

Senator Disputes Vote . . .

very soon, the ballots will be printed before the constitutional ruling may be known.

"I believe this should be avoided because student funds will be misused if the ballots are printed and the placing of the amendments of the ballot is declared unconstitutional.

Avoid Funds Misuse

"I am sure that the ASUO Senate would like to avoid using students funds in an inappropriate manner. The ASUO Senate is going to be in a difficult position if called upon to explain why it let itself be misled."

Soto-Seelig also sent a letter Sunday to Wendell Bayse, associate professor of law and chairman of the constitutional committee, explaining his request to the committee, and giving the factors behind his request.

The revisions were approved by the Senate last spring and presented in an election that proved to be invalid since fewer than 25 per cent of the student body voted.

Proposed changes include having 15 instead of nine senators-at-large, removing class presidents from the senate, and holding three general elections each year.

"No Comment"—Bayse

Bayse said Sunday that he couldn't comment on Soto-Seelig's request until he could meet with the constitutional committee. He said also "the committee functions only as a group to give opinions."

The Senate is not obligated to follow their ruling.

Sherburne said "it would be possible to raise a number of technical objections to the vote" due to the involved and outdated character of the present ASUO Constitution.

He said he was "really a little disturbed that Raul didn't challenge the constitutionality of the meeting." Soto-Seelig answered that he was overruled when he tried to ask a point of order.

"I think we're moving in the right direction," he said, referring to the senator's move as a means of "impeding the progress."

Not First Wrong Vote

Soto-Seelig commented that it was not the first time the Senate had voted wrong, and further action of this type would "lead to further mistakes."

The senator would not name the legal authorities who had advised him on his position.

Sherburne said he did not know if it would be possible to stop the printing of the ballots by the University Press in order for the constitutionality of the Senate action to be determined.

The ballots were ordered from the press Friday.

Sherburne said there is a possibility that the action of the Senate could be ruled on Wednesday or later this week and all matters worked out the revisions could be placed on the ballot by Oct. 30.

Doubts Reasoning

Sherburne declined to give any official comment on the matter of constitutionality, but expressed doubt as to the reasoning of Soto-Seelig.

If Soto-Seelig is successful in his opposition, constitutional revision will have to be deferred until a later special election.

Sherburne commented that one of the reasons behind the senator's move was a plan to make revisions in the material to be voted on. Soto-Seelig denied this, however.

Stolen Swords Left on Porch

Two swords which were filched during the intermission of the Scottish Black Watch Regimental Band concert last Wednesday have been recovered.

Thursday night they were left on the front porch of the home of Civic Music Association President Arthur Bailey at 421 E. 19th Ave.

Bailey sent them to Portland, where they arrived in time for the Friday night performance.

University students donated or pledged about $8 in answer to faculty member Charles E. Kraft's appeal for funds to purchase new swords.

Refunds may be obtained from Kraft in 470 Prince Lucian Campbell Hall on Monday or Tuesday from 12 to 4 p.m.

Assembly for all Honors College students will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in Room 123 Science. The Honors College constitution will be discussed, among other business.
