

DR. LINUS PAULING, center, California Institute of Technology chemistry professor, poses with two lawyers, A. L. Wirin, left, of Los Angeles, and Francis Heisler of Carmel, Calif., outside Federal District Court in Washington. Pauling is one of a group seeking to prevent any more nuclear weapons tests by the U.S., Russia and Britain. Six U.S. government officials are defendants in the suit filed in Washington. Court action also is sought in Russia and Britain.

PARTLY A DRESS is what Hollywood model Ann Paige calls this air conditioned creation. It consists of two brocaded panels and self-confidence, held together with a series of elastic straps. She wore it to the Hollywood premiere of Danny Kaye's "Merry Andrew."

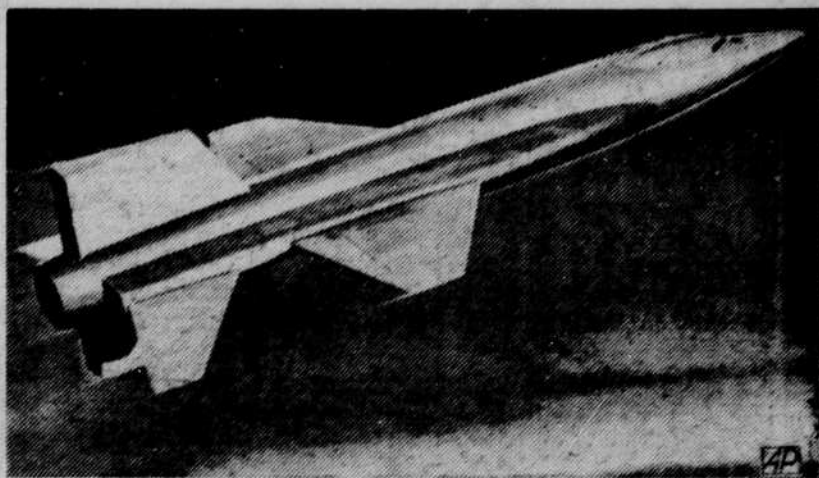

CHERYL CRANE, 14-year-old daughter of actress Lana Turner, clings to the hand of her father, Stephen Crane, as she is taken to the juvenile detention quarters of the Beverly Hills, Calif., jail. The girl was booked on suspicion of murder after underworld figure Johnny Stompanato was stabbed to death in the bedroom of Lana's home. Crane and Miss Turner have been divorced since 1944. At left is an unidentified police officer.

SECRETARY OF STATE John Foster Dulles holds a model of a 19th century locomotive presented to him recently in Washington after he revealed a boyhood ambition to be a train engineer.

A THIRD GENERATION Fairbanks is 18-year-old Daphne, daughter of Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and Queen of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester, Virginia in May.

DESTINED FOR SPACE, this is the first official artist's conception of the plane designed to penetrate beyond the atmosphere. The rocket powered plane is currently under development as the Los Angeles division of North American Aviation for the Air Force, Navy and the NACA.
