'Cry' drama at SEHS a well-acted production

By EVERETT CUTTER

South Eugene High School students, with "Teach Me How To Cry," have taken a play weak on plot and strong in mood, charged it with more mood, and come up with a dramatic production well worth seeing.

The psychological drama plays tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The play was written by a new playwright, Patricia Joudry, and after a successful run at an off-Broadway theater was made into the movie, "The Restless Years."

TV to program variety of shows

By TOM DOGGETT

As finals leave TV sets dark across the campus, students may look forward to carefree hours of viewing after next week. As this issue is devoted to a look ahead in the entertainment world, here are some advance notes from the channels.

Fans of Gumshoe Peter Gunn will be happy to learn his show along with NBC running mate Bat Masterson has been renewed for another 26 weeks. CBS gets into the act this month as jazzman Pete Rugolo will begin composing a jazz background for Richard Diamond, Private Detective.

For sports fans, two of the major networks are in the bidding for the June heavyweight championship title fight between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson. Reported price to lure the bout away from theatre television is $400,000.

There will be many specials in the spring breeze from Hollywood and New York. Durable Jane Powell will star in a two hour CBS special on April 26th. Title of the epic is "Meet Me in St. Louis," and Jane will play the role originally done by Judy Garland in the movie.

CBS will "Swing into Spring" on April 10th with swinging Benny Goodman. Rosemary Clooney and husband Jose Ferrer will sing together on the next Bell Telephone Hour show, April 9th.

On March 30, CBS presents a special for Coca Cola featuring the dancing of Marge and Gower Champion in the park area under San Francisco Golden Gate Bridge. Rocker Dick Clark will edge away from the frantic side of music somewhat in his two specials for ABC this spring.

Other programs of interest this coming term will include the "David Niven Show," to replace "The Californians" Tuesday nights on NBC. Niven, who has made so many pictures not even he can remember them all, will be featured in an anthology series beginning in April.

On "You asked for It," old timer Eddie Cantor will narrate a show called Broadway Backstage, time, April 1. On April 8, two more old timers in the comedy business, Chico and Harpo Marx will star on GE Theatre titled "Best Laid Plans." It's a story completely without dialogue, a satire on the French movie "Rififi," concerning a bank robbery. That would be a bad place to have network video outage.

At this time, some changes are being planned for KOAC-TV, but details are not available.

Seventh Voyage of Sinbad." Later showings will include "Bell, Book, and Candle" (Kim Novak, James Stewart), "Me and the Colonel" (Danny Kaye), and a new Mr. Hulot comedy, "My Uncle."

Add to these features all the events planned on campus and you get the entertainment picture for spring term.
