Duck Star to Crown Queen at Friday Rally

The Homecoming bonfire Rally festivities will begin Friday at 6:30 p.m. with three serpentine being led from different sections of the campus. Men's houses are to meet at the women's houses with whom they are paired at 6:15.

One serpentine covering the "cliff dwellers" area, will be led by the pep band starting at the Sigma Alpha Mu house. The rally squad will lead another serpentine starting at the Alpha Omicron Pi house and a third will start at the Beta Theta Pi house, led by "Super Duck." The freshmen are being asked to form their serpentine at 6:30 and go to the Bonfire.

Bike Stunt Pay-off To Be Held Monday

The bike-riding stunt for the "losing" study body president will be performed Monday, according to ASUO president Jim Lynch.

Lynch has a bet on with OSC student body president Charlie Dunn. The president of the losing school in Saturday's Civil War football game will ride from the rival campus back to his own on a bicycle, wearing a jacket from the rival school.

Originally, the 40-mile trip would have been performed Sunday.

Lynch reported that Dunn was already loosening up his leg muscles for the journey.

Orange Geese Left On University Lawn

About 15 orange-tinted and beribboned geese were mysteriously deposited on the University campus sometime Tuesday night, early-risers discovered Wednesday.

A sign on the Student Union lawn reading "Typical Oregon Duck" speculation has it, may tie the prank in with an old Oregon State joke that the "Oregon Ducks are a bunch of silly geese."

The Eugene and the Sheriff's office have been notified and are trying to find the owners of the geese.

Meanwhile the geese are penned up at the physical plant.

Voting for Queen To Be Held Friday

Balloting for Homecoming queen will be held Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Student Union and Co-op, according to Jolene Banasco.

Five princesses have been selected to the court. One of the five will reign over Homecoming festivities this weekend.

Candidates are Ann Cavanagh, Sue Mautz, Sue Helfrecht, Laurie Scott and Mary Jo Fourier.

Homecoming court at 7:05. Football captain Jack Morris will then crown the 1957 Homecoming queen.

Skeets Manerud, president of the Alumni Association, will give a short talk and introduce a few members of the 1920 Rose Bowl football team. A novelty act will be presented by the rally squad entitled "California Here I Come!"

About 7:40 Coach Len Casanova will speak and will introduce his assistants and the seniors on the team.

Family Concert Set for Sunday

The University-Eugene Symphony Orchestra will present a special Family-Homecoming concert as the final event of Homecoming Weekend, on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in McArthur Court. This will be the first regular concert of the symphony's fourth year.

University of Oregon students are admitted to all the symphony concerts on student body cards. In addition, for this concert students who have members of their family visiting for Homecoming may take those family members to the concert as their guests free of charge.

Families should enter with students through the student entrance, and sit in one of the unreserved sections.

Special Program Chosen

Conductor George Boughton, assistant professor in the school of music, has chosen a special program for this occasion. Featured will be Saint-Saens' "Cello Concerto No. 1 Op. 33," with Jerome Jelinek as soloist. Jelinek, new assistant professor of cello, comes to the campus from a year of study and performance in Europe on a Fulbright Award. He also spent three years with the U.S. Naval Academy String Quartet at Annapolis, and a number of years with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

South American Selections

The remainder of the program will consist of some rhythmic South American music by Ginasters called "Creole Faustus Overture," Mozart's "Haffner Symphony No. 35," and "A Night on Bald Mountain" by Moussorgsky.

The 58-piece orchestra is composed about half of University students and faculty, and half of amateur and professional musicians from towns of western Lane County.

No Emerald Friday

The Emerald will not publish a regular edition on Friday. Staff members will work as usual today and Friday on the 32-page Homecoming paper.

Alumni Trophy To Be Presented For Attendance

Announcements about the trophy to be presented to the alumni class with the largest percent of registered Homecoming attendance have been made by Lolita Watson, chairman of the Homecoming Hospitality committee.

In order for an alumni class to win the trophy, it must register in the Student Union lobby on the second floor Friday, Nov. 22, from 2-6 p.m., or on Saturday, November 23, from 9-12 a.m. and 4-6 p.m. Registration will be held at three times only.

The trophy will be awarded at the Homecoming Dance, Saturday, Nov. 23, the chairman said. This tradition started at the University's 1956 Homecoming.

Sign Contest Details Stated by Chairmen

Any Homecoming sign which exceeds the $60 cost limit, will be disqualified, according to the Homecoming sign chairmen. The total value of materials caused in the sign includes rented, borrowed, used or purchased goods and any materials the house may already own. The total value of the sign will be considered by the judges.

The sign committee requests all living organizations to have a detailed list of materials used, their costs and the store receipts, ready by 5 p.m. Friday. The judges are at liberty to ask for these at any time.

All signs must be finished by 5 p.m. Friday.

Anyone wishing further information is requested to phone Chuck Bordenkircher or Gil Rodgers at DI 5-9050.

Rally Men Burn Scarred, Split 'O'

Oregon's much-beaten, but still sentimental keepsake, the huge wooden "O" was burned by University students Wednesday night.

The 20 by 40-foot letter, stolen from its long-time Skinner's Butte resting place three weeks ago by Oregon State students, was set afire about 6:30 p.m. by male members of the Rally Squad. It didn't burn well.

ASUO President Jim Lynch told a crowd of about 200, mostly freshmen, "We have had the 'O' analyzed and have decided it has been too contaminated by OSC possession; that's why we're burning it."

The "O," held in hiding in Corvallis, was returned to campus Tuesday night by members and pledges of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity in agreement with members of the OSC chapter who originally stole it.

The decision to burn the letter, still painted yellow but split into several big pieces and many loose boards, was made by Lynch and Yell King Dick Stables late Wednesday afternoon.

Soaked with Gasoline

Freshman men, and women, joined by several handfuls of upperclassmen, carried the pieces to the intramural field-parking lot adjoining Hayward Field. Stables and his yell dukes soaked the remains of the letter with gasoline and led the crowd in yells and fight songs as the "O" burned.

But the burning was slow. Twice the arsonists had to pour on more gasoline.

White In Order For Homecoming

White shirts will be the "order of the day" for Saturday's football game with the farmers at Hayward field, according to the Homecoming committee.

Students have been requested by the committee to wear white at the game to present a more colorful cheering section.

SU Board Elects New Secretary

Dana Peterson was elected Student Union Board secretary Wednesday. She replaces Dorothy West, journalism school representative who resigned her position but will stay on the board.

The board voted to change the title of the Barbershop Quartet Contest to the Quartet Contest in order that entrants may sing a variety of songs.

Two SU committee chairmen, Joan Williams, art gallery, and Betty Bullock, personnel, will be absent from office. An acting chairman will fill Miss Williams' position. Petitions will be called for to fill the personnel chairmanship vacancy immediately.

Dick Firman reported on the meeting of the Married Students Programming Committee to bring married students closer to SU activities.

Firman also reported that the Council on Student Travel felt that a travel bureau on the UO campus would be justifiable.

The creative arts committee plans to decorate the three center windows facing the Hello Walk for Christmas, according to Sharon Rafferty, chairman.
