

Spring Fashion Section

Broadway Hit Affects New Hats

"Auntie Mame," Broadway's newest hit, set in the 1930's, has had wide influence on the new spring fashions. Designers have borrowed the wave of gentle feminine fashions from two decades ago to present one of the most exciting spring collections in years.

To change the static narrow silhouette of 1956 to one of more fluid grace and simplicity, designers have studied the subtle technique of intricate bias cuts used by Vionnet and other great dressmakers of that era.

This new look has received praise from college women throughout the nation. Co-eds are finding the new feminine lady-like look and the return to soft pretty colors an exciting change for their spring wardrobes.

By far the most exciting designs to come from "Auntie Mame's" influence are those in millinery. Never before have hats had such dramatic styling: deep crowns that pull snugly down on the head and brims that fold back from the face in a swirl of feminine elegance.

College women are applauding the light-as-a-shadow straws which highlight the spring hat collection. This season there is an exciting array of new straw weaves to compliment these in-spring designs of the 30's.

This spring the fashion rule is truly one of casual softness providing the co-ed with a dramatic collection from which to choose.

LITTLE COLONEL CHRISTY SCHOELLENBACH received her cape, complete with a silver eagle denoting her rank, from Col. L. E. Wellendorf at the Military Ball. The Army ROTC candidate, Miss Schoellenbach was sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta and is a former Sweetheart of Sigma Chi and Honorary Major of the Army ROTC drill team.

Christy Schoellenbach Named Little Colonel

Christy Schoellenbach, a sophomore sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta and the candidate of the Army ROTC, was crowned Little Colonel at the third annual Military Ball Saturday night.

She was crowned by Col. L. E. Wellendorf, professor of military science and tactics. Miss Schoellenbach was Sweetheart of Sigma Chi and Honorary Major of the Army ROTC drill team last year.

Also honored at the annual dance, attended by more than 200 couples, were Little Lieutenant Colonel Nancy Warren, sponsored by Delta Gamma and the Air Force ROTC, and six Little Majors. They were Betty Bullock, Donna Davenport, Jane Zeller, Jan McMurphey, Laurie Fischer and Beverly Landon. Also honored was Pershing Rifles' Honorary Captain Kaye Tomlinson.

All nine women were escorted to the stage through a passageway formed by the Pershing Rifles sabre squad.

Following the coronation the Little Colonel and her escort led the grand march. This was followed by the Little Colonel's waltz.

Air Force cadet Bob Westrup was master of ceremonies.

Music was provided by Dick Dorr and his eight-piece orchestra.

The dance was co-sponsored by Scabbard and Blade and Arnold Air Society. General chairmen were Nelson Tandoc, of the Army, and Air Force cadets Burke Rice and Don Bick.

Northwest Review Asks For Student Offerings

The staff of the Northwest Review, the University's new literary magazine, has asked that interested students work on possible contributions to the magazine during spring vacation so that they may be turned in as soon as possible spring term.

Original short stories, poems and articles may be turned in to the Northwest Review office in room 306 of the Student Union.

YW' Meeting Registry Due

All YWCA members who are interested in or are planning to attend the Y Regional Conference at Menucha have been asked to register at the Y office immediately. The conference will begin at 10 a.m., March 22, and will end at noon on March 24. Cost for the entire weekend will be $10.35. Students who will be unable to attend the entire conference may attend part of it.

Menucha is located 22 miles from Portland.

See

BETTY ROSE

COATS AND SUITS FOR SPRING

"Career to Curfew"

Handsome by Day—Pretty by Night

Lowell's

82 W. Broadway

Use Our Layaway Plan

fashion
authority
... RUSSELL'S
and
B. H. Wragge

Always look to Russell's for fashion authority ... and always look to Wragge for the smart, sophisticated casual look. Here, on campus or away, very Wragge in a sea-current pink skirt a la current print skirt a la slim skirt, menswear linen, tab belt feature, 25.95. Ask for B. H. Wragge, second floor fashion department.

Russell's

"EUGENE'S OWN STORE"

