

RE WEEK ENDS

Church Groups Plan Nine Sunday Talks

By KAY JOSSELYN
Religious Notes Editor

With tonight's Koffee Klatch, another Religious Emphasis Week closes. Captain Paul G. Linaweaver, a chaplain in the U.S. Navy, will speak on "Marriage Problems Faced by Men in the Armed Services" at 7 p.m. this evening in the Browsing Room.

Many thanks go to this year's R.E. Week committee for very interesting programs. This writer has enjoyed hearing many of the speakers, all of whom have been most generous in sharing their knowledge and their time.

Lutheran Student Association announces a supper meeting Sunday at 5 p.m. with Pastor Weig. The topic for discussion is "What I Believe."

Newman Club will have two masses on Sunday mornings this term. The times for these are 9:00 and 10:30. Confessions will be at 8:40 and 10:10, immediately preceding mass.

Married Couples Invited

At Christian House this Sunday morning Dr. Paul Means will lead a study of Romans dealing with "Original Sin." Another discussion group at the same time will continue an historical study of the Disciples of Christ.

"Survival of the Fittest," concerning the adjustments of young married couples, will be the topic of a panel moderated by Doris Dahlgren at Christian House, Sunday evening.

Wesley will have its regular Sunday morning service at 11 a.m. The sermon topic will be "The Dilemma of Commitment." In the evening, Rev. Stanley Barlow will speak to the group on "God, Real or Imaginary?"

Wesley Plans Daily Classes

Week-day classes at Wesley include "American Protestant Christianity" on Tuesday and "Paul's Letters to Local Churches" on Wednesday. These are taught by Rev. Bob Burton and Rev. Ken Peterson, respectively.

The Roger Williams Fellowship will have its regular meeting at 6:15 Sunday evening at Emerald Baptist Church. An interesting discussion is planned.

Canterbury Club meets regularly for Evensong on Sunday evenings at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Wednesday mornings Communion is celebrated in Gerlinger Hall.

Episcopalian students meet Tuesdays at 4:00 for an Inquirer's Seminar on the study of the Bible. Thursdays, at 4:00 in the Side, the regular Inquirers' group meets to discuss questions of doctrine and the background of the church.

"Is there More Than One Jesus in the New Testament?" This will be the discussion topic at Westminster House Sunday morning at 9:30. Students are invited, also, at 6:00 to the Vespers service at West'M which, this week, will be followed by a period of informal discussion and fellowship.

A new series in a dessert fellowship is beginning this week at Westminster Foundation. The topic for this term's series is "Practical Christianity, and What the Christian Hopes for in Society." Rev. Stanley Barlow will lead the first meeting, which will be Thursday evening at 6:15.

UO Grads to Vie For Same Office

Two former University law students will campaign for the same office Wednesday.

Filing for the Democratic nomination for Lane County Attorney was William F. Frye, 739 E. 15th avenue. Edward N. Fadeley, 2870 Pearl, has announced he will also file soon for the nomination.

Frye was student body president of the law school in 1956 and Fadeley was president in 1957.

Frye has chosen for a slogan: "We need more confidence, and less controversy in the district attorney's office."

Fadeley has not announced a slogan yet, but said, "Lane County deserves a working district attorney, a competent lawyer, and an impartial economical administrator."

Linaweaver Closes RE Week Speeches

"Marriage Problems Faced by Men in the Armed Services" will be discussed by Captain Paul Linaweaver at Goffee Klatch, this evening at 7 p.m. in SU browsing room.

Linaweaver, one of the seven guest speakers at the University for Religious Emphasis Week, has already appeared to several campus groups. This will be his last scheduled address.

Ordained as an Episcopal priest in 1928, Captain Linaweaver served bases here and abroad, and at one time was a fleet chaplain.

Winter Carnival Offers Bargain

Admission tickets and lodging reservations for the Winter Carnival will go on sale today at the SU main desk and the Co-Op.

Lodging reservations for the Feb. 8-9 event will be taken at the Co-Op from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today.

Ticket-holders will be able to exchange them for souvenir buttons at Timberline that weekend. The button entitles the wearer to about $35 worth of entertainment including two day's unlimited use of rope tows and chair lifts at Timberline; free rental of snowshoes, "flying saucers", and ski bicycles and a dance Saturday night. The button costs $5.

A European motif runs through the interior decorations of the lodge.
