

835 MUN Delegates Arrive

FREDERICK BOLAND (center), President of the United Nations General Assembly, speaks with Oregon Senator Wayne Morse (left), and Paul Ward, Secretary General of the Model United Nations, immediately following a press conference Wednesday afternoon. Boland was the featured speaker at the first plenary session of the MUN Wednesday evening.

(Emerald photograph by John C. Champion.)

Two Groups Absent; Everyone Housed

Some 835 visitors, comprising 79 of 81 delegations expected for the four-day Model United Nations conference had registered for the sessions by 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The late arriving delegates and advisors arrived at the University just in time to hear the opening remarks of United Nations General Assembly President Frederick Boland in an 8 p.m. address at McArthur Court, convening the first plenary session of the MUN General Assembly.

Still not on campus were delegations from the University of Utah, representing Norway, and Western Washington College, representing Costa Rica.

Living space for all delegates now on the campus has been found, according to housing chairman Mary Alden.

First "formal" session of the conference was a press delegates conference with Boland and Oregon Senator Wayne Morse, held in Allen Hall from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Receptions were held in the Student Union prior to the press conference for all delegates.

BOTH Boland and Morse answered delegates' questions at the conference ranging from the Laos situation to political problems in Ireland, Boland's home.

In his address at the first plenary session Boland took a "bird's-eye view of the situation confronting the world today . . . in the belief that, if the problems and the dangers at present besetting mankind are to be successfully surmounted, they must be faced frankly and in a spirit of the most clearheaded realism."

On the effectiveness of the United Nations he said, "It can discuss, it can make recommendations to governments; but it cannot reach decisions binding on governments, and therefore . . . the world community is still today a society without any kind of effective government."

SENATOR MORSE, who left immediately after the session to resume duties in Washington, D.C., introduced Boland.

"You are about to listen to one of the world's great statesmen. He personifies this altruism: 'In public service there is no substitute for brains,'" Morse said.

Also on the platform were Oregon Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, Chancellor of the State Board of Higher Education John R. Richards, Acting University President William C. Jones and ASUO President Steve Schell.

PAUL WARD, Secretary General of the Model United Nations opened the session. He is a graduate student in political science at the University.

During the late morning and early afternoon hours student delegates and faculty advisors converged on the Student Union

(Continued on page 8)

MUN Schedule

- 9:00-12:30 Committees, Councils, Commissions Security Council
- 2:00- 5:30 ECOSOS
 - First Committee
 - Second Committee
 - Third Committee
 - Fourth Committee
 - Special Political Committee
 - Full Disarmament Commission
 - Charter Review Committee
- 10:00-12:30 Faculty Advisors Meeting
- 12:30- 1:30 Lunch for Delegates
- 12:30- 1:30 Executive Committee Lunch
- 1:00- 4:30 International Court of Justice
- 6:15- 7:00 Dinner for delegates
- 6:15- 7:00 Executive Committee Dinner
- 7:00-12:30 Caucus Sessions

French Delegate Arouses Interest With Antic

France caught the eye of male spectators Wednesday night in the MUN's opening plenary session as an attractive female delegate figured in a procedural squabble.

Mademoiselle Kaye Wiley, a 5'4" blonde sophomore from Occidental College representing France, was the star of an eye-opening interlude at the MUN session in McArthur Court.

The 19-year-old Gallic standard-bearer ascended the box at the floor microphone. F. Scott Nobles, president of the general assembly, won the plaudits of the assemblage as he directed Mademoiselle to walk the long aisle to the rostrum mike.

As Mme. Wiley exhibited a lovely walk, necks strained for a better look at her form-fitting black suit and contrasting white pillbox hat and shoes. Nobles hastily explained his action as prompted by the desire for everyone to hear the chic French delegate.

Not so noble of Nobles was his subsequent interruption of Mademoiselle Wiley's address in her native tongue. Over protests of both France and Russia, she was replaced by a translator (male).

Statements Due Today at 5 P.M.

Candidates for all offices except ASUO president and vice president are to submit 35 word statements to the Emerald office on the third floor of Allen Hall today by 5 p.m.

Any late statements will not be accepted.

Candidates may say anything they wish, but must include their accumulative grade point average.

71 Candidates Petition For Positions In ASUO

Four new candidates petitioned for the office of ASUO president Wednesday as the date for the filing of petitions found a total of 71 candidates in the race for campus offices.

Tom Easton, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Bill Vertrees, 945 Hilyard; Gordon Jones, 290 Crocker Land; and Irvin Carlisle, Star Route, Marcola, joined Dan Williams in the presidential race.

KENT HUGHES, Jim Cloutier, and Quentin Breen are the three candidates in the vice-presidential race.

Jay Woodworth, Theta Chi, joined Greg Berglund, Phi Delta Theta, in the senior class president competition, Wednesday.

Huston Bunce, Dyrrol Burlison, and Brent Smith are the candidates for senior class vice president.

JOHN ARENZ, Alpha Tau Omega; Janice Smith, Sigma Kappa; Bill Perry, Phi Gamma Delta; Dick Bourret, Sigma Chi, joined Bob Cowling, Sigma Phi Epsilon in the senior class representative battle.

Chuck Peterson and Ken Smith have filed in the junior class president race. In the junior vice president race, Dennis Gilbert, Sigma Chi; Earl Lasher, Beta Theta Pi; Doug Nelson, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Floyd Paseman, Phi Kappa Sigma; and Jim Sheldrew, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, have petitioned.

Brent Collins, Sigma Nu, and Gary Lindberg, Alpha Tau Omega, joined Bill Hutchison and Art Erickson in the junior representative race Wednesday.

DENNY LYNCH and Clark Stevens are in the race for sophomore class president. Jack Joyce, Stafford, and Rich Riede, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, are in the race for sophomore vice president.

The sophomore class representative race finds a struggle between Al Dardis, Phi Gamma Delta; JoAnne Freeman, Pi Beta Phi; Mark Wulf, Sigma Phi Epsilon; and Mary McCulloch, Pi Beta Phi.

Candidates for senator-at-large are Senior Suzanne Brouillard, Sigma Kappa; Sophomore Ron Buel, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Freshman Janet Carter, Alpha Phi; Sophomore Hank Courtney, Phi Gamma Delta; Sophomore Doug Greer, Phi Delta Theta; Sophomore Rich Hamersly, 1941 Madison; Sophomore Mike Henderson, Phi Kappa Psi; Sophomore Jack Langworthy, 1475 Agate; and Sophomore Jerry Lewis, Beta Theta Pi.

ALSO running for senator-at-large are Freshman Phil Sher-

burne, Campbell Club; Sophomore Del Smith, Phi Kappa Psi; Junior Ken Wilson, Sigma Chi; sophomore Al Wood, 1176 Mill; Junior Carol Stout, Kappa Alpha Theta; Sophomore John Bradshaw, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Junior R. C. Owens, Sigma Chi; Sophomore Ken Lee, Adams Hall; Junior Tom Herman, Theta Chi.

Others on the senator-at-large race are: Junior Bob Exel, Alpha Tau Omega; Sophomore Mike Lindberg, Theta Chi; Junior Lee Turnbull, Phi Kappa Psi; Junior Ferris Simpson, 1040 Ferry; and Sophomore Robert Willets, Phi Gamma Delta.

UPPER class men's dorms representative drew only one candidate, Sophomore Robert Carsner Adams. Upper class women's dorms representative likewise has only one candidate, Jun-

(Continued on page 8)

New Committee to Get Bill

SALEM (Special) — Monroe Sweetland's bill to appropriate $150,000 to be matched $1 for $9 made available under the National Defense Act passed the state Senate Education committee Tuesday. The bill now goes to the Ways and Means committee.

The problem now is finding funds which can be allocated.

Chancellor John R. Richards, at the request of the Ways and Means subcommittee on education, has presented three alternative proposals for increasing the fees of out-of-state students.

Clarence Barton, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, said Tuesday that he will recommend that out-of-state fees be increased by $15 per term,

THIS MONEY—$236,000 per biennium, according to State Board figures — could then be used for more and larger scholarships and as NDEA matching funds, Barton said.

Wednesday Chancellor Richards explained the financial maneuvering involved.

ALLOCATION of funds for Sweetland's bill and increased scholarships could be made directly out of the state's general fund, he said.

Then the Ways and Means committee would probably cut the State System of Higher Education budget by a corresponding amount. This would then force the State System to adopt the higher out-of-state fee schedule to balance the budget.

Morse:

U.S. Senator Wayne Morse Wednesday made a strong plea that the Oregon legislature take action to provide $150,000 in matching funds required under the National Defense Education Act.

MORSE said he made his plea "so that deserving young men and women in Oregon colleges during the next two years will not be denied the loans necessary if they are to obtain a college education."

State Senator Monroe Sweetland has introduced the bill in

(Continued on page 8)