

Young Demo prexy lauds student group

Encouraged by the success of the Young Democrats in the Lane County Platform convention held in Eugene last weekend, Mike McClosky, president of the group, spoke highly of the organizational techniques which made it possible for the YD's to push through a last minute plank favoring the abolition of compulsory ROTC in land grant colleges.

AS PART of reorganization planning in the Eugene club this year, the University group helped make up a list of state and national issues for the platform convention and obtained memberships on all standing committees. McClosky, who was elected secretary of the convention, estimated that one fourth of the planks in the platform adopted by the county were written by Young Democrats.

Other achievements listed by the group this year were the election of a Young Democrat as a delegate to the state planning convention to be held in Salem on January 29 and 30, the appointment of another member, Bernard Saalfeld as organizational chairman of the West Eugene area and the inauguration of a permanent voting membership on the executive board of the Lane County Democratic Central committee for the president of the YD.

THE GROUP, which numbers 160 members, was completely reorganized at the beginning of this year, according to McClosky. They received a charter, wrote an entirely new constitution, elected new officers, and conducted an intensive membership campaign at registration time.

Although the Young Democrats constitution prohibits the sponsoring of any particular Democratic candidate by the group, several members, acting individually, are conducting active campaigns for presidential candidates. The group also hopes to sponsor events featuring candidates as election time approaches.

AT THE PRESENT time, the group plans to continue its monthly speaker meetings. State Senator Robert Straub, who is chairman of the state Democratic party, will speak in February. Tentative plans have been made for election of officers on January 21.

Journal accepts Maveety's article

Stanley R. Maveety, assistant professor of English, has been notified by "Journal of English and Germanic Philology" that his article, "The Glossary to the Rheims New Testament," has been accepted for publication.

Maveety became interested in the glossary while working on his doctorate at Stanford University. This glossary to the original Rheims translation of the 16th century is commonly thought to be simply a list of "inkhorns" or uncommon words set aside to help the reader. Maveety attempts to prove in his article that these words were common at the time and that many of them have a doctrinal significance.

Because of a high amount of accepted articles the "Journal" told Maveety publication of his manuscript would be delayed two years.

Dull ...

(Continued from page 1) Dull explained the Chinese frame of mind that has to be dealt with in formation of a China policy. The Chinese philosophy is now being taught through aggressive nationalism, Dull said.

"I advocate a big helping of languages," he said, speaking of the problem of communication with China, and looking, as he did throughout the speech, at the problem from the Chinese standpoint.

"NO ONE right now is going to control the Chinese Communist leaders. We must also explore how the Chinese regard Russia as well as how they regard us."

Dull was introduced by D. S. Willis, associate professor of oriental languages. The next University assembly will be Jan. 26.

Students, minister attend conference

Twenty-one students and one campus minister from the University returned last week from the international student conference in Athens, Ohio, where 3,609 students from virtually every culture in the world gathered from December 27 to January 2 to consider modern issues in Christian perspective.

Sponsored by the Commission on World Mission of the National Student Christian Federation, it was the eighteenth ecumenical student conference on the Christian World Mission. Students considered such issues as technological upheaval, new nationalisms, racial tensions, militant non-Christian faiths, and new patterns of obedience in mission.

Ted Yamamori and the Reverend Robert G. Kingsbury served as Bible group leaders at the conference.

Infirmary

Nancy J. Garwood, Audrey Moberg, Constance M. Tsigris, Harriet Hungate, Frieda Carol Van Ryan, Patricia Tsubaki, Barbara Courtney, Lacy Jones, Sandra Misko, Fred Vogan, Harley Laflin, Pete Richardson, Alexander Gonzales, James May, Stephen Anderson, and Kenneth Newman were confined in the infirmary Tuesday.

Hines co-authors education article

Clarence Hines, professor of education at the University and Mrs. Montana H. Rickards of Beaverton, are co-authors of an article, "Eugene Used a Contractors' Advisory Committee," which appears in the January issue of the "American School Board Journal."

The article explains how, after it was exposed to more than the usual amount of pressure, the Eugene school board turned to an advisory committee of local contractors for help when it had additional schools to plan.

"The committee certainly justified itself from the community standpoint," the article concluded. "Criticism of the buildings was reduced, but not eliminated; it was redirected to the educational facilities provided since there was little basis for criticism of design, materials or cost."

Campus Briefs

• The Student Union Board is calling for petitions for chairmanships of the following Student Union committees: dance, talent, creative arts, and coffee hours. Sophomores, juniors and seniors with a 2.0 GPA or above are eligible. Petitions are available on the third floor of the SU and are due no later than 5 p.m. January 22.

• Bowling tryouts for women will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the SU.

• Any girl interested in participating in any of the WRA intramurals offered winter term may sign up in Gerlinger on the WRA bulletin board by January 15. Activities include trampoline interest group, basketball, badminton, and table tennis.

• WUS petitions for general chairman, assistant chairman, publicity and promotions, general secretary, assistant chairman for education, assistant chairman for special events, and assistant chairman for solicitations are due January 18.

• The director of the Student Health Service warns that students should get smallpox and tetanus booster shots now as protection is needed more at this time of the year.

• Oregon Daily Emerald news and business staff members are reminded that Oregon pictures will be taken Thursday at 4:15 p.m. in 301 Allen Hall. Only students who are currently working on the paper are asked to report.

• There will be a general Panhellenic meeting at the Sigma Kappa house Thursday at 6:45 p.m.

• Phi Theta Upsilon will meet Thursday noon in The Side.

• Petitions are called for by Associated Women Students to fill the vacated position of treasurer until late February when elections will be held. The position is open to junior women and petitions must be filed at the AWS office in the SU by 5 p.m. today.

• All members of Alpha Phi Omega are requested to attend the meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the SU. The room will be posted. Pictures for the Oregonian will be taken and projects for the remainder of the year will be discussed.

• The University debate squad will present a round table discussion in the SU Dad's Lounge today at 4 p.m.

Humphrey backers organize group

A University of Oregon Humphrey for President club was formed January 12 in a meeting held on the University campus.

The intent of the organization is to bring public attention to the candidacy and policies of Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota for consideration between now and the 1960 primary and general elections in Oregon.

A STATEMENT prepared at this meeting enthusiastically endorses the candidacy of Humphrey because his stands show him to be the leader that the United States needs to lead the nation through its problems in foreign and domestic affairs.

As a college professor, pharmacist, mayor of Minneapolis and senator from Minnesota, the group continues, Hubert Humphrey has shown an understanding of the problems of all Americans, and has worked diligently to represent all facets of American life and American people.

The temporary officers selected at this meeting were: chairman, Roger Buchanan; executive board members, Robert Ackerman, Jack E. Vincent, Sidney Herzog and Archie Kleingartner.
