Koplin named Honors head

By MARY JO STEWART
Emerald News Editor

H. T. Koplin, associate professor of economics, has been appointed director of the University's Honors College by President O. Meredith Wilson.

Koplin, who received his BA from Oberlin College and his doctorate from Cornell University, joined the Oregon staff in 1950. He is chairman of the honors council which administers the present upper-division honors program.

Marquis heads committee

The first committee for the Honors College was announced by Koplin Tuesday night. Headed by Lucian Marquis, assistant professor of political science, the nine-man group will set up curriculum for the college.

Other members of the committee are: John Hulteng, assistant professor of journalism; Stan Pierson, assistant professor of history; Richard Liptman, assistant professor of psychology; Kester Svendsen, head of the English department; P. J. Powers, assistant professor of foreign languages; B. T. Scheer, head of the biology department; Kenneth Ghent, assistant professor of mathematics; and John Powell, professor of physics.

Students to serve

"This is going to be a big job, but every man asked to serve, agreed to," Koplin said. Two more committees will be announced later to handle admissions and physical facilities for the Honors College.

"There will definitely be student participation in setting up the Honors program," Koplin said.

"I am now soliciting suggestions from students and faculty on the form this should take. I think we will select a committee, rather than try to elect them or something like that," he added.

Full agenda set for Senate meet

Members of the ASUO Senate will tackle a full agenda when they meet Thursday night, with the appointment of a junior class representative heading the list.

H. T. Koplin, new Senate faculty member, will discuss recent developments in the Honors College, which he heads. Koplin's report will include an outline of the suggested curriculum.

Senate will consider the Women's Recreation Association's request for about $1,500 from student funds.

Constitution committee

Names of five persons who have been jointly approved by University President O. Meredith Wilson and ASUO President Gary Gregory will be considered by the Senate for appointment to the Constitution committee. They include Jim Lynch, John Ohm, J. N. Tattersall, economics instructor, and M. F. Moss, accounting professor.

Gregory said a proposal will be made to boost grade requirements for participants in ASUO activities, requiring students to have a 2.25 cumulative G.P.A. and a 2.25 for the previous term.

Persons presently holding appointive or elective positions would be excluded should the proposal get Senate approval.

According to ASUO vice-president Pete Wengert, the Senate will be asked to appear at the annual foreign students reception October 27. Chairman Bob Richardson will outline program for Homecoming.

Elections

Wengert will outline plans for the October 28 primary election and will name the candidates. Positions to be filled by November 4 elections include freshman class president, vice-president, ASUO senate representative, freshman men's dormitory representative, freshman women's dormitory representative, graduate student representative and

Ten petitions in for senate post

Ten petitions, including eight from campus women, have been submitted for junior class representative, according to Dave Rianda, chairman of senate screening committee which will interview petitioners today.

Committee will choose five persons to appear before the Senate Thursday night. Petitioners are: Barbara Buckhorn, Margie Meihoff, Jean Ramage, Merv Thompson, Jennifer Bain, Nancy Drew, Judy Hendershott, Gail Rahkola, Suzanne Brouillard and Leamon Willrett.

Rianda said late petitions would be accepted until noon today.

'No change' word on injured coed

Ann Creager, University sophomore, is still unconscious at Emanuel Hospital in Portland from head injuries received in an accident there Saturday night.

"The doctors sounded encouraging," her brother, Tom Creager, said Tuesday night. "Time and rest count in a case like this; all we can do is wait."

Driver of the car, Huston Bunce, 19, Portland, escaped with a broken arm, and another passenger, Mary Sue Woolfolk, was released from the hospital with eight stitches closing a head gash.

Queen candidates narrowed to 20

Homecoming queen candidates were narrowed from a total of 41 to 20 in the first round of eliminations Monday night. The following girls, who will meet again tonight, are asked to wear the same attire as the first interview.

Girls being interviewed tonight are: Margaret Reedy, 5:50; Nancy Drew, 5:55; Carol Stolk, 6; Lynn Yarnell, 6:05; Diana Scott, 6:10; Linda Lee Peterson, 6:15; Betsy Lee, 6:20; Dial Bridges, 6:25; Judy Eggen, 6:30; Virginia Curtis, 6:35; Kay Brunn, 6:40; Ardy Urbigkeit, 6:45; Gaye McEwen, 6:50; Irene Street, 5:55; Connie Ayotte, 7; Marilyn Mahle, 7:05; Kathy Knowlton, 7:10; Sue Wilhelm, 7:15; Babs Horn, 7:20; Marsha Edge, 7:25.

World News In Brief

Quints: first in US

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — The wife of an Air Force lieutenant has given birth to five tiny girls in San Antonio, Texas.

If they survive, they will be the first quintuplets in US history. The new quints, daughters of Lieutenant and Mrs. Charles Hannan, are only the 47th set of quintuplets to be born in recorded world history.

Doctors at the Air Force hospital say the babies are in poor condition, due to their small size and their premature birth. They were born three months early and have been placed in incubators. However, doctors are hopeful for survival.

FBI: investigates

PORTSMOUTH, New Hampshire (UPI) — The Navy has asked the FBI to investigate what it calls the "apparently intentional" damage to cables of the atomic submarine "Nutilus."

The damage was discovered while the vessel was undergoing routine overhaul at Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Navy spokesmen said the FBI will determine whether sabotage was involved.

Space program: talked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House conference on the frequently criticized US space programs will be held this morning.

President Eisenhower has summoned his top military and civilian science advisers to the meeting. The conference comes on the heels of the resignation of Major General John Medaris, head of the Army Ballistic Missile agency. While Medaris denied that his retirement is due to dissatisfaction with space programs, he did say the US is five years behind Russia in space.

Belluschi stresses design simplicity

By KEN FRIESEN

Pietro Belluschi, dean of the School of Architecture and Planning at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, gave an informal talk to about 175 architecture students and faculty last night in Lawrence Hall. His impromptu discussion centered around beginning students finding the key to simplicity in architecture.

Culture important

Becoming interested in all the facets of human activities is one thing the beginning architect must do, he said. Another step in finding simplicity is to have reached an understanding of the values of culture, he said.

Above all "you have to attain culture." This culture will aid in arriving at the restraint needed in architecture, he commented. "Ninety per cent of the architects lack restraint." Restraint, he added, is to bring out only the important things that should be conveyed in a design.

After becoming "pre-assured in your values," Belluschi said, the architect is ready to learn how to make people happy through his designs. Architecture must "satisfy the demands of the spirit."

Architecture leader

Belluschi, a former Portland architect and educator, will take part in the Charter Day Convocation today. He is one of three men who will receive awards for distinguished service to the state. He is considered a world leader in contemporary architecture.

Belluschi was introduced by Walter Gordon, dean of the School of Architecture at the University.

Tonight at 8 George Boas, professor emeritus of history of philosophy, the Johns Hopkins University, will deliver an address, "In Defense of Our Time." He will speak in the SU Ballroom.

Boas will be introduced by Robert D. Clark, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Simmons of Temple Beth Israel, Eugene. The University Band, under the direction of Robert S. Vagner, will play Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring (from Cantata 147) by Bach.

Introducing guests and speakers will be University President O. Meredith Wilson. Following the Stoke address the University Singers, under the direction of Max D. Risinger, will sing "Grant unto me the joy of my salvation" by Brahms.

Awards for distinguished service will be presented to Pietro

No rally planned for weekend game

Rally Board took no actions on a rally for the Washington game this weekend, at its meeting Thursday. They also did not plan a send-off for the team.

Judy Eggen, Rally Board chairman, said that most of the meeting was spent in discussing lack of student cooperation with the Board and the letter-to-the-editor appearing in Monday's Emerald.

The Board announced that it will police the seating at the Homecoming game, along with help from the Senate.
