Emerald Choices Listed For Best Performances

BY JOHN LENGEL
Emerald Entertainment Editor

It's prestige time, March 26, the date set for this year's academy awards. Prestige, plus an estimated quarter million dollars to the top actor and actress for any of their future pictures. Who will be tapped to walk down the aisle of Hollywood's Pantages theater and accept their Oscar?

These people will undoubtedly be there since they're this year's nominees. The nominations this year accent a strong foreign flavor, which is indicative of a current trend in filmland.

Guinness Nominated

The nominees for top acting awards this year include, English great Alec Guinness for "Bridge on the River Kwai;" accomplished veteran Charles Laughton for "Witness for the Prosecution;" Actor's Studio products Marlon Brando and Anthony Franciosa for "Sayonara," and "A Hatful of Rain;" respectively. Rounding out the five nominees is Anthony Quinn for his work in "Wild is the Wind."

ThiMk!

The awards for top actress represent a general lack of thought. We have Deborah Kerr for "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison;" Lana Turner, "Peyton Place;" Elizabeth Taylor, "Raintree County;" Jo Anne Woodward, "The Three Faces of Eve;" and past Oscar winner Anna Magnani for "Wild is the Wind."

For Best supporting actor: Sessue Hayakawa, Red Buttons, Vittorio De Sica, Arthur Kennedy, and Russ Tamblyn.

Best supporting actress: Elsa Lancaster, Carolyn Jones, Hope Lange, Diane Varsi, and Miyoshi Umeki.

Scrutiny Yet

As for predictions. The list underwent intense scrutiny by the Entertainment Editor and his staff. After careful deliberation the list of nominees was torn to pieces and dropped in a cup of 'Side' coffee. In a moment the results of that move.

The last names to crashdive into the depth of the cup were—Alec Guinness, Deborah Kerr, Sessue Hayakawa, and Elsa Lancaster, but as yet the Motion Picture Academy hasn't sent for them.

Noticeably absent from this year's nominations were John Agar, Brian Donlevy, the Creature from the Black Lagoon, Sal Mineo, Rory Calhoun, Natilie Wood, and Mario Lanza.

Applications Due Soon For Women's Grants

Kwama, Phi Theta Upsilon, and AWS will give several scholarships of varying sums to deserving women next terms. Applications for these scholarships may be picked up in Mrs. Wickham's office in Emerald Hall and should be returned to her office no later than April 1.
