

Letters to the editor

everything. Is it that he wants us to believe he is carrying a cross? I have never read one of his letters when he PRAISED anyone, but I must admit I miss getting to read all of your papers as the sun sometimes bleaches it out before I can get to it. There is a rumor, however, that he will soon write a letter to praise the Lane County Democratic Committee to keep them from looking like fools after passing his resolution. I think rather than it being a cross that Mr. Monger is carrying—it is a chip on his shoulder. What ever happened to Mr. Monger to make him hate athletics so? Is it feasible that he was taken out of a baseball game in grammar school for a pinch hitter with the bases loaded just when he had a chance to reap glory with a six hundred foot home run?

It has been said that Mr. Monger believes there is a solid difference between mind and body and that if the human race is to survive, we must develop ONLY the mind. In response to this radical thinking, I would like to say that when mind and body were thought to be two separate entities, man suffered by not getting the best education possible. But, when man came to understand the human organism and its need for wholeness, education became education THROUGH the physical. With this view, physical education has concern for emotional responses, personal relationships, group behaviors, mental learnings, and other intellectual, social, emotional, and esthetic outcomes. The dichotomy of mind and body has been abandoned in scientific circles, however, physiology, psychology, sociology, and modern philosophy recognize the fact of organic unity. Does Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.) disagree with most thinking men on this fact? I would like to know his specific reasons to compare them with all the NOTED men who think otherwise.

EVERYWHERE is a democracy, people are given the opportunity to excel in what they do best, as long as it benefits the whole society. If it were left up to Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.) the athletes would be separated from the intellectuals. It would almost be a crime to let one person excel in both. They would probably ban athletics at great universities known for both such as Stanford and Harvard. If the athletes do not oppose the plan of the intellectuals receiving money to further their skills, why should the intellectuals oppose the athletes from further development of their skills. Who is qualified to judge which one is of the most importance in the survival of man against his environment? Certainly not Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.). Both the intellectuals and the athletes are advancing and neither are detrimental to society. In fact to stress this point, I would like to quote Mr. John Kennedy, President of The United States, "The strength of our democracy is no greater than the well being of our people." If you are the smartest man in the world and can't protect yourself or what you believe in because of your atrophied muscles, what good is intelligence to you? You have to have both!! Get off our backs Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.) until you show us you have both. Have you ever taken the physical fitness test here at Oregon? Would you be willing to take it? Or, what was your score if you did take it? I know athletes who made the honor roll last term, contrary to your opinion, and I RESPECT their judgment. Do you know any intellectuals who tried and couldn't make the athletic teams?

The main thing Mr. Monger seems to be opposed to is the money being sent to the athletic office from tuition funds. He says the majority doesn't get any return out of their money. How many students attend the games? I would be willing to bet over sixty per cent of the student body picked up their athletic cards so they could get into the game they wanted to see FREE. Did Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.) pick up his or doesn't he fully support the school of his choice? Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.) wants an election. How about an election on each and every one of the following places tuition money is sent to see if the majority uses and wants their money sent there: (only a partial list)

1. Eugene Civic Music Association
 2. Student Union Jazz Room
 3. University Building Fund
 4. Student Union Recorded Classics Room
 5. Student Body Officers Pay
 6. Oregon Daily Emerald
 7. Oregana
 8. Student Health Services
- I'm sorry Mr. Monger (?G.P.A.) but in an election of this kind, the University would suffer as well as the students. That is why you can't have your election. Why don't you stop thinking about yourself, shave off your beard, and think of the whole student body and this wonderful University for awhile?

German Poet Topic Of Browsing Lecture

Wolfgang Leppmann, University associate professor of Germanic languages, will deliver the next Browsing Room lecture on the writings and influence of Rainier Maria Rilke, a German poet, essayist, and novelist.

Leppman, a member of the Oregon staff since 1954, was in Germany during 1958-59 to do research on Goethe. From that study, supported by German and American grants, he wrote a book in 1961.

HIS BOOK, "The German Image of Goethe," offers an account of Goethe's effect on the literary musical, scientific, and political life of Germany from the eighteenth century to the present.

Leppmann's discussion of Rilke will be concerned with the influence on this lyric poet. Rilke was known for his mysticism and his later use of a highly developed system of symbolism. Rilke influenced writers of England and the United States in the 1930s.

Leppmann was born in Germany, but became a naturalized citizen of Canada. He received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Germanic languages at McGill University. In 1952 he received his Ph.D. at Princeton.

HE HAS taught at Princeton and Brown Universities, and has had numerous articles published in scholarly journals.

In 1961 he was elected the new Northwest president of the American Association of Teachers of German.

The lecture on Rilke will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Peter B. Gontrum, assistant professor of Germanic languages, will lead the discussion period.
