

Oregon Looks for No. 2...

Football Team Meets Utes

The University of Utah began another string of football games Saturday.

And Oregon Duck followers will be hoping the string continues this coming Saturday night in Salt Lake City when the Webfoots meet the Redskins in Ute Stadium.

Utah's eight-game winning streak was brought to a halt Saturday by Arizona's 16-9 win in Salt Lake City and the Oregon varsity will travel to Utah with the idea of continuing the Redskin's losing string.

And the Ducks, off a 17-15 victory over Pittsburgh in the two school's openers last Saturday, will be fighting to keep their own winning streak alive.

The game will be Utah's third of the 1965 campaign, as they defeated Montana State, 28-13, Sept. 6.

Their eight-game winning string included a 32-6 victory over West Virginia in the Liberty Bowl last season and a 14-0 win over California of the AAWU.

Borthwick Paces Utes

Halfback Roy Borthwick, a rookie from Vancouver, B. C., and two-year man Rich Groth, the Ute quarterback, pace the Redskin offense. Borthwick gained 115 yards in nine carries for a 12.7 yds. per carry average in Utah's win over Montana State. He scored one touchdown, a 69-yd. run in his first attempt from scrimmage, in the Montana State win, and the single Utah tally against Arizona.

Groth, back to quarterback the Utah offense, connected on eight of 14 passes in the Montana game for 98 yards and one touchdown, hitting wingback Gary Heard for the score. Groth gained 34 yards rushing in that game for a total of 132 yards.

Utah used both running and passing offense equally in their Montana win while they employed a passing offense basically Saturday against Arizona.

Utah began the 1965 season as an inexperienced squad with only two of the '64 starting offensive eleven returning. Coach Ray Nagel also lost his entire starting defensive backfield.

But the Redskin defense in reality gave up only one score in Arizona's 16-9 win as the Wildcats scored one touchdown on an intercepted pass and another two points on a safety.

Line Averages 214

Utah, which gained co-championship status in the Western Athletic Conference 1964 football race, along with Arizona and New Mexico, averages 202 pounds on the offensive team. The line weighs in at 214 pounds and the backfield 181.

According to Nagel, standouts after the two Utah games have been defensive end Bill Morley, McKissick, Moksnes, defensive halfback Jerry Pullman and power end Frank Mazzotta. Moksnes, Pullman and Mazzotta all work on both offense and defense.

Oregon has met the Redskins nine times and has won seven and lost two. The last Oregon win came in 1962 in Eugene by a 35-8 tally. Utah's last win, a 14-6 victory was scored in 1961. The Ducks first met Utah in 1933, and finished with a 26-7 win.
