

The World Through the Camera

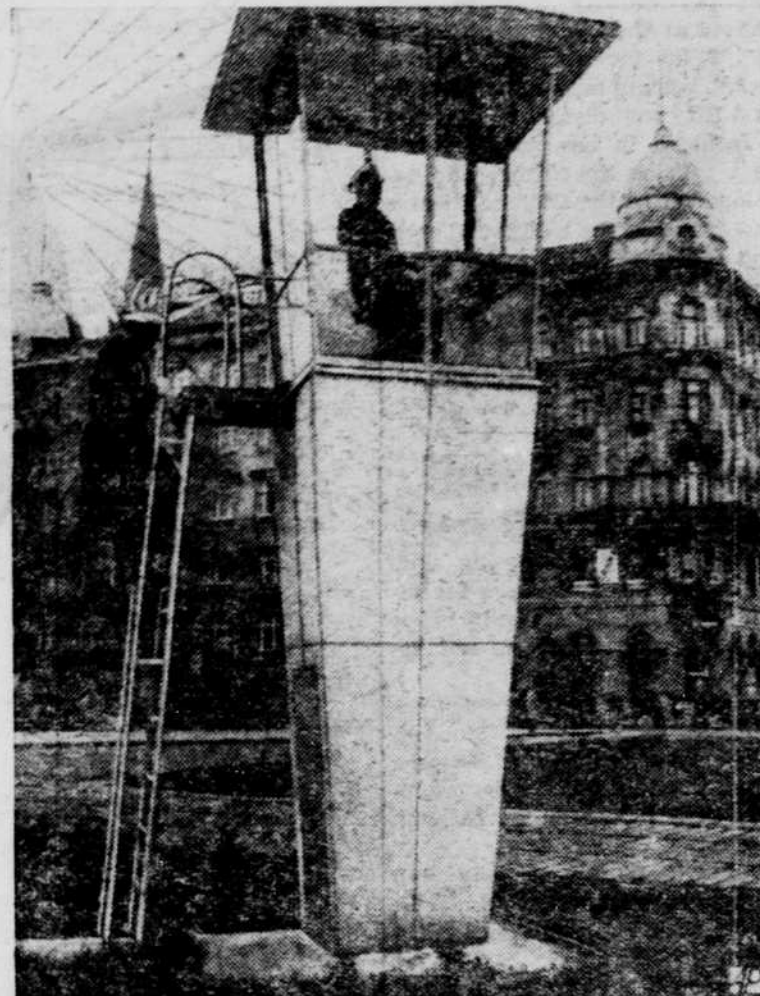

BEAUTIFUL ATTRACTION — The combination of beautiful Brunni Eggert, young German actress, and food proves an irresistible lure for swans near a Hamburg, Germany, wharf.

A TRAGIC ACCIDENT that broke her back has come nowhere near breaking the spirit of Jill Kinnmont, 20-year-old skier who once was considered a cinch to be on the U.S. Olympic team. Jill is still in a wheelchair and partially paralyzed but she's able to carry four courses in business administration at UCLA and study art at home in Los Angeles. Here the spunky girl touches up a watercolor. (AP Wirephoto6).

ANGLER'S DELIGHT — Two 18 h.p. outboard motors, retractable canopy and an underwater TV camera to spot fish are features of this craft that accommodates six fishermen.

CONTROL FROM ABOVE — Among the signs of reconstruction in Vienna are the new control towers which permit traffic police a lofty approach to their ever-increasing work.

ONE MAN OPERATION — The Navy's XROE-1, a collapsible one-man helicopter, hovers over Marine officer displaying a disassembled version of the aircraft at Palo Alto, Calif.

WITH PINKY FINGER delicately poised, William C. Rose, 44, hoists a shot of whiskey for his ninth straight drink in Miami, Fla., city court. The 238-pound man, charged with drunk driving on a basis of a drunkometer reading showing .246 per cent alcohol in his blood, was attempting to prove that the machine could be in error in the reading then submit to reaction and vision tests. Rose claimed the meter doesn't apply equally to everyone and that he could prove himself sober with a .246 score. (AP Wirephoto)

QUEEN'S CHECKUP—Workmen are dwarfed by one of the liner Queen Elizabeth's 32-ton propellers on drydock during annual overhaul of ship at Southampton, England.
