University hosts 1 p.m. track meet

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Emerald Sports Writer

As the Northern Division track meet gets underway today at 1 on rain-soaked Hayward Field, the University of Oregon is expected to again dominate the meet for the seventh consecutive time.

Oregon, with a squad of several Olympic potentials headed by decathlon ace Dave Edstrom and miler Dyrrol Burlison, will vie against Washington State, University of Washington, Idaho, and Oregon State for the ND title.

Oregon State, headed by sprinter Amos Marsh and javelin thrower Gary Stenlund, is expected to take second place. But Washington State with Olympic hopeful Hank Wyborney in the high jump, could nip Oregon State, Washington and Idaho with just a few outstanding performers, will likely trail the field.

With some of the top athletes in the nation slated to be on hand today, close races in a number of events appear likely. Although fans primarily take note only of the winners, it will be the team with the most depth of point-winners that will be the winner in the long run.

In the 100, Amos Marsh of OSC is the favorite with a 9.5 clocking but UW's Bob Saunders (9.5) is expected to give him a close race. Overlooked, but not forgotten this year, has been Roscoe Cook. Cook has been out of serious contention this year since he pulled a leg muscle in the Northern Division Relays, nearly two months ago. In the past two meets Cook has gradually been putting more and more pressure on the leg and now thinks he will be ready for an all-out bid in this meet. Cook, who has a world-record tying 9.3 to his credit, will be making his bid this Saturday to return to the select group of Olympic contenders.

Over faculty cut

Rutherford proposes concern expressions

A letter to President O. Meredith Welson expressing student concern over the planned cut in additional University faculty members was proposed by Bill Rutherford at Thursday's ASUO Senate meeting.

ACCORDING to Rutherford, the letter would express the Senate's confidence that Wilson was acting in the best interest of the University when he agreed to the reduction.

HOWEVER, Rutherford did feel that a reduction in the ratio of faculty to students was a step in the wrong direction. Rutherford felt that the president or his successor could use this expression of student concern should the problem arise again.

THE LETTER, which would be written by ASUO President Steve Schell, arises from the fact that $509,000 has been set aside by the State Board of Higher Education.

According to Chancellor John Richards, the State Board initiated this action and the money will remain unbudgeted in anticipation of September enrollments.

THE CUT has been attributed to the failure of state-supported schools, with the exception of the University, to meet their expected enrollments.

Campaign money limits scheduled

Quentin Breen moved at Thursday's Senate meeting to limit ASUO campaign expenditures as follows:

1. Each candidate for ASUO, class, and living group representative shall submit to the ASUO Elections Committee an itemized report of all campaign expenses incurred by him or on his behalf. This shall be done on the Monday before the primary and on the Monday before the general election. The total expenditures shall be reported in the Oregon Daily Emerald the Tuesday before each election.

2. Campaign expenses for all ASUO, class and living group representatives shall be limited as follows:

Candidates for ASUO President to $250.

Candidates for ASUO Vice-President to $100.

Candidates for Senators at Large, class offices and living group representatives to $50.

3. The ASUO Elections Committee shall determine, if necessary the accuracy of statements of campaign expenses. Any candidate failing to comply with either of the above sections shall be disqualified by the Elections Committee.

4. The ASUO Elections Committee shall be appointed by the President from the Senate and shall represent the various types of living groups. The Vice-President shall serve as chairman of this committee.

To provide for this cut, the number of additional faculty members at the various state schools had to be reduced. If this reduction had been made according to the enrollment deficit at the various schools, the University would not be affected, but OSC would face severe faculty cuts.

WILSON AGREED to reduce the number of new faculty members at the University by 10, thus insuring that OSC would not be severely curtailed.

According to Rutherford, this is a reasonably complex problem and Wilson's agreement to the reduction will help promote good will between the University and OSC.

Two mock trials remain on docket

Two trials remain on the schedule of moot court cases at the University of Oregon Law school.

THESE TRIALS will be in Lane county court room number 7, May 24 and 26. They begin at 7:30 p.m.

Moot court trials are mock trials prepared by the third year law students at the University. They are part of a course in trial practice.

ALL THE TRIALS are civil cases involving trial action. They are jury trials and interested townspeople are invited to participate as jurors.

Education honoraries schedule joint banquet

The annual joint banquet for Pi Lambda Theta and Chi chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, education honoraries at the University, will be Sunday, May 22, in the SU.

At the 6:30 p.m. banquet, L. C. Marquis, assistant professor of political science, will be the main speaker. His topic is "The Politics of Education."

Mrs. Winifred Ladley, assistant professor of library science, will be toastmistress.

Reservations can be made through the school of education.

Student readings set at education assembly

An all-student cast will draw bead on teachers and their foibles at the spring term School of Education assembly next Tuesday, 1 p.m. in the University theater.

Readings are listed under the broad title "Variations in Klobber and Klonk." They will be given by Rhea Henault Wingart, Vivian Tendollen, Roger Gross, and Howard Cain. Gross will read the part of Hyman Kaplan.

The assembly is open to the public. Members of the Future Teacher Clubs of Willamette, Springfield, St. Francis, North Eugene, and South Eugene High Schools have been issued invitations.

Position on affidavit praised by Fleming

The position of the University faculty in protesting the disclaimer affidavit provision of the National Defense Education Act has been commended by Secretary Arthur S. Fleming of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare as "a thoughtful statement."

Secretary Fleming, in a letter to President Wilson expressed his gratitude for the faculty resolution. He writes "... we are pleased to have this record of the position taken by your faculty. It defines extremely well the issues involved, and it will be helpful to us in our discussions of this matter."

POSITIVE ACTION has already been taken for the removal of the offending provision, Secretary Fleming writes. In line with a recommendation made by President Dwight D. Eisenhower that the disclaimer provision be repealed "... a bill to accomplish this purpose has been ordered reported out favorably by the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare."

The secretary then outlined the factors underlying the position of factors underlying the position of remove the disclaimer affidavit requirement clause.

SUCH A CLAUSE is not necessary, he first points out, in order to deny funds to those who seek or who belong to organizations that believe in or teach the overthrow of the government by force (Continued on page 8)
