

JOHN WILKINSON, ASSOCIATE professor of arts, works on the first of a long series of experimental murals which will, in time, cover the walls of the new architecture building. Most of the murals will be done by students. (Photo by Rich Scott).

THE WESTERN SIDE of the new Arts and Architecture building looks toward Villard Hall across the old campus. The old school will be torn down to its framework, and rewired, reheated, and otherwise remodeled between the end of Spring finals and September. A budget of $550,000 has been set for both construction of the new building and remodeling of the older one, as well as for the purchasing of new equipment. (Photo by Rich Scott).

Newest Building Exterior Varied

By PAT TREECE
Emerald Day Editor

The new arts and architecture building, even to those students who will never use its facilities, stands to lend a great contribution.

Among the envisioned endowments is the sculpture court, which is to eventually connect the science, journalism, and architecture buildings by a landscaped area devoted to the exhibition of student sculpture, as well as to an outdoor laboratory for the creation of such works.

Another boon which will enrich the north campus area is, according to Dean of the school,

Leaders to Discuss Women's Regulations

Heads of Houses and the AWS Legislature will meet Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union to discuss the revision of women's rules.

The two groups will discuss further possible changes in women's rules. Eventually, according to AWS president Sue Walcott, recommendations will be made to Dean of Women Golda Wickham.

Room number will be posted.

S. W. Little, "a long series of experimental murals which will, in time, cover the walls of the building."

These murals, which will be done primarily by students, will be incorporated with murals from the old building "to become part of a chronological record of the course in mural painting over the last 20 years, according to Dean Little.

First Underway

The first of these proposed murals is already being done by Associate Professor of Art Jack Wilkinson.

The new building comes as the answer to a long need by the Architecture and Allied Arts departments.

The present housing of the school is in the first and second campus heating plants, and the old engineering building, the three being connected by the wing that houses the Architecture Library, which was built in 1923. The school originally took over the first campus heating plant and engineering building in 1914. The second heating plant was added in 1949.

Dean Little commented on the difficulty the staff committee entertained "in designing the

(Continued on page eight)

Publication Due By N.W. Review

The spring 1957 issue of the Northwest Review has gone to press, and the magazine will be distributed to the public Saturday according to Brian Booth, business manager. It will be available at the University Co-op.

Contributors in the first issue include students and faculty of the University, Senator Richard Petitions may still be turned in at the Student Union administrative offices business manager of the Northwest Quarterly, according to A. L. Ellington, director of the Student Union.

Petitions will be considered by the Publications Board at Wednesday evening's meeting, he said.

L. Neuberger, Robert O. Bowen of Montana State University, Robert Huff of Oregon State, Joseph Langland of the University of Wyoming and others.

Subscriptions to the new magazine are being sold at the Northwest Review offices in the Student Union, Booth said. Rates for the thrice-yearly publication are $1.50 for one year and $2.25 for two years.

Two-year sponsor and donor subscriptions are being sold for $15 and $5 respectively, he said.

Cadets to Take Military Awards At Ceremonies

Cadets of the University's Army ROTC detachment will be presented many national and local awards at Army-Air Force graduation ceremonies to be held today at 1 p.m. at Hayward Field. James C. Lynch will receive the Quartermaster Association

Award. This is given each year to 10 outstanding cadets throughout the United States.

One of 20 cadets in the United States selected for the National Defense Transportation Association Award is William L. Mainwaring.

Another national award, the Association of the Army ROTC Award, will be presented to Jean G. Bowles.

Gilbert E. Jones, Jr., will be presented the Sons of the American Revolution Award. This designates Jones as the senior cadet with the highest ROTC academic standing over a four-year period.

Military Science Achievement Awards will be given the most outstanding ROTC cadet from each class, based on both drill and classroom performance. Those designated are James O. Greene, senior; David G. Mour-sund, junior; John N. Shaw, sophomore; and Stanley J. Scrivner, freshman.

Superior Cadet Awards Set

Also to be presented this afternoon are Superior Cadet Ribbon Awards to one cadet from each class considered outstanding in academic and military grades and leadership. Those designated are Philip I. McHugh, senior; James C. Lynch, junior; William S. Bechen, sophomore; and Jack L. Yager, freshman.

Robert L. Davis will be presented the Scabbard and Blade Military Science II Leadership Award.

John D. Eskildsen has been designated the outstanding junior cadet specializing in accounting.

Rifle Trophies Given

The University's Army ROTC rifle team will be presented two trophies. It will receive the University of Oregon Rifle Trophy for defeating the Air Force team in annual marksmanship competition. Because it defeated the Oregon State College Army ROTC rifle team, it will receive the Col. Lee R. Woods, Jr. Rifle Team Trophy.

Rifle Team Medals will be presented to the three highest individual marksmen. They are Douglas L. Gill, first; Fredric P. Wilbur, second; and Benjamin I. Kahalekulu, third.

Student Library Contest Winners Awarded Prizes

Library Day contest prize winners have been announced by Miss Bernice Rice, Browsing Room librarian. This year's contest, the largest of its kind sponsored by any United States university, had 88 library entries.

In the undergraduate general library division, Kim Erdman, sophomore in liberal arts, won the first prize of $25 in books. Second and third prizes of $15 and $10 in books were awarded to Lowell A. Hinrichs, junior in mathematics, and Eckard V. Toy Jr., senior in history. Nancy Dunnington, junior in sociology was awarded honorable mention.

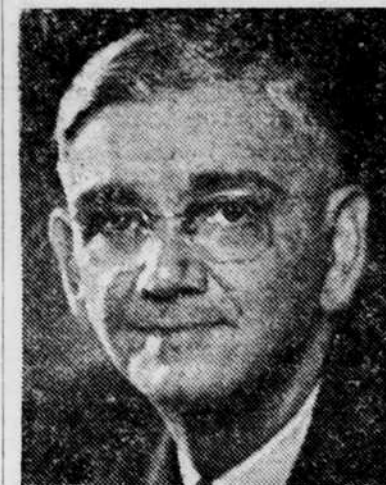

First place winners of the undergraduate specialized library was Valerie W. Gilman, junior in history of art, for her library on art history. Roger D. Gross, senior in speech, with a library on the theatre took second prize, and Donald L. Westerland, junior in philosophy won third prize with his library on theological texts. Janet Ferris, junior in history, was awarded an honorable mention for her collection on the history of art.

Graduate students general library awards went to Robert A. Patterson, history major, George Gerhard, psychology major, and Charles and Lily Stevenson, majors in mathematics and French, respectively. An honorable mention was awarded to Peter A. Plumridge of the law school.

Winners of the graduate students specialized library awards were George Gerhard, autobiography and biography; Giles Wilson

(Continued on page 3)

Patterson Endowment Fund Set

THE LATE PAUL PATTERSON . . . Fund Named for Him

EUGENE (AP) — An endowment fund is being created as a memorial to the late Gov. Paul L. Patterson.

A fund-raising drive, with a goal of $50,000, was announced Saturday. It is headed by John C. Higgins and William P. Hutchison of Portland.

Income from the fund will be awarded annually to the University's outstanding law student, who will be designated the Paul Patterson Fellow in Law and Public Service.

Patterson was graduated from the University in 1923 and from the law school in 1926. He died in office early last year.