Religions compared in RE Week kickoff

By GAYLE CHARLES
Emerald Staff Writer

The 22nd annual University Religious Evaluation Week began Sunday night as 160 people gathered at Burke Hall on the Northwest Christian College campus for the kickoff banquet.

REVEREND KINGBURY of the Wesley Foundation gave the opening invocation and master of ceremonies Marvin Webster introduced committees, faculty members and four of the five men scheduled to speak throughout the week.

Following dinner, Rabbi Marcus Simmons of Temple Beth-Israel in Eugene spoke to approximately 200 (only 60 were students) in the Ballroom of the SU on "Who Shall Evaluate the Evaluators?"

SIMMONS STATED that both Jews and Christians have high standards of morality, but that where one standard has as its source the imitation of Jesus, the other has the imitation of God.

He referred often to two men he felt had a great impact on mankind—Dante and Einstein. In discussing the present world situation, he stated, "One of these men described an inferno; the other one gave us the formula for making it." He then struck out against the use of modern-day science by calling attention to the paper Einstein later wrote condemning the use of his theories in the construction of the H-Bomb. He astounded his audience by stating that the Hebrews called guided missiles the "astrology of the gentiles."

THE SOLUTION to this contemporary problem he feels can be found in the philosophy of Henri Bergson. Bergson's dual idea of morality—the kindness in man-to-man relations and the "highway robbery" of nation-to-nation dealings, is a trouble spot.

"One type of morality is God's idea," he stated strongly, "and the type for men is the type for nations."

He believes that no man can be truly objective in his study of comparative religions. He cautioned his audience to search for the truth—"truth that will make you free from prejudice, for prejudice destroys religion."

HE PRAISED kindness, goodness and scholarly interest in the search for truth. Commenting on Christian attitudes, he said, "Do not let us deceive ourselves. Even to forgive our enemies is a phenomenon seen all over the world. But Christianity has made a monopoly publicizing the fact that Christ-like men are good, and stating that men are little less than angels."

Simmons will be present today in the Dad's Lounge of the Student Union to discuss his speech in a coffee hour forum at 4 p.m.

Tickets on sale for Kenton show

Stan Kenton, supported by a new 18-piece orchestra, will appear at 8 p.m. Feb. 3 in McArthur Court.

TICKETS WILL go on sale today at the SU main desk. General admission will be $1; reservations in the west side bleachers will be $1.50, and reserved seats in the first balcony, $2.00.

Currently on a nationwide tour, Kenton has won Down Beat magazine's popularity poll as leader of the nation's number one orchestra for five consecutive years. This will be his first local appearance since winning the award for the fourth time.

PiKA fire causes extensive damage

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house suffered extensive fire damage Saturday as it became the fourth mens' house to be damaged by fire since the summer of 1959.

ESTIMATED at $10,000, the fire was confined to the attic and to two second floor rooms.

The battalion fire chief of the Eugene fire department said the fire might have been caused by a cigarette.

Donald Foster, fraternity treasurer, and Rodney McKay were in the downstairs living room when the fire broke out at about 2:15 p.m. Foster ran upstairs and tried to put the fire out with an extinguisher, but the smoke was too heavy and he was driven out.

Foster tried to call the fire department from a phone in the house but was unable to call out. He then ran to a service station and called from there.

Firemen estimated the damage to the house at $7,500 and to the contents of the house at $2,500.

THE 13 MEMBERS of the fraternity moved into temporary living quarters at Nestor hall in Vets dorm.

George R. Mayer, fraternity adviser, said the fraternity is planning an $80,000 house on E. 14th Avenue as soon as it completes a fund drive. The burned house is rented from Mr. and Mrs. George A. Campbell of Eugene.

The other three houses which have had fires are Sigma Nu, which was destroyed, and Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Tau Delta which were damaged.

Jim Ross, Interfraternity Council member, said that the houses would now be required to have fire drills and inspections beginning this week.

Duck Preview rules explained

A meeting was held to discuss the Duck Preview rules and their seriousness Thursday in the Greater Oregon office.

PRESENT AT THE meeting were Greater Oregon officers; F. B. Nickerson, executive secretary of High School-College Relations; W. L. Thompson, director of Public Service; and living organization representatives.

At the meeting Duck Preview rules and a schedule of events were handed out to the representatives.

BOTH THOMPSON and Nickerson talked to the representatives and explained why the rules had been set up, according to John Packham, Greater Oregon chairman. The main emphasis of Duck Preview is to give the high school students an opportunity to become familiar with the academic part of the University. Thompson and Nickerson said that the houses are playing an important role in making the weekend a complete failure or a complete success. Packham said that they pointed out that the primary penalty for breaking the rules set up is the final termination of future Duck Previews.

PACKHAM SAID that the houses were instructed that if any seniors did show up at their houses between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturday, they should be sent to the scheduled area.

The greater Oregon committee has requested that University students who are not connected with Greater Oregon to keep out of the SU between 10-12 a.m. Saturday.

Hatfield to talk; Dad's Weekend

Frank Albert and Jack Turner have been selected to head this year's Dad's Day, scheduled for February 19 and 20.

GOVERNOR Mark Hatfield and W. C. Jones, dean of administration, will be the speakers at the annual Saturday luncheon. Jones is substituting for University President O. Meredith Wilson, who will be in South America at the time.

The luncheon will be held simultaneously in the Student Union and at Carson Hall. All students and their fathers may attend.

A FORUM and business meeting will follow the luncheon. This forum has been organized in order to allow the fathers to discuss and question the operation of the University. The dormitory counseling program and dad's scholarship program have already been placed on the forum's agenda.

Further events include the University of Washington and University of Southern California basketball games on Friday and Saturday nights.
