By KAY JOSSELYN
Religious News Editor

News from the campus religious houses is scarce this week, although there are undoubtedly many activities. If you would like information about what your group has planned this week, and it isn't found here, call your minister for more information.

Coffee Hour at 9 a.m. begins the Sunday program for Christian House this weekend. This will be followed by two study groups: "Doctrine and Thought of the Disciples of Christ" led by Dr. Carroll Roberts of First Christian Church in Eugene, and study in the Book of Romans with Dr. Paul Means, Department of Religion, University of Oregon.

"Interfaith and Inter-racial Marriages" will be the topic of discussion when the Christian House group meets at 5:30. Jim Rollins, graduate in sociology, will lead the discussion. The group will then go to First Christian Church to hear Don Westerland, senior in philosophy, speak on "Christian Students and the United Nations."

Foreign Students Invited

A special invitation is being extended to international students on campus to join the group for the Sunday evening activities. An informal coffee hour will follow the evening service at First Church.

Canterbury Club will meet Sunday evening for Evensong and a discussion. Guest speaker will be the director of the Salem Mental Hospital. His topic will be "Alcohol and Its Place in Society." Inquirers' groups will be again meeting this week.

Wesley Slate Given

"Living Without Gloves" is Rev. Ken Peterson's sermon topic for the Wesley Foundation student service at 11 Sunday morning. Their evening program will be a continuation of the series about God. Rev. Clarence Forsberg will speak on the topic, "Is God Available?"

Wesley is host tonight to students from Oregon State College at a buffet dinner. Time is 6 p.m. and cost 35 cents. Students are invited to drop by after the game when the house will be open and there will be games and recreation.

Hi-Fi Set Offered In Marlboro Contest

A hi-fi record player will be awarded the living organization which collects the most box tops in the Marlboro contest sponsored by Philip Morris.

Box tops from Marlboro, Philip Morris, Spud or Parliament cigarettes will be accepted for the contest. For further information call DI 5-9912.
