

DIANE DUNCAN, pledge class president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, accepts the first prize trophy at the AWS Auction from Doug Basham ASUO Vice-President. The Kappas sold for $131.

Religion Educator Here This Week

Dr. Clarence P. Shedd, widely known author and teacher in the field of religion in higher education, will be on campus Tuesday and Wednesday. He will meet with the Religious Directors' Association at 10 a.m., Tuesday at First Baptist Church, and with a faculty group at 8 p.m. that evening in Westminster House with Dr. Alburey Castell as chairman.

as a visiting professor at Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley. Time Magazine has designated Shedd as "America's No. 1 Man in Religion in Higher Education."

He was a featured speaker at the Northwest Conference on Religion in Higher Education which was held Jan. 17-19 on the University of Washington campus.

Extensive Traveler

Shedd has traveled extensively in Great Britain and Europe

Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., Shedd will confer with boards of directors of campus religious foundations at Wesley Foundation. Other hours are open for personal and small group conferences, which may be arranged by calling Kenneth Peterson, president of the Religious Directors' Association, at Wesley Foundation.

Voluminous Author

Shedd is the author of four books in the field of religion in higher education, including histories of the student Christian movement, and the popular "The Church Follows Its Students." He has collaborated in publishing two other books, and is the author of numerous articles.

For three decades he has directed studies in religion in higher education at Yale University, and is this year serving

CLARENCE P. SHEDD
Religion Educator

Wind Instruments Program Slated

The University School of Music will present a wind instrument program Tuesday evening at 8 p. m.

Among the numbers to be presented will be "Divertimento No. 3 in E flat, K. V. 166," by Mozart; "Waldied," by Muller; "Sonata for Three Flutes," by James Hook, "Legends, Suite for Three Trombones," by George McKay, and many others.

visiting universities and studying Student Christian Movements and other provisions for the religious life of students. In 1931-32 he was an Honorary Secretary of the World Student Christian Federation with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, where he devoted the entire year to a study of religious life in European universities.

During a sabbatical leave in 1941-42 from Yale, Shedd held conferences with administrative, faculty, student leaders and university religious workers in all but three of the state colleges and universities of the country.

Cykler to Speak At SU Assembly

Edmund Z. Cykler, professor of music and member of the University faculty, will discuss "The Pleasures of Music," at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Union Ballroom.

Cykler has been a member of the faculty since 1947. Before that time he served as director of music for the Los Angeles city playgrounds department, and as committee chairman and program director of the sectional and national conventions of the music educators national conference.

Cykler was graduated from the University of California with a BA degree in 1926, and earned his Ph.D. degree in 1928 at Charles University, Czechoslovakia.

During 1955-56, Cykler, on sabbatical leave, studied in Innsbruck, Austria, under a Fulbright Research grant.

While conducting research on

"New Methods of Music Education in Austria," he delivered numerous speeches on U.S. and American music. His talks were sponsored by the U.S. Information Service in Austria, and he also worked with Innsbruck's American Institute.

During the summer of 1955, Cykler and his family attended the International Society for Modern Musci and Music Educators meetings in Lindau, Germany and Zurich, Switzerland. He participated in the opening of the Mozart Bicentennial in Salzburg, Austria, as guest of the Austrian Youth Singing Festival.

The music professor was cited as, "worthy of special note and recognition" upon returning to the University, for his contribution to the U.S. Mission program in Austria.

Dignitaries Praise Journalist Mainwaring

Statements on the death of Bernard Mainwaring, member of the State Board of Higher Education, and Oregon journalist, were issued to The Emerald Sunday afternoon by three University dignitaries.

Chancellor John R. Richards, head of the State Board, praised Mr. Mainwaring as "an excellent board member—one who never missed a single meeting. He was enthusiastic and constructive."

"Bernard Mainwaring's sudden death was a shock to all of us and a great loss to the state of Oregon and to education throughout the Northwest," said President O. Meredith Wilson. "As a member of the State Board of Higher Education he has been a vigorous, courageous, and thoughtful servant of the state and of this University. Our hearts go out in sympathy to his wife and family. We would like more particularly to express our feeling of sorrow to Bill, who like his father, is devoted to good journalism, and who thereby has served the University and the Emerald so well this year."

Charles T. Duncan, dean of the school of journalism issued the following statement:

"Bernard Mainwaring's death is a grievous loss to Oregon journalism. Among his many fine qualities were two that are especially valuable in an editor—courage and forthright honesty. An editor with these attributes will not please everyone, but even those who disagreed with Mr. Mainwaring's views admired his candor and respected his integrity. As chairman of the 1957 Oregon Press Conference, he had worked diligently, up to the day of his illness, to help us fashion a high-calibre program. At this and future meetings fellow editor-publishers, he will be sorely missed.

"Mr. Mainwaring's death came only a day after the passing of another prominent Oregon newspaperman, Jack B. Bladine of McMinnville. Both men were loyal friends of the University and the School of Journalism."

Kappa Pledges Top in Auction

The Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge class, bought by Alpha Hall for $131, was the highest selling group to be auctioned off in the AWS Auction held in the Student Union, Jan. 18.

Alpha Phi went to Phi Gamma Delta for $55, Chi Omega was bought by Chi Psi for $50, Gamma Phi Beta went for $45 to Phi Kappa Psi, and Tri Delt was auctioned off to Delta Upsilon for $37.

The money received from the auction will be used as AWS scholarship awards.

The five pledge classes participating were selected by a panel of judges earlier in the week. Nine other pledge classes also auditioned for the event.

Doug Basham was master of ceremonies at the auction, and Sam and George Whitney gave intermission entertainment with two vocal selections.

Jack B. Bladine Taken by Illness

McMINNVILLE (AP)—Jack B. Bladine, 52, owner and publisher of the daily News Register and president of station KMCM, died Friday after a year's illness.

He became owner and publisher of the Telephone Register in 1941 and later the paper became the daily News Register after Bladine purchased the McMinnville News Reporter.

He was the father of two University students, Bill and Pat Bladine. Other survivors include his wife, another daughter, Mrs. Philip McLean, and a brother, Philip N., editor of the News-Register.

Salem Publisher Dies on Saturday

Bernard Mainwaring, 59, member of the State Board of Education, and publisher of the Salem Capital Journal, died Saturday.

He was the father of Bill Mainwaring, editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald. Other survivors include his wife, and a daughter, Ruth Helen, a student at Willamette University.

Mainwaring was elected chairman of the Associated Press in Oregon last year. A graduate of Oregon State College, he was a former chairman of the College of Idaho's board of trustees.

He began his journalistic career by publishing the Hermiston Herald and the Milton Eagle, two Eastern Oregon weekly newspapers. He and Lucien Arant purchased the Baker Democrat in 1925 and later merged it with the Baker Herald. The two men bought the Idaho Free Press in Nampa, Ida., in 1937. Mainwaring bought the Capital Journal in 1953.

Funeral services for Mr. Mainwaring will be held Tuesday.