

GOAL AT $6,000

Greater Oregon to solicit fees

A Greater Oregon fund raising drive will be held next Tuesday, Jim Larpenteur, Greater Oregon chairman, announced today.

A tentative goal has been set at $6,000. The method for raising the funds money will be students signing over the remainder of their breakage fees, as was done last year when over $7,000 was pledged to Millrace restoration.

The money will be used in four areas, Larpenteur said:

- 1) preparing a colored brochure on the University to be sent to students interested in enrollment.
 - 2) producing a movie on the University, to be sent around the state.
 - 3) preparing pamphlets on the professional schools and departments within the College of Liberal Arts.
 - 4) financing "summer rush" for promising high school seniors—contacting alumni and prospective students.
- Larpenteur estimated that these four phases of the Greater

Group to study 'window' policy

Windows in Walton Hall dormitory will remain open, H. P. Barnhart, director of dormitories, said Tuesday, unless the work of a special "investigation" committee proves otherwise.

The "open window" controversy was begun when dorm residents complained of room temperatures near 85 degrees. On May 9, Walter Freauff, assistant dorm director, gave temporary permission for opening of the windows.

The windows were bolted shut, and it was necessary for physical plant workers to open them.

Barnhart said that the windows were designed to be opened only with a special tool. He commented that when the dormitory was built, officials believed that the ventilation system would be adequate without opening windows.

The current investigation will check into all the possibilities, Barnhart said, and future plans will depend on the findings.

Coffee hour to host visiting newsmen

William Worthy, one of three American newsmen who entered Communist China against the wishes of the U.S. State Department, will speak at a coffee hour this Thursday at 4 p.m. in the SU.

Worthy, correspondent for the Baltimore Afro-American and special correspondent in Russia, Africa, and China, for CBS News, is currently plaintiff in a suit against Secretary of State Dulles for renewal of his passport.

During three round-the-world tours of duty, Worthy has covered (Continued on page 3)

Music school sets Thursday concert

A wind instrument chamber music program will be presented by the school of music Thursday at 1 p.m. in the school's auditorium.

The program, under the direction of Robert Wagner, will consist of seven selections.

Students featured in the program include Edward LaFranchi, Larry Towns, Scott Phillips, Perry Morgan, Larry Schmele, Dwight Vance, Dean Madsen, Paul Pearson, Patricia Miles, Kay Gibson, Roderick Wright, Robert Culver, and Audrey Bugher.

'Organization' Oregon to be distributed

Organization copies of the 1958 Oregon will be distributed in room 101 of the Student Union Thursday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Oregans are still on sale in room 307 of the SU for $6.75 apiece.

Banquet to feature radiation scientist

A special consultant to the U.S. government on atomic radiation will be tonight's guest speaker at the joint initiation banquet for Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi.

Lauren R. Donaldson, professor of fisheries and director of the laboratory of radiation biology at the University of Washington, will speak to the academic honoraries on "The Atomic Energy Program—Biological Implications."

The banquet is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

Heads 'Primary' Laboratory

The laboratory which Donaldson heads has been, since about 1943, the primary contracting agency for studies of the effects of radioactivity on aquatic life.

Donaldson and his staff are conducting field studies of the amount, location, and distribution of radioactivity at Bikini, Eniwetok, and Rongelap Atolls and on the long-range effects of this radioactivity on aquatic and land plants and animals of the Marshall Islands.

Was at Bikini

Donaldson was present at the "Operations Crossroads" experiment at Bikini in the summer of 1946 as chief of the division of radiobiology.

The Washington professor was sent to Japan in the spring of 1954 as a special consultant to the U.S. Department of State during the crisis which resulted from the contamination of the Japanese fishing vessel Fukuryu Maru from atomic tests in the Pacific.

Many students in cast for 'Mirror' production

A crowd of University students and townspeople have been gathering at McArthur Court every evening this week. However, the attraction isn't a sports event, but the final rehearsals for this weekend's opening of "Mirror for the Sky."

Participating in the musical are a combined chorus of some 250 students, staff and personnel of the University Theatre, the University-Eugene symphony orchestra, and a large number of students and townspeople in musical and acting roles.

Tickets Still Available

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday night performances, which will begin at 8 p.m., may be reserved at the University Theatre box office, ext. 401.

The author of "Mirror" is Jessamyn West, who also wrote the best-seller, "Friendly Persuasion." The musical score is by Gail Kubik, who has received a Pulitzer prize for other works.

Both will be on campus for the world premiere, and will be featured in various campus programs this week.

History Started in '48

The history of "Mirror for the Sky," a musical biography of John Audubon, famous naturalist and artist, goes back to 1948, when Miss West and Kubik were commissioned to write the play.

Apparently the large scope of the production prevented Broadway presentation of the musical. It was later considered for a Hollywood production, but was dropped after the studio had invested $100,000 in the film.

Robinson Was Interested

Horace Robinson, director of the UT, became interested in the work while directing an Oregon pageant which included some of Kubik's numbers.

Later, when the University formulated plans for this year's "Art and Progress" theme of the annual Festival of Arts, the work was selected for its world premiere production.

'Mirror's' author lectures Thursday

Miss Jessamyn West, author of the forthcoming musical "Mirror for the Sky" and the best-seller, "Friendly Persuasion," will lecture Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Dad's Lounge of the Student Union.

Her topic will be "To See the Dream."

Miss West is also author of "Cress Delaney," a Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and a number of short stories, some of which have appeared in the New Yorker.

She will be introduced by Robert Horn, professor of English.

Hatch to discuss Burmese people

"Burma—Her Arts and People" will be the subject of the Browsing Room lecture to be given by David P. Hatch, assistant professor of art, tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Hatch will show movies and slides taken during a visit to Burma, made in 1956 on a Fulbright fellowship. After his work on the fellowship was completed, the University gave Hatch a grant for graduate research, which enabled him to remain there for another three months.

Tribes of Burma

Hatch's lecture will primarily concern the tribal peoples of Burma, "considered as foreigners by most Burmans," he said. His university grant, enabled him to spend three months in the hills and jungles with several tribes.

Mainly interested in the arts and crafts of the Burmans, Hatch also will discuss political and economic aspects of that country.

Discussion leader for Hatch's speech will be Theodore Stern, associate professor of anthropology.

Hatch, who came to the University in 1952, received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of California at Berkeley, in 1951. In 1955, he received his master's degree from UCLA.

Folklore President

During 1954-55, he was president of the Oregon Chapter of the American Folklore Society. He is a member of the American Ceramic Society, the Pacific Arts

The Greater Oregon committee has called for petitions for all positions exclusive of general chairman.

Petitions must be filed by 5 p.m. Friday.

Petitioners will meet next Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Student Union.

Petitioners include work on student contact, visitation, publicity, finance, correspondence, special events and brochure committees.

Oregon program would cost approximately $6,000.

Students to Publicize

Sixty-seven students will be sent to campus living organizations next Tuesday—either at dormitory meeting times or at dinnertime. They will have cards with which students can sign over to Greater Oregon the remainder of their breakage fees.

Cards will be available also at the Student Union and the Co-op Tuesday.

Oregon 'Not Ahead'

Larpenteur emphasized that the initiation of the four phases of the program would not necessarily put Oregon ahead of other colleges in high school rushing.

Oregon State College puts out a brochure and movie, Larpenteur said, as do many other colleges and universities.

General chairman of the fund drive is Roger Diddock, senior in education.

Inquiry ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee ordered a full fledged inquiry into U.S.-Latin American relations Tuesday in the wake of attacks on Vice President Nixon.

The committee was assigned to a subcommittee headed by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

The action was taken shortly after Morse told reporters the State Department's own testimony shows that Nixon's mob-molested South American tour was a "trouble causing trip" which Morse said the Vice President should not have undertaken.
