

Library scholarship application due soon

May 15 is the deadline for applying for the Eleanor S. Stephens scholarship for 1960-1961. The $300 membership is for professional training in librarianship, and is offered through the Oregon Library Association. Candidates must be residents of Oregon, and accepted as a candidate for a Master's degree at an accredited library school.

Application forms may be obtained from the Dean of Students office or by writing directly to Mrs. William M. Lampman, 875 Gilham Road, Eugene, Oregon.

Air Force to give plaque to 'Cas'

The University Department of Air Science will present an award to head football coach Len Casanova, Thursday. The plaque, which is to be presented by professor of air science Horace Neely, is for Casanova's "outstanding services to the United States Air Services Sports program in 1959."

Coach Casanova was one of several football coaches who participated in the Air Force's Western Europe Football Clinic last July.

The presentation will be made Thursday at 2 p.m. on the military drill field.

his best known books was "Innovation: The Basis of Cultural Change," published in 1953.

Barnett has traveled in England, France, Italy, and Hawaii. He received his B.A. from Stanford University and his Ph.D. from the University of California. He taught at the University of New Mexico. He also served as a research associate in anthropology at the University of California.

FROM 1944 TO 1946, Barnett served on the Anthropologist Bureau of the Smithsonian Institution. In 1947 he received a grant from the Northwest Regional Council to study effects of the war on Indians at Yakima reservation.

The following year he made a study of the Palau Islands to discover cultural changes resulting from occupation by the German, Japanese, and American forces. His findings helped provide a basis for administration of the islands by the United States Navy.

On leave of absence from the University in 1951, Barnett was one of seven staff anthropologists employed by the civilian administration in the Pacific Mandate Islands. In 1953 he became consultant to the High Commissioner of the Pacific Islands Trust Territory.

HE SERVED as consultant to the Governor-General of Netherlands-New Guinea in 1955. In the summer of 1957, Barnett was a visiting professor at Columbia University, where he had done research work as a Senior National Science Foundation Fellow.

Barnett is a member of the Pacific Science Board, the American Anthropology Association, American Association for Advancement of Science, Society for American Archeology, Society for Applied Anthropology, Sigma Xi, Phi Beta Kappa, and the American Association of University Professors.

Too early?

Well, perhaps.

And yet, when she reaches college age, will she be too late? Too late to get the kind of higher education so vital to her future and the future of her country?

It all depends.

By 1967 the number of students seeking college entrance will double. Even now, classrooms are overcrowded. Faculty salaries are so low that many qualified people must leave college teaching. All this adds up to a serious threat to the ability of our higher educational system to produce thinking, well-informed graduates.

In a very real sense, our personal and national progress depends on our colleges. They must have help in keeping pace with their increasing importance to society. Help the colleges or universities of your choice.

If you want to know what the college crisis means to you, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, New York.
