duncan, acting dean of the Oregon school of journalism, will attend the All-Coast Press clinic at the University of Washington Feb. 24 and 25.

Duncan will speak to the gathering of high school journalists on the topic of "All-American Ratings."

The student delegates will attend the clinic as representatives of all the western states and Alaska.

Campus to Host High School World Relations Meet

The University campus will increase by nearly 450 students Thursday evening as the 1956 high school International Relations League conference gets underway. The topic under discussion will be "African in the Modern World," lead by Professor James S. Coleman, a leading authority on Africa.

Registration will begin Thursday evening from 6:30 to 10:30 with the first roundtable sessions at 8:30 a.m. Friday, Feb. 24. The students will be housed by campus living organizations. Bud Hinkson, ASUO president, will welcome delegates at 10:30 a.m. Friday, followed by an address "The African Awakening," by Coleman.

Professor Mabel A. Wood, Head of the Home Economics Department, will show a film taken on her trip last summer from Cairo to Cape Town. This film will follow the banquet in the SU ballroom from 9:00 to 10:00 p.m.

University President O. Meredith Wilson will deliver a welcome address at the Friday evening banquet and foreign students will provide entertainment.

Saturday morning a panel consisting of James S. Coleman, assistant professor in political science at the University of California at Los Angeles; Homer G. Barnett, professor of anthropology; Charles P. Schleicher, professor of political science; Marshall D. Wattles, professor of international economics; Alton F. Baker, Jr., editor of the Eugene Register-Guard, will be quizzed on the African situation.

Professor Schleicher served as Executive secretary of IRL since its formation until 1954 when he was awarded the Fulbright grant to teach and study in India. Schleicher organized the IRL for Oregon high schools to stimulate interest in world citizenship and responsibility. This is the only such confederation of its type in the country with the exception of a Colorado group.

Schick Tests Given To Five Hundred

Schick tests given to detect susceptibility to diphtheria have been given to about 500 students since Friday, according to University Health service.

About 90 per cent of those taking the test have had negative results. Those students with positive results will take a series of shots, infirmiry officials said.

More than 200 tests were given Tuesday, and some students were turned away when the infirmiry ran out of materials. About 150 were given tests Monday and another 136 last Friday and Saturday.

Additional materials were expected this morning, which officials said would allow more students to take the test.
