

Sidewalk Surfers Ready for Match

Sidewalk surfers and their admirers will congregate on 17th Ave. near the music school, tomorrow for the first all-campus, all-city skateboard tournament. Participants will be competing for four trophies in slalom and stunt competition. Registration for the event starts at 9:30 a.m.; the tournament starts at 10. Participants must pay 50 cents for one event or 75 cents for two events. This money will be donated to the Children's Hospital School as a fund raising project of Adams Hall.

Any stunt the surfer can do without "wiping out" will be accepted by the judges. Each competitor will be allowed to perform five tricks, with a ten point maximum for each trick.

High jumping will be a separate stunt for all the competitors. In case of ties, heights successfully cleared will be used to break ties.

Each contestant must provide his own equipment for his own tricks, except for the high jump.

Rights Workers To Explain SCOPE

Two civil rights workers will speak in the Student Union today at 3 p.m., discussing SCOPE (Summer Community Organization for Political Education).

They will explain SCOPE's projects this summer. The rights workers, Bill Treanor of Georgetown University, and J. T. Johnson of Tennessee State College, will be recruiting students from this campus to do civil rights work in the South.

They said that between 1,500 and 2,000 students will participate in the SCOPE project this summer, working in six states—from Alabama to Virginia.

Chorale Slates Music Festival

"A Festival of Moravian Music" will be presented in concert by the University Chorale at 8 p.m. Sunday in the School of Music auditorium.

The Moravians were a religious group from Czechoslovakia who settled in Pennsylvania as early as 1740 and established a number of towns including the present day Winston-Salem in North Carolina.

The program will open with two works by John Antes which are presumed to be the earliest chamber works composed by a native-born American.

The public is invited to attend the concert. No admission.

Seniors . . .

The original conception of the retreat camp came under consideration during spring term of 1963. At that time the Board sponsored a campus-wide drive to raise money for the project.

The goal of $20,000, however, was not reached, and the money was refunded.

A modified version of this plan was presented last winter term by Jack Cross, assistant SU director, and is currently being used as a guide in the project.

Alexander Named Department Head

Henry Alexander, visiting assistant professor of philosophy, has been appointed associate professor of philosophy and head of the University philosophy department Charles E. Johnson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, has announced.
