

Essays due May 1 for annual awards

The Peter Pauper Press, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beilenson, is offering groups of books as prizes to University undergraduates who submit the best essays on subjects dealing with reading and the art of fine bookmaking. Judges will be the University librarian and two faculty members to be appointed.

First prize will be ten printed classics. The books can be selected by the winner from the press's "collector's editions." Second prize will be five classics. The awards will be made at the All Campus Sing during Junior weekend.

Entry rules may be obtained from Miss Bernice Rise in the Browsing Room. All essays must be submitted to Carl W. Hintz, librarian, or Miss Rise by May 1.

Disarmament topic of TV discussion

"Is Disarmament a Pipe Dream?" will be discussed on Point of View over KOAC-TV, Channel 7, tonight at 8:30.

Participants will include Charles P. Schleicher, professor of political science; John L. Powell, head of the physics department; Robert Leeper, head of the psychology department, and Cecil Stickney, Eugene attorney.

Amphibians depict night life in show

The Amphibians will present a show in Leighton Pool, the new men's pool, at 7:30 p.m. April 28, 29, and 30. The show is under the direction of Rae Hinchey and the theme will be "Night on the Town."

The water show will depict night life across the nation beginning with Oregon and covering San Francisco, Las Vegas, New Orleans, New York, and other high spots. "This should be the best show we've put on, and it will be the first one we've done in the new pool," said Mary Sullivan, pledge trainer for the Amphibians.

'59-'60 CO-OP BOARD OF DIRECTORS

These are the five U. of O. students who along with two faculty members have the responsibility of directing the Co-op Store for you, the Co-op member—its only owner and stockholder. The board which is selected each year by Co-op members determines all major policies in the store's operation. Since the present board's term of office expires in a few weeks, three new student board members (one sophomore, two juniors) will be chosen at the ASUO elections next month. Nominations for these positions will be in order at the Co-op's annual open meeting TODAY at 4 p.m. You are urged to nominate a qualified candidate of your choice. Be sure to vote too!
