Graduate gets stewardess job

Sue Helfrecht, who graduated from the University last year with a major in business administration, has been assigned to flight duty out of Washington, D.C. as an American Airlines stewardess. A 1955 graduate of Pendleton High School, Miss Helfrecht was student body secretary at the University, Homecoming Princess, and "Swamp Girl" for Sigma Phi Epsilon. Last year she served as a counselor at Carson Hall.

Her course of training at the airline's stewardess college in Fort Worth, Texas, included such subjects as flight operations, principles of meteorology, radio techniques, airline schedules and tariffs, customer relations, as

Student elected to YWCA office

Kay Wald, a junior majoring in political science, was elected YWCA Regional Vice-Chairman at a regional holiday conference held at the Boy Scout Training Center at Portland, Dec. 26-31.

Miss Wald, a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, has been counseling at Hendricks Hall this year.

Diana Scott, a senior majoring in sociology and member of Chi Omega sorority, has served as YWCA regional president for the past year.

Wondering: What would happen if somebody actually did say hello to a stranger on hello walk? ... Who was the red-faced boy who was dumped on the Theta's porch during final week wearing nothing but his Munsingwear shorts and an embarrassed grin? ... Why did people join one long line extending outside the building and down the block during registration where there were three or four short lines inside for the same class?

The strangest things happen to freshmen: One girl accepted a blind date, not very hopefully, but when the night rolled around she found a tall, intriguing fellow in the lobby. She had a wonderful time... until she returned and found she'd gone out with the wrong guy.

Professor Warren Price of the journalism school, who for years has regaled his students with his not too complimentary opinions of Oregon weather, has made a compact with the Lord that if rainfall decreases by 1.5 inches this year he will not make any comments. However, he says, if it decreases only 1.4999, he will not feel obligated. Shouldst thou quibble with the Lord, professor?

Another professor, talking about the "angry young men" wondered why one never hears about outraged young women.

YWCA to recruit members

The winter term YWCA membership drive will begin Monday, Jan. 11, for freshmen women and Tuesday, Jan. 12, for upper class women.

Frosh commission leaders will be recruiting members in freshmen dormitories, and Senior Cabinet and House Council members will solicit members in sorority house and upper class dormitories. A special committee headed by Bette Lush, membership chairman, and Connie McGonigle, YWCA president, will call on women's co-ops.

The membership drive will end Jan. 15, and people interested in joining the YWCA who have not been contacted by then may contact the YWCA office at Gerlinger Hall.

Frosh commission advisors and leaders held a meeting and dinner last night at Gerlinger Hall to plan commission programs for winter term.
