Homecoming Features Rally, Game, Concert

Homecoming—1963, complete with bonfire, rallies, dances, and football, is being held by the University this week.

The celebration, which this year has the attraction of the Oregon-Oregon State football game Saturday, will draw thousands of alumni, friends, and parents from throughout the area.

In conjunction with Homecoming, many Eugene alumni are planning reunions for returning friends.

Alumni will start their annual return to Oregon on Friday afternoon, but earlier in the week University students will start observance of Homecoming traditions.

The University's Homecoming calendar, which started Tuesday, includes:

Thursday, Nov. 21 — "Hello Walk," 9 a.m. to 12 noon; Kangaroo Court, between classes in front of Science Bldg.; Homecoming Button sales in Erb Memorial Union 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ATO Sanctions

By RON COWAN
Emerald News Editor

President Arthur Flemming authorized Wednesday Inter-Fraternity Council Tribunal sanctions against Alpha Tau Omega fraternity for their actions at a Nov. 2 house dance.

ATO was found guilty by the Tribunal of violating the IFC constitution. They also are being investigated by the Faculty-Student Conduct Committee for individual violations of the Student Conduct Code.

Group sanctions, which will go into effect immediately, will include indefinite probation consisting of no social functions and loss of rushing and pledging privileges.

The conduct committee will continue their investigation of possible violations of the code on the part of individuals, said Flemming. The committee does not have the power to impose

Rebuttal to Pearson

Administrators Discuss Value of Grad Student

By CATHY NEVILLE
Academic Affairs Editor

Liberal arts students from schools with a graduate student body have greater academic success when they try to gain advanced degrees.

This observation was made by Clyde Patton, acting Dean of the Graduate school Wednesday during an interview. Patton was evaluating the importance of graduate students to the University.

The position of graduate students within the state system was questioned at Saturday's session of the State Legislature. Senator Walter Pearson, D-Portland, criticized the state's policy of not charging higher tuition to out-of-state graduate students.

In the story carried in Tuesday's Emerald, Pearson was quoted as saying, "We are going to have to decide whether higher education is going to be for graduate students or for those who have no higher education."

At least three University officials feel that the graduate student body is a valuable part of the University. Patton, Jarold Kieffer, special assistant to the president, and Clifford Constance, University registrar, made some observations on the consequences of a graduate program to the University in separate interviews with The Emerald Wednesday.

Liberal Art Students Constitute Senior Six

One half the "Senior Six" of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary, elected Monday night are mathematics majors, and all are in liberal arts disciplines.

Ernest H. Lund, associate professor of geology, president; Paul S. S. Holbo, assistant professor of history, vice president; and Lois I. Baker, law librarian, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The six, designated the outstanding scholars in the University's senior class, are Charlene Sue Bear, history; Kathleen Marie Donaldson, mathematics; Robert Charles Ghent, mathematics; Roger Dudley Petersen, psychology; Janice Cooper Scott, foreign languages; Robert V. Youdi, mathematics.

New members of the executive committee are Roland C. Ball, Jr., assistant professor of English, and Arnulf Zweig, assistant professor of philosophy.

Those named to the membership committee were James R. Klonoski, assistant professor of political science, and Eugene A. Maier, associate professor of mathematics.

The grade point averages ranged between 3.75 and 3.98.

Three of the new Phi Beta Kappa members, Miss Bear, Miss Donaldson, and Ghent, are enrolled in the Honors College.

Memorial Service Planned for Today

A memorial service for Chun-Loong (Michael) Louie, 20, who died Friday, will be held at 9:30 a.m. today at St. Mary's Catholic Church, 11th and Charnelton Sts.

Louie, a junior in economics from Hong Kong, was found dead on the floor of his apartment. He was last seen alive about 11 a.m. Friday as he went to class.

Enrollment Increases

Constance set the current graduate enrollment at 1,893. This is a 19 per cent increase over graduate enrollment at the University last year.

He observed that this enrollment has been increasing very quickly for several years but said that it will probably level off and not continue to grow at the present rate.

Upon enrollment, graduate and research assistants pay a special fee which includes the building and incidental fees but not the usual tuition cost. In effect, "This is paying them for their services just as if the University issued them a check at the end of each month," explained Constance.

Not Applicable

He said that out-of-state fees are not applied to graduate students because they are regarded as a valuable part of the student body and are encouraged to attend the University in this way. He added that he believes universities throughout the nation

Parliamentarian Proposes Rules For Senators

By CHUCK BEGGS
Emerald Staff Writer

The adoption of a set of standing rules for the operation of the ASUO Senate and a physical revision of the ASUO Constitution are suggested by Barry Winters, recently appointed Senate parliamentarian.

Winters told The Emerald Wednesday that "Robert's Rules are not designed for a deliberative organization, as Robert himself states." He said that the American Institute of Parliamentarians has had considerable discussion over the fact that Robert's Rules are now "outmoded by many standards; they are too complex and are not sufficient for a group such as a student senate."

Wants Standing Rules

Winters hopes to draw up a set of 10 or 12 permanent standing rules by which the Senate can conduct business, and present them for ratification within the next few weeks.

"There are two or three rules now in effect in the senate which hinder the introduction of motion to the floor," he said.

"I hope to replace these methods with ones which will allow for a more free and efficient movement of business," he said.

Among the proposals Winters group sanctions and these must be decided by Flemming.

The President said, "any proceedings resulting from this investigation will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Student Conduct Code."

"The penalties which have been imposed on Alpha Tau Omega fraternity as a group will have no bearing one way or the other on the handling and disposition of individual cases," he said.

Tribunal action was voluntary and had to be authorized by Flemming to become effective. It is still undecided what authority IFC Tribunal has under the new code.

The President commented that "Again, I want to commend the Inter-Fraternity Council Tribunal for the manner in which they have handled this case."

Tribunal found ATO guilty of violating IFC liquor consumption rules, taking girls into the living area and ignoring "moral and ethical principles" during the dance on fraternity premises.

The conduct committee, which has been investigating the case for two weeks, is interviewing individuals involved with the case.

Tribunal sanctions are to be reviewed by the group within two weeks of the end of winter term, at which time ATO will report on the result of the measures.

Other measures decided require ATO to sponsor speakers at their chapter from the University and fraternity community, and submit a report of the case to the ATO national office with a request that they send an officer to instruct the group in their role as a chapter.

The Tribunal also recommended that any violation of the spirit or letter of this decision will result in the suspension of the ATO chapter.
