

SEEKS A 'SYSTEM'

Analyst to Talk On U.S. Society

One of today's foremost sociologists, Talcott Parsons, will discuss his analysis of American society for a book he is now writing, Monday night. Parsons will speak on "Analyzing a Large Scale Society as a Social System" at 8 p.m. in the SU Ballroom under the auspices of the sociology department. A discussion period will follow.

During his two-day sojourn on this campus, Parsons will confer with members of the sociology department and will attend student seminars. He will also answer questions at a coffee hour in the Dad's Lounge of the SU on Tuesday from 3-4:30.

Presently at the Center for Advanced Studies at Stanford, Parsons has been at Harvard as an instructor since 1927 and as head of the Department of Social Relations, which he was instrumental in establishing in 1946.

At the Stanford Center, sponsored by the Ford Foundation, outstanding scholars gather to share their ideas and to develop their own original works. Parsons received his Ph.D. at the University of Heidelberg in Germany and before that attended Amherst in the United States.

G. B. Johnson, assistant professor of sociology, describes Parsons as "one of the first American sociologists to call attention to the need for systematic theory in sociology."

Also a Translator

Before Parsons affected American sociology with his "Parsonian" theories, he influenced it with his translation of Max Weber's "Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism" in 1930, the first English rendering of the German book. His own book, "Structure of Social Action," followed in 1937.

Parsons seeks a general theory that explains the whole field of social action, rather than parts of it by building up a unified systematic approach that can be applied to any social situation.

Writings Listed

Since 1950 he has written "Toward a General Theory of Action," "The Social System," and "Essays in Sociological Theory." Recently he collaborated as co-author in writing "Family, Socialization and Interaction Process," "Working Papers in the Theory of Action," and "Economy and Society," besides contributing to many periodicals.

The Department of Social Relations Parsons established at Harvard is a combination of sociology, clinical psychology, social psychology, and social anthropology in an effort to more fully understand the acts of the individual in relation to organized group life.

U. S.-Russia Topic Of Kaffee Klatch

"America's Situation Confronting Russia" will be the topic of discussion at tonight's Kaffee Klatch.

The panel discussion this week will be comprised of R. D. Horn, professor of English; E. G. Ebighausen, professor of physics; and Warren Price, associate professor of journalism.

SU Coffee Hour committee member Michael Lindeman will be the moderator.

The Klatch will begin at 7:30 in the Student Union. Free coffee will be available.

Oregon's Centennial Spurs 'Brainstorms'

Oregon's Centennial Celebration next year was the object of a visit to the campus Wednesday by Morrie Sharp, advertising manager of the Oregon Journal, who is working with the publicity and promotion for the celebration.

Sharp held a discussion session with members of Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising honorary, concerning specific suggestions for centennial promotion.

The honorary had previously compiled a list of some 125 suggestions for promotion of the event, and submitted it to the Celebration's promotion committee for consideration.

Poetry, Music Slated Monday

Mrs. Otilie Seybolt, director emerita of the school of dramatics and speech, will read selected poetry to music Monday night in room 202 of the Student Union.

Mrs. Seybolt has been on the University campus since 1932 as an associate professor in speech and drama. Last year she participated in "The Chalk Garden," an English dramatic production. She has also appeared in town theatre plays.

The poetry reading program Monday night, will consist of two readings, at 8 p.m. and 9 p.m., of both English and American poetry. The readings will be selected from the works of early poets, sixteenth century poets, and from contemporary work.

The selections will be chosen from requests made by students to Mrs. Seybolt, with consideration given to their adaptability to music.

The program is free and tickets are available at the main desk of the SU.

Bank Sponsors Unusual Course

BY ERWIN BORING
Emerald Staff Writer

Combining a broad academic foundation and practical on-the-job experience, 21 young men are enrolled in the School of Business Administration this year as part of the work-college program sponsored by the United States National Bank.

Through the six-year program the bank seeks to develop men for responsible positions in its organization. Qualifications of the trainees upon completion of the program include a bachelor's degree and three years of banking experience.

Fifty-eight men are presently enrolled in the program throughout the state.

Candidates are selected each year from Oregon high school seniors through interviews by the head office or branches of the U. S. National Bank.

After tentative selections have been made the trainees work part-time in the bank through the final three months of their high school education.

Final Selection

Final selection of trainees occurs when they are graduated from high school. At that time the qualifying trainee is given a position with the bank and placed on a monthly salary. For the next 15 months he will work in the bank, saving $100 from each month's earnings toward college living expenses.

When he completes this initial "phase" of the program, he will enroll at the Oregon college or university of his choice.

The bank then pays the tuition

'Little Captain' Race Now Narrowed to Six

Pershing Rifles narrowed the group of "Little Captain" candidates to six Thursday night. One more elimination is planned before the Army ROTC Military Ball next term.

Candidates remaining are: Vauna Pipal, Alpha Omicron Pi; Trish Seifert, Kappa Alpha Theta; Nancy Drew, Alpha Phi; Sue Barrington, Alpha Delta Pi; Rosanne Gostovich, Carson 4; and Sandra Whitney of Delta Gamma.

costs at the state-supported schools or an equivalent amount if the trainee should decide to enter a privately endowed institution. In addition, the trainee will receive a $50 textbook allowance. The $1,500 which he has saved during his year of employment will cover his board, room, and other expenses.

Leave of Absence

The trainee is granted a leave of absence to attend four terms of school: fall, winter, spring, and summer. Afterwards, he returns to the bank for additional experience, saving this time $120 monthly.

From then on he will alternate periods of work at the bank with schooling until he graduates in some field of business or economics.

After graduation the trainee is guaranteed a position with the bank at not less than $4,500 annual salary. If there are no interruptions in the program, this will come just six years following high school graduation.

If the trainee should be drafted or volunteer for military service he will be granted a leave of absence and the right to return to the program at the completion of his tour of duty.

Need Told

The need for its program the bank points out by citing the fact that there are over 500,000 people employed by 14,000 banks in the United States at the present time, with over 88,000 serving as officers.

Students from Portland who are here under the program are Dick Boden, Erwin Boring, Gerry Cameron, Mel Campbell, Eric Larsen, Harvey Meyer, Jerry Mikeworth, George Morgan, and Bud Snodgrass.

Attending the University from other parts of the state are Roger Bullis, Corvallis; Dick Frantz, Hillsboro; Darrel Hansen, Oregon City; Howard Hansen, LaGrande; Harold Hawkins, Eugene; Miles Hutchins and Keith Miles, Bend; Barry Kremkau, Ontario; Rod Olson, Medford; Dave Quivy, Springfield; Ed Scheidel, Salem; and Howard Turner, Roseburg.

A. B. Stillman, professor emeritus of business administration, advises the group.

Friday at Four Will Feature Delt Finalists

In conjunction with their Delta Queen contest, members of Delta Tau Delta will present their second annual Friday at Four in the S.U.

The program will be composed of Delt talent, emceed by Tom Waldrop. Included in the program will be several musical numbers by the Delt band, and two songs by Bob McCullough on the guitar and Bob Curtis on the banjo. Also scheduled are songs by Marlan Holland, the Delta Four, and the guest Dixieland Band from Delta Upsilon.

Five Finalists

The highlight of the show will be the introduction of the five Delta Queen finalists, including Carlyn Compton, Kappa Alpha Theta; Carole Dean, Alpha Gamma Delta; Carol Eskola, Chi Omega; Sally May, Delta Gamma; and Marilynn Reaney, Pi Beta Phi.

The Queen will be announced and crowned at approximately 10:30 p.m. Saturday night, Feb. 22, mid-way during the Delt house dance. All are invited to attend the crowning.

Co-ops Choose New President

The three University co-ed co-operatives elected new Co-ed Housing Board members and officers at their annual meeting Monday night in the Student Union.

Dolly Kaminek of Highland House was unanimously re-elected president of the board, and Marlene Walker, also of Highland House, was elected vice-president. Sharon Perdue, Rebec House, was chosen secretary of the board, and Donna Horn of University House, was picked as treasurer.

The new board members, each serving two years, are Donna Horn and Penny Hayes, Rebec House; and Marlene Walker and Annelle Davenport, Highland House.

Dr. Roland Bartel accepted the position of faculty co-advisor after being unanimously nominated by the board members.

200 Frosh to Aid With Heart Drive

Two hundred University freshmen will help collect donations in Springfield and in the areas surrounding the campus Sunday afternoon for the Lane County Heart Fund Drive.

A party will be held following the drive in the Eugene Hotel. Dancing and refreshments will be served.

Geologist to Speak

E. M. Baldwin, assistant professor of geology, will speak at the Oregon Marine Biological Society meeting Saturday in Portland. His subject will be "Pleistocene Geology of the Oregon Coast."
