By AL HYNDING

The time was autumn, Sept. 28, 1957 to be exact. It was a Rose Bowl year for Oregon's grid Ducks, but you wouldn't have guessed it from the defeat the Ducks absorbed that balmy Saturday evening in Portland's Multnomah Stadium.

PITTSBURGH'S mammoth Panthers had come to the Rose City to test an Oregon eleven that had managed only a shakey 9-6 victory over weak Idaho the week before. The Panthers of Johnny Michelosen boasted the largest line in college football that year, including two All-Americans, center Charlie Brueckman, and 245 lb. tackle Jim McCusker. They weighed 229 lbs. on the average.

But the heavy Pitt eleven had one weakness the Duck's hoped to capitalize on . . . lack of speed.

With a line hovering around the 200 lb. mark, the Webfoots that Saturday evening were looking to their lightning backfield of Jack Morris, Jim Shanley, Charlie Tourville, and Jack Crabtree to carry the scoring and defensive load.

Some thought the Ducks had, in that backfield, the fastest squad on the coast. Everybody knew, however, that the Pittsburgh Panthers were the biggest team in the nation. The oddsmakers made them a 6 point favorite.

THE GAME got underway with both teams exchanging punts and containing each other within the thirty-yard lines. The first quarter ended.

The second quarter opened with the Panther's superior size apparently beginning to show. They drove twice inside the thirty and stopped the speedy Oregon offense cold at every turn. Still no serious scoring threat developed.

Only once did the Ducks manage to get untracked and this time the drive only set a prophetic note for later happenings. Jim Shanley, running at his very best, carried the Duck attack to the Pitt 13, an unlucky number to stop on. On the play after that, a Webfoot aerial from LeRoy Phelps to Shanley was completed in the Pitt end zone but called back because of a penalty.

AT THE END of the first half, the Panthers held the statistical edge, 10-4 in first downs, and 161-98 in yardage.

The halitime intermission must have provided something special in Oregon quarters, whether just rest, or some inspirational message, because the Ducks rolled onto the Multnomah turf for the second half with a fresh outlook on life.

Cutting to the outside to use their vastly superior speed, the Ducks began to take the heavier Panthers apart. With Jim Shanley leading the way, and Marlon Holland and Jack Morris giving splendid support, the Ducks began to steam goalward.

With Shanley taking the second half kickoff and returning the ball 55 yards to the Pitt 45, the Ducks were in business.

CRABTREE'S SHORT look-in passes and runs by Tourville, Morris and, of course, Shanley, moved the Ducks, bit by bit, to the Pitt five. Here the Panthers pulled their massive forces together on the goal and halted the determined Webfoot dirve. It was time for a Jack Morris field goal.

The reliable Oregon fullback obliged and with a 15 yard boot, the Ducks were staked to the first lead of the evening. More was to come.

The impetus that carried Oregon goalward the first time sustained them time and again as they tore through and around the huge Panthers.

THE DUCKS drove twice more inside the Pitt twenty, once moving to the Panther six on an interception and some sparkling runs. But time and again the Pitt line refused to buckle under the surprising Oregon offense and eventually took over, leaving the score unchanged.

What happened next was something that all the 20,486 fans in attendance will never forget.

The Panthers took over on the Duck 48 with less than two minutes to go and began to move, really move, for the first time in nearly two quarters. Quarterback Bill Kaliden kept twice to the Webfoot 28 then called his own number again on a fourth down situation and set the Panthers up on the Duck 21.

The fans were panicky, but the clock was runing out . . . only 50 seconds left.

IN CAME ROOKIE signal caller Ivan Tonic, with word from the bench. It looked like a pass and the Duck secondary spread out in a desperate effort to create a "victory defense."

They weren't looking for the right man on the right place. Art Gob, a rookie line man who hadn't been listed in the starting ranks found an open space in the far corner of the end zone and took an agonizingly easy toss from Tonic. Pitt 6, Oregon 3.

With only 22 seconds left, the Ducks took the kickoff and ran two pathetic plays before the final gun sounded.

THE LOSS HURT, but in the long run turned out to be an ironic beginning for one of the most successful seasons in Webfoot grid history.

Fijis, Campbell post IM cage wins

Campbell club rolled to an easy 30-13 victory over the Legal Eagles, while Phi Gamma Delta slipped by Delta Tau Delta in a low scoring 19-7 contest, as the first round of intramural 'B' basketball continued Wednesday.

PACING the scoring for Campbell club were Russell and White with 10 counters each. Ted Meagher and Phil Foster of Fiji led the point column in the second contest with six apiece.

The Counselors recorded a forfeit victory over Sederstrom, as the losers failed to show up.

The Fijis proved themselves a team to watch in further hoop play, holding the Delts scoreless in the first half, and all the Delt's individual scorers to two points or less.

ON THE OTHER SIDE of the fence, Campbell club showed that they will be strong offensively, racking up 30 points in 20 minutes of action.

Tomorrow's action pits Kappa Sigma 'B' against Chi Psi 'B'; Delta Upsilon 'B' against Philadelphia House 'B'; and Lambda Chi Alpha 'B' against Sigma Alpha Mu 'B'.

Action in the 'B' division continues until Monday when the second round of 'A' play begins. Campbell (30)

THE NEW YORK YANKEES have received their first signed contract for the 1960 season.

Bill "Moose" Skowron, who was out most of last season, agreed to just about the same salary he received in 1959—around $25,000.

Skowron started last year at a fast pace but then ran into trouble. First, he re-injured a back muscle and then broke his left wrist in a collision with Coot Veal of the Tigers.

His lifetime batting mark is .303.

There are indications that Buffalo may become the eighth club in the new Continental Baseball League.

Branch Rickey, president of the loop, and the league's founder, William Shea, talked over the possibility today with city officials.

THE CLEVELAND INDIANS have dipped into a minor league to purchase a reserve first baseman.

Bob Hale, formerly of the Baltimore Orioles, was picked up from the Miami Marlins of the International League.

Hale bats left and probably will be used as a pinch hitter.

NATIONAL Football League owners appear to have delayed action on expansion until tomorrow or Friday.

The owners are meeting at Miami Beach.

The matter was scheduled to come up today, but the owners voted to suspend the rules to push expansion farther down the agenda.

Four cities have applied for franchises—Minneapolis-St. Paul, Dallas, St. Louis and Miami.
