UO Senior, Graduate Appear in 'Glamour'

Susan Hendrix, University senior, is shown modeling a raincoat and accessories which she wore while posing for Glamour magazine. Glamour chose one young woman from each state to represent that state's special contribution to fashion.

Miss Hendrix was chosen to represent Oregon, the state "where rain makes fashion, where raincoats are chic-er than regular coats," according to the magazine.

Her picture will appear in the February issue of Glamour.

Joan Alforno, University of Oregon graduate and present fashion director of San Francisco's Joseph Magnin store, was chosen to represent California. Her picture also will appear on the cover of Glamour's February issue.

Miss Hendrix's outfit is a Reeves dusky-blue cotton duck raincoat with double pleats in back and front. Her boots are tall glossed black Pattina with fur linings. She is from Portland, is majoring in English, and is a member of Alpha Phi.

Miss Alforno formerly represented the University when she was chosen one of the ten best dressed coeds in the nation by Glamour. Glamour will also be running the same contest this year and information will be released later.

Mademoiselle Chooses 8 Coeds

Eight women will represent the University of Oregon on the national Mademoiselle College Board this year. They are Carolyn Perkins, Patricia Ann Feeney, Mary Ann Dean, Arlene Saunders, and Cathie Wilkinson, seniors; Linda Brown, junior; Mary Farmer, sophomore; and Marcia Kump, freshman.

As College Board members, they will report news, trends, and fashions involving University of Oregon women to Mademoiselle. They were chosen on the basis of talent shown in art, writing, fashion, merchandising, promotion, or advertising after submitting entries in these fields to the magazine.

These eight representatives are also eligible to compete for the twenty guest editorships that will be awarded in May. To win a guest editorship they must submit further entries.

If any of the eight University representatives wins an editorship, she will be brought to New York City for June to help edit, write, and illustrate Mademoiselle's August 1963 issue.

She will share offices with the regular editors, advise the staff on campus trends, interview well-known personalities, and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores, and advertising agencies.

She will also be photographed for the August issue and will be considered for future permanent staff positions.

Chi Delta Phi Plans Membership Tea

Chi Delta Phi, women's national literary honorary, will hold a tea this Thursday evening at 7 p.m. at the Sigma Kappa house.
