

'Three Penny Opera' Tickets to Go on Sale

Tickets for the University Theatre production of Brecht's "The Three Penny Opera" will go on sale this afternoon and will continue throughout the week from 21-5 p.m. at the UT box-office.

The $2.00 tickets will be sold on performance nights until 7 p.m.

OPENING NIGHT for the play, which is the story of the highwayman Mack, is May 17. It will continue May 18, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25.

According to Mrs. Winona Cheatham, UT business manager, other individuals besides those in the music and drama departments have cooperated in the production. She cited Peter Gontrum, assistant professor of Germanic languages, as translating both lyrics and dialogue from the original script.

"In 'Three Penny' productions, the original isn't usually consulted," she said.

IN ADDITION, architectural students under the direction of Peter Gyga, assistant professor of architecture, have designed and constructed sets.

Director of the entire production is Jean Cutler; Margaret Ann Crain is assistant director. Musical director is Robert Cunningham.

Members of the cast in the order they appear on the program include Terry Thomas, Chuck Stuart, Marva Dawley, David Baker, Lyn Anderson, Geoffrey Quinsey and Karen Achor.

Margaret Ann Crain, Gail Breger, Ruth Winston, Jacquie McClure, Kim Frankel, Frieda Hyman, Floyd Hughes III, James Griener, Peter Jamison, Gail

Owens, Winona Cheatham, Susan Love, Carole McMann and Carol Hansen.

Placard-Carriers Are UO Students

Four placard-carrying men who were passing out handbills in Eugene Saturday were identified as University students.

The men were distributing handbills near the Eugene City Hall urging Oregonians to let their Congressmen know how they feel about "the federal government's action or lack of it, in the Birmingham demonstrations."

The handbills stated further that the authors "hope to show him (President Kennedy) that the people of Eugene at least are aware of and concerned with the racial situation in Mississippi."

The men were identified by another University student who said she thought they represented only themselves and not any one group. The handout states the question: "Suppose not Negroes, but men of property were being beaten in Mississippi?"

Oregana Distribution

The winter and housing editions of the Oregana will be distributed Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Profit Estimated On Junior Week

A rough financial estimate for Junior Week has been released to the Emerald by Tom Tongue, Finance Chairman for the event.

An estimated net profit of $3,475 was made. However, all figures are subject to change because of late expenses and especially because all expense figures from the Physical Plant have been only estimates.

Prom expenses were about $3,260, and ticket sales amounted to about the same figure, so that the junior class more or less broke even on that event. This is the first time in several years that the class has broken even on the Prom.

The Mothers' Luncheon also broke even, selling approximately 3000 tickets.

No figures were available for the Mothers' Breakfast.

There was a paid attendance of 4800 at the All-Campus Sing, the expenses for which were $410.

Total publicity for Junior Week amounted to $315. Court expenses were $395. Other expenses came to about $55.

Total expenses, excluding the Prom, came to $1,325.

Before Junior Week, the junior class was about $400 in the hole. With Junior Week profits, they will have approximately $3,000 for next year, subject to change. Tongue said that he thought this was a pretty fair amount.
