

World pictorial news

LISBON HAILS IKE—President Eisenhower responds to cheers of Portuguese crowds in Lisbon Thursday on his way from airport after a flight from Paris. One of the greeters holds an "I Like Ike" sign aloft. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Lisbon).

LAST DITCH EFFORTS FAIL—France's President Charles De Gaulle, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Eisenhower, left to right, leave second conference among them at Elysee Palace in Paris Tuesday. Their last attempt to save the summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev ended in failure. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Paris).

BEFORE ILL-FATED CLIMB—Four mountain climbers, who were stranded on Alaska's Mt. McKinley Thursday, are shown with bush pilot (center) before leaving Anchorage, Alaska, airport to start the climb. On left is John Day, 51, Central Point, Ore., most seriously injured of the four climbers hurt in a fall down a slope of the mountain Tuesday night. Others, left to right, are Peter Schiening, Seattle; pilot Don Shelton; and 31-year-old twins Louis and James Whitaker, both of Seattle. (AP Wirephoto).

KHRUSHCHEV MAKES A POINT—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev smiled broadly and tapped his forehead during news conference at the Palais de Chaillot in Paris Wednesday. He challenged President Eisenhower's assurance that U.S. spy plane flights over Russian territory will not be resumed. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Paris).

PILOT of downed plane, Francis Powers, 30, has been identified as the pilot of the U2 plane believed shot down over the Soviet Union. He is a native of Pound, Va. (AP Wirephoto)

KHRUSHCHEV ARRIVES IN EAST BERLIN—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, fresh from the wrecked summit talks in Paris, waves hat from open car following his arrival Thursday in East Berlin. Beside him are East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht, left, and Premier Otto Grotewohl. Khrushchev spoke soothingly to East Berliners about another summit conference in six to eight months. They're riding along East Berlin's Stalin Allee. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Berlin).

'TLL DO IT AGAIN'—Sunny Blue Farm's Venetian Way, the Kentucky Derby winner, defiantly displays his attitude concerning his rivals in the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday. The colt is favored to take the second leg in the Triple Crown series. (AP Wirephoto).