

CHANCELLOR JOHN R. RICHARDS and student leaders from Oregon State and Portland talk over the activities of students who are campaigning on behalf of Ballot Measure 6, "State Bonds for Higher Education Facilities." On the November ballot, the measure is a constitutional amendment which would increase the bonding capacity of the State System for construction of self-supporting buildings. With the Chancellor, from left, are Irving Olson, OSC, University Student Body President Steve Schell, and John DeBruyn, both of Oregon; student body president Dale Ward and Ed Westerdahl, both of Portland State.

Statistical Laboratory and computing center to open

A statistical laboratory and computing center is being set up by the University. Purpose of the center is to both provide educational facilities and to provide scientific computations for research projects.

The laboratory and center is being supported, in part, by a $30,000 grant from the National Science Foundation. This sum, which will be matched by the University, will aid in purchasing an IBM computing machine.

Use of the computer, when it is installed this winter, will be on an "open shop" basis. Researchers in such areas as the sciences, psychology, mathematics, health and physical education, and the counseling center will be using it.

Formerly this research has had to make use of computing facilities in other centers of the state and California.

Director of the new laboratory and center will be Fred C. Andrews, associate professor of mathematics. Associated with him in the SLCC will be three statisticians. They are D. R. Truax, R. E. Odeh, and A. T. Bharucha-Reid, all assistant professors of mathematics. The center will also have the services of graduate students.
