City Balks at License Bid For College Side Beer Sale

The Eugene city council early this summer refused to take action on an application by Ace and Hazel Miller, proprietors of the College Side Inn, for a license to dispense beer.

The application, which challenged the "dry zone" prohibiting the sale of alcoholic beverages around the campus, was supported by a letter from the Oregon Liquor Control commission.

The letter quoted the head of the commission, W. H. Baille, as saying the state agency no longer felt a responsibility for banning liquor sales near the campus.

The statement was challenged by William C. Jones, dean of administration. He quoted from another letter from Baille, written June 19, pledging that the commission wouldn't approve license applications within the dry zone without favorable recommendations from both the city council and the university.

Application Tabled

At that meeting the city council voted to table the application until city officials clarified the Oregon Liquor Control commission's apparent change of policy.

The "dry zone" was established on Jan. 1, 1952, in the campus area bounded by Patterson St., Villard St., 21st Ave. and the Willamette river.

The action was taken following a public hearing, conducted by the OLCC, when protests to near-campus beer sales were raised by University administrators, temperance groups and mother's clubs.

Since that time, the council has denied all applications for either packaging or dispensing licenses within the boundaries established.

Would Enforce Age Law

In their application, the Millers said that, if granted a license, they intended to strictly enforce the law against selling beer to minors. Dean Jones, told that enforcement of the law would be impossible because two-thirds of the students are minors.

In subsequent action City Attorney John Pennington appeared before the commission requesting clarification of its policy regarding the "dry zone" surrounding the University area.

Pennington was advised by the OLCC that no change in policy was expected in regard to banning the sale of beer and liquor around the campus.

He said the commission members told him that "policy with reference to the dry zone is no different now than it has been in the past."

Macy Named Senate Aid

C. Ward Macy, head of the economics department, has been appointed to the advisory staff for the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency for the study of Federal laws governing financial institutions and credit.

This announcement was made by Senator A. Willis Robertson, acting chairman of the Senate committee.

27 Picked

The advisory board will be composed of 27 men in the financial field throughout the entire country. These men will prepare recommendations designed to remove obsolete provisions from the law and to add new authority where needed.

Macy is one of the two university economists appointed to the advisory committee. Other members are chiefly bank presidents or banking officials.

Senator Robertson stated, "I am extremely pleased that these highly competent leaders in the financial field have agreed to assist our committee in this study."

All of the various types of financial institutions subject to Federal regulation are represented on the advisory committee, as well as every section of the country. This broad representation will contribute greatly to the success of the study."

the Eugene City Council turned down the request by the Millers. Their attorney, Charles O. Porter, read a statement from them saying that they felt the burden of proof should be put upon the university "to prove why each application should not be considered on its own merits, without an automatic rejection because of the supposed advantage of maintaining a dry zone around the University."

In speaking before the council, University President O. Meredith Wilson said that all but one institution in the Pacific conference have similar "dry zones" around their campus areas.

Here, he told the council, the effects of the zone have been "genuine and considerable," both in cutting down drinking and in reducing disciplinary problems.

Wilson called the dry zone a part of the university's progress of "institutional discouragement" of drinking on the part of the students, and he urged the council to back the University in continuing to maintain the boundaries.

Rushing Rules

(continued from page one) Rushing will continue through Friday's evening date. If a rushee wants to change or drop a date he may do so at either the second floor of the SU from 9-11:30 a.m. or at the IFC office at Student Affairs in Emerald hall from 10-12 p.m.

Preferences Friday

After "preference night" Friday, rushees will go to the second floor of the SU to fill their preference cards.

Saturday morning rushees will pick up their bid cards from the IFC table in the SU.

Partial IFC regulations for men's rush follow:

No fraternity man will be allowed inside freshman dorms from now until the end of rush week next Friday night. Dorm counsellors will turn in a list of violators.

All rushees will sign up for six dates when they go to second floor of the Student Union Monday afternoon. During this time two men from each fraternity will be allowed on the floor, but both must sit behind a table and wait for rushees to select houses.

Monday evening rushees will return to the Student Union to sign up for six more dates. During this period each fraternity may have one man on the floor to solicit dates.

Friday night each fraternity will turn in a list of the men it desires to pledge. Each rushee will select his first three choices, in order, and the lists will be matched. Rushees and fraternities will be notified of the results Saturday morning.

Students-For-Morse Drive Gets Workers

Counterattacking the campaign efforts of McKay supporters on campus is the job of Mike McCloskey, recent Harvard graduate who is currently registering "Students for Morse" at his booth in the SU.

By Wednesday, McCloskey hoped to have recruited over 100 students to pass out handbills, work at the polls and in other ways actively support Senator Morse.
