

++ This Week in Pictures ++

UNIDENTIFIED FAN wrestles Referee John Thomas to canvas and poses a threatening blow following the fourth round of a wild bout between Al Butierrez and L. C. Morgan, in Los Angeles. Norman Lockwood, second of Gutierrez, tries to pull irate fan off Thomas. Riotous match which included double knockdown was won by Gutierrez on a TKO.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE Ezra Taft Benson gives a wave with a confident smile after taking witness chair in Washington, at the start of Senate Agriculture Committee hearings on the new administration farm program. The program, already under fire on Capitol Hill, calls for a lowering of minimum price supports on basic commodities.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER clenches his fist as he emphasizes a point during a news conference. The President, at his first meeting with newsmen since Oct. 30, said he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending to a tax increase.

THIS IS A MODEL of the proposed fresh water aquarium for the 1960 World's Fair at Caracas, Venezuela. Spiral ramp is designed so that spectators can descend into the glass-enclosed center of the pool to watch fish swimming around them.

COMEDIAN SID CAESAR, who is returning to television, examines a rifle from his collection of target-shooting weapons at his King's Point, N.Y., home.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON, 64, and his bride New York dress designer, Jane Adler, 33, are all smiles in Robinson's dressing room in National Theater in Washington, D.C., after it was disclosed they were married at nearby Arlington, Va. Robinson is playing the lead in the stage production of "Middle of the Night," a play centering on the May-December marriage of a man to a much younger woman.