

Awards Presented At Weekend Events

Trophies, awards and scholarships were given to University students and organizations at Saturday's Mothers' Luncheon and All Campus Sing, as part of the annual Junior Weekend festivities.

Winners in the All Campus Sing contest were Sigma Kappa, women's groups; Alpha Tau Omega and Pi Beta Phi, mixed groups, and Sigma Phi Epsilon, men's groups.

Second place honors went to Kappa Kappa Gamma, women's; Delta Delta Delta and Sigma Chi, mixed, and Delta Tau Delta, men's.

In recognition of their leadership, scholarship and promise Dennis Lynch was awarded the Koyl Cup and Kim Burnton was given the Gerlinger Cup. Lynch was also named Outstanding Senator.

ASUO President Phil Sherburne received the Maurice Harold Hunter Scholarship, which is presented annually to the junior man who has made the most notable contribution toward development of qualities of leadership among fellow students.

McAlister Hall was given a trophy for Outstanding Freshman Women's Dormitory, and DeCou Hall was Outstanding Freshman Men's Dormitory.

Burt Brown Barker Vice Presidential Cups for scholarship were awarded to organizations with the highest scholastic records. Highland House won the women's award, and Watson Hall won in men's competition.

Bill Bowerman, head track coach, was recipient of the Friar's Scroll as outstanding faculty member.

Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary, selected John Luvaas and Jerry Utti as co-winners of the William Frager Scholarship. This is made annually to the outstanding male sophomore.

Tad McCall won a Skull and Dagger and Alpha Phi Omega award to the outstanding freshman man.

The Golda Wickham Scholarship Award, established by the Oregon Mothers in honor of Oregon's dean of women, was presented to Juanita Johnston. The award is a full tuition scholarship and revolving trophy.

The Emerald Athletic Award, given each year to the outstanding senior athlete, went to Steve Barnett.

Ron and Merrie Buel received the Mabel and Wayne Robinson

(Continued on page 8)

DENNIS LYNCH was named Outstanding ASUO Senator and received the Koyl Cup in recognition of his leadership, scholarship and promise at the All Campus Sing Saturday night.

Urban Renewal Plan Gets Final Approval

The final step toward starting the East Campus Urban Renewal project was taken last week by the Eugene city council, acting as the Eugene Urban Renewal Agency.

THE AGENCY voted approval of the second part of the final project report, the last submission the city has to make to the federal government to qualify for a loan and grant contract.

The urban renewal project will provide the University with a 17-acre building site for dormitories, and possibly a health service building.

According to J. Orville Lindstrom, University business manager, the University is hopeful that the grant will be approved in time for land acquisition to start by July 1.

THE URBAN Renewal Agency is planning to have all the remaining private property in the 17-acre area acquired, the land cleared, streets and other utilities installed and the land resold to the University for campus expansion by September, 1964.

Money for the project will come from the Federal government and the University, with the University contributing $100,000. The council gave their approval to the project in January, after considerable controversy with property owners.

Documents to be submitted in the final report include the redevelopment plan approved by the city and State Board of Higher Education, a relocation program for the 35 families and 34 individuals still living in the area, and a pledge by the state board that it will purchase the remaining property after it has been acquired and cleared by the agency.

THE UNIVERSITY has already purchased some $430,000 of land within the 17-acre area east of the campus. This will be credited toward the local agency's share of the project costs.

The University's total additional costs are estimated at $89,173 which includes the $48,000 appraised price the University will pay for the remaining unused land in the area.

The city of Eugene will not have to pay anything in property taxes for the project.

FEDERAL FUNDS will amount to an estimated $524,502 which will cover the cost of acquiring the remaining private properties along with the planning and development costs.

The 17-acre site covers 4½ blocks, bounded by Franklin Blvd., Emerald and Agate Streets. According to Lindstrom, the University will improve the sewers, streets and street lighting.

He also said the University will come to the council for permission to vacate several streets and alleys in the area and would provide two parking spaces for every 10 residents of dormitories in the area.

Morse Says Telstar Bill Blots Administration Record

By SUE WILLIAMS
Emerald Staff Writer

"The Kennedy administration has blotted its record for all of history," said Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), speaking of the Telstar bill that passed Congress last year. Morse spoke Saturday morning to a meeting of the Honors College Colloquium classes.

Morse pointed out that he was on the minority side throughout the discussions on Telstar. The filibuster on the Telstar bill, in which Morse was a participant, was to gain time to get information to the public through what he termed the "news blackout."

"There was not a single accurate account of the space debates in the Senate last year," he said. According to Morse, the press made people believe that the minority wanted the government to own and operate the whole space communications program. The Senator implied in his remarks that this was not the case.

MORSE MAINTAINED that the administration bill was steamrollered through the Senate, both by the actions of powerful lobbies and by what he termed a "double-edged parliamentary guilotine": the use of cloture and the motion to lay on the table.

A total of 26 Morse motions to amend various clauses in the bill were laid on the table as fast as he made them, the Senator said, not to mention 17 amendment motions made by other senators. Morse said that the reason for this was that the majority could not face the Morse substitute plan.

Morse's proposed plan is that the government should lease contracts to any company that has something to offer.

"No company should be denied participation in the space communications program," stated Morse. As it stands now, he said, the program is in the hands of a cartel which violates all the monopoly control laws in the United States.

Morse said that the government interest had to be maintained in the communications program because of the possible effects on foreign policy.

Morse stressed that the people-at-large should realize that vote trading is one of the great evils in the Senate and that this was involved in the Telstar bill.

Recalling Jefferson's discussion of the subject of legislative freedom, Morse emphasized, "you are never going to maintain a government by law in this country unless you maintain the procedural checks on mere men who administer them." If we relinquish enough of these checks, Morse continued, it will result in loss of freedom.

ON THE subject of space spending, Morse commented that he thinks the United States is spending too much on defense and

(Continued on page 3)

Discipline Code Change Needed Says Flemming

By NOMI BORENSTEIN
Emerald Exchange Editor

In his speech before the annual business meeting of the Mothers' Club Saturday, President Flemming emphasized the revision of the present discipline code.

Flemming said, "It is important for a university community to review periodically its objectives in the area of student discipline."

AFTER REVIEWING the various procedures through which the recommendations of the faculty-student discipline committee have passed, Flemming expressed the reasons why he felt the Code should be revised.

"We must make sure that the programs are consistent with the objectives of the University."

(Continued on page 6)

Ersted Award Nominations Due

Student nominations for the Ersted Award presented annually to a relatively young faculty member for inspiring teaching are due Wednesday in the office of Student Affairs.

WINNERS in the All Campus Sing mixed group division were Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Tau Omega. Led by Kay Davidson, they sang "Old McDonald's Farm."