

One of Many?

'Dog' Seeks Queen Post

By DAVE JORDAN
Emerald Associate Editor

Campus girl watchers who perennially slam University Homecoming Queen candidates as a bunch of "dogs" may have more tangible evidence than usual for their lamentations this year.

The main reason is the entrance of a dainty young lady by the dainty name of "Horse" as a write-in candidate for tomorrow's queen election.

Miss Horse (or just plain Horse, as her friends call her) is strangely enough, a member of a fraternity—Phi Kappa Psi. And her fellow Phi Psi's have decided to support her for the homecoming election.

"MISS HORSE," write-in candidate.

She was born in the summer of 1963 and was purchased shortly thereafter by the Phi Psi house manager, who recognized her as a "siren of the first degree."

Horse has demonstrated her leadership talents in several ways. Already she has risen to the post of "assistant hostess" for Phi Psi functions, and later she won three house awards.

Awards Listed

Phi Psi officials said Tuesday that she won the Senior Cup, for sitting in the senior chair and not getting caught; the Junior Trophy, for making the most noise on the sleeping porch and not being thrown out; and the Sophomore T-bone Award, for alerting the sophomore anti-RF committee to the clandestine advances of a neighboring sorority in the early hours of the morning.

Although Horse's soulful face and sad brown eyes would indicate a Hamlet-like bent, Phi Psi men call her "without equal as a bright and witty conversationalist."

No stuck-up sophisticate, Horse will stop and talk to anyone who happens to choose one of her favorite trees on the old campus as a spot to rest on a warm, sunny day. (Fear not, however. Horse is a lady and doesn't use outdoor rest rooms.)

Fights 'Machine'

Full of exuberance and talent, Horse can be heard baying at the moon on clear nights (along with her fellow Phi Psi's).

Phi Psi men are staging a whirlwind last-minute campaign for "their girl" in an attempt to snatch undecided votes from the "machine" candidates nominated by the homecoming committee. (They hope to have more success than Gov. Scranton did in San Francisco, needless to say.)

Miller Analogies Test Announced

Graduate students wishing to satisfy the Miller Analogies Test requirement may do so on Thursday, Oct. 22, at 3:30 p.m. Registration may be made at the Counseling Center, Room 150, Susan Campbell Hall, at least one day prior to the testing date. Upon registration the fee of $2.50 may be paid.

University Theater Holds Open House

The University Theater will hold an open house at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

A theater program is being planned and refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited to attend to examine theater facilities and to meet University Theater personnel.

PATRONIZE YOUR
• ADVERTISERS •

Lepke Describes YCJ As Bi-Partisan Group

Cal Lepke, chairman of the University chapter of the Young Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey, explained the functions of the campus' newest political organization Monday in a special interview.

Lepke stressed that the YCJ's are completely a bi-partisan organization "interested only in the election of Johnson and Humphrey." All independents and Republicans who are interested in local or state candidates of their own party but don't wish to support the national ticket are invited to join this organization. Lepke stated "We want all members of the student body interested in furthering their political belief in President Johnson to come to our meeting Thursday."

Chairman Lepke added that YCJ's "give students a chance to participate in politics on a large scale." The opportunities in this organization, he continued, "are great in number because it offers intellectual challenges in political education." Plans for various coming events include a student rally on the Student Union patio, distribution of campaign material, door to door campaigning, and a number of speakers that may include vice-presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey. A governmental official will speak at this week's meeting.

Lepke announced that he has written a letter to President Johnson "promising full support of the organization during the campaign." He has also sent a letter to the state director of the YCJ.

Appealing for unity from those supporting President Johnson, Lepke closed by saying, "This election is the most equivocal ever in many respects, for it presents a platform of tolerance, forbearance, and moderation opposed to radicalism, irrationality, and wand-waving."

Bald?

Don't Read This

Head of Hair?

TRY

University Barber Shop

1239 Alder

Letters to the Editor

(Continued from page 2)

car transport business, there must be many used auto transport trailers available at nominal costs. The truck drivers could spend the middle of the day hauling logs, so that labor costs can be held to a minimum.

Of course, it would be more economical for the students and staff to drive directly to the outlying area and then ride a shuttle bus to campus. However, Americans will not submit themselves to public transportation. If they will allow their cars to ride on public transportation, we will have solved a problem which threatens to paralyze our nation.

J. W. McClure,
Dept. of Physics.

Elder Defends

Emerald Editor:

An Oregon Daily Emerald story dated 7 October, 1964 quotes Keith D. Skelton, a one time State Representative, as saying that "Ed Elder and Monte Montgomery are afraid to defend their records." He is, as usual, inconsistent in this charge and is, in fact, engaging in the mud slinging he seemingly deplores.

It had been understood that the original discussion had been scheduled to cover national issues. Any casual observer of the local political scene would agree that I do not have a record to defend on national issues. I have not been a member of the U. S. House of Representatives, the U. S. Senate or the President's Cabinet.

I am an elected State Representative and have been in that office for nearly four years. My record is exposed for all to see. It is consistent and people who vote for me are aware of my stand on various issues while serving in local and state government.

Voters who follow the statements of Mr. Skelton from elective office to the lobby, back to the public payroll and just now in a final attempt at elective office surely must be dazzled by the many facings of such a political wanderer.

Ed Elder, Candidate
House of Representatives
13th District

Wilson Fans

Emerald Editor:

Interest in the 1964 campaign is focused on the Presidential race, but there is a local legislative race that will determine which party will organize the next Oregon State Legislature. We would like to welcome any other Oregon students to join us in our support of the Republican candidate in this race, Don Wilson.

Don graduated from Stanford, served as an intelligence officer in the South Pacific, and later worked for Standard Oil in Asia. He saw the communists take over China in 1949 and invade Korea in 1950.

Returning to Oregon, he graduated from Willamette Law School, served in the Attorney-General's office, and is now a Lane County Attorney.

Any other Oregon students interested in working for this dynamic young candidate can contact his Student Headquarters at 345-8862.

Rod Roth
Political Science
Graduate

Dick Courreges
Senior, Political Science

John James
Graduate, History

Clyde Hockett
Senior, Political Science

Rod Carlson
Senior, Pre-Dentistry

Wally Sands
Senior, Economics

Books are not the only thing we have . . .

CHECK WHAT ELSE BOTH STUDENTS AND FACULTY CAN BUY AT THE SAME 5% DISCOUNT:

Office Supplies
Drawing Equipment
School Supplies
Stationery

Photo Items
Gift Wrappings
Drug & Sundry Items
Party Decorations

Now Open from 7:30 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

CAMPUS BOOK STORE

877 E. 13th AVE.

(in the Bill Baker Bldg.)

Learn To Fly With

P.O. Box 1243, Eugene, Oregon

PERSONALITIES

MALVILLE FUNCTION III, mechanic

Mr. Function is the UNIVERSITY OF OREGON FLYING CLUB'S chief engineer. "Mal" (as he is known to his friends at T-BIRD AIRPARK) was for years Engineering-Supervisor-in-charge of the Toonerville Trolley combine.

Function takes care of all T-BIRD aircraft; supervises their routine 100-hour inspections and occasional oil changes . . . whether they need it or not!

Mal Function's record of safety remains unsullied—for NEVER at any time during his distinguished career has an aircraft crashed in his shop!!!

Our success in flying is due entirely to the tradition of Mal Function III and his ancestors. "Mal" Functions are indeed a "tradition" with T.BIRDS, for Mal's father and grandfather both have worked in our engineering department. It would only be fair to say that our continued progress in the aviation business is the direct result of one Mal Function after another!!!!

JOIN "MAL" FUNCTION AT THE U OF O FLYING CLUB MEETING IN THE STUDENT UNION, WEDNESDAY AT 7:00. Everyone interested in flying is welcome. There will be a movie at 8:00: "Wings to Baja."