By NOMI BORENSTEIN
Emerald Staff Writer

The Student Union Board agreed Wednesday to act as a sales and information agency for West Coast Airlines' student discount service.

Students buying special discount cards may obtain a 50 per cent discount on plane tickets to west coast cities. However, the ticket must be purchased within three hours of the plane's departure and the sale will be made only if there is room on the regularly scheduled flight.

The Board emphasized that it is not endorsing the proposal but

UO-OSU Student Leaders Release 'Civil War' Policy

School spirit and competition between the University and Oregon State University is best expressed on the playing field, not by destruction and vandalism. This is the opinion shared by ASUO President Phil Sherburne and ASOSU President Grant Watkinson.

An inter-institutional policy, signed by the two student leaders reads:

"We approve of school spirit. We believe that it adds not only to the interest in, but also the values to be derived from Oregon-Oregon State athletic competition. But we believe that it is best expressed on the playing field and not by destruction and vandalism. Therefore we urge our students not to participate in any raids or other activities likely to result in property damage or personal injury, and as further deterrent we agree that:

- Our students, individually or collectively, could be held liable for the costs of repairing damage at the other institution.

- Students apprehended in such pre-game activities are subject to the Discipline Code which states that officials of the University of Oregon and of Oregon State University have mutually agreed to take severe disciplinary action against any student who engages in vandalism, kidnaping, and/or other malicious acts. These acts could result in suspension from the institution.

is only offering it as a service to students.

Ed Stone, University representative, told the Board that there was an average of 18 empty seats on the flight which left between December 15 and Christmas last year.

He told the Board that all restrictions and regulations would be listed plainly in a pamphlet accompanying the $5 membership card so that students would be fully aware of them when they purchased the card.

Stone said the card will be good for one year from the time it is issued, and that it will be revoked if it is misused.

The Board also voted not to hold its weekend ski trips this year because of budget restrictions and increased bus costs.

Instead, the Board is co-sponsoring a ski school with The Emerald. The school will be held during the week's winter term.

The Board also agreed to co-sponsor the appearance of an Egyptian folk dancer with Cosmo Club. The group said that they would accept no responsibility for gain or loss and agreed to handle the tickets for the event through the main desk. The anticipated cost for the tickets is $1.

Big Brother Needed For YMCA Project

Men students at the University will have an opportunity to guide and counsel potential delinquents through the YMCA Little Brother Project.

Those students who would like to serve as a "big brother" for a boy who needs rehabilitation may apply at the University YMCA office, 318 SU.

The general idea of this program is to provide guidance through examples set by a more mature and socially acceptable person.

It is the desire of the YMCA to bring University men with high personal standards and character into contact with boys who need the firm, yet compassionate hand of an older brother.

The student and his "little brother" will spend time together in such activities as athletics, fishing, hobby projects or other worthwhile activities.

Persons employed in the little brother program will receive a salary for their work and will have the benefit of a training program carried out by the Lane County Juvenile Department.

The methods and approach of this program have been tried and tested in other parts of the country, said chairman of the project Dick Courreges.

He also said that men who participate in the program will find the training and experience invaluable for future reference.
