

Controversial Albee Play Initiates Carnival Festival

Carnival Festival will premiere the 1965-66 season of the University Theatre with two of the most popular plays of the summer's Carnival Theatre season. The prize-winning drama "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" will play Friday and Saturday.

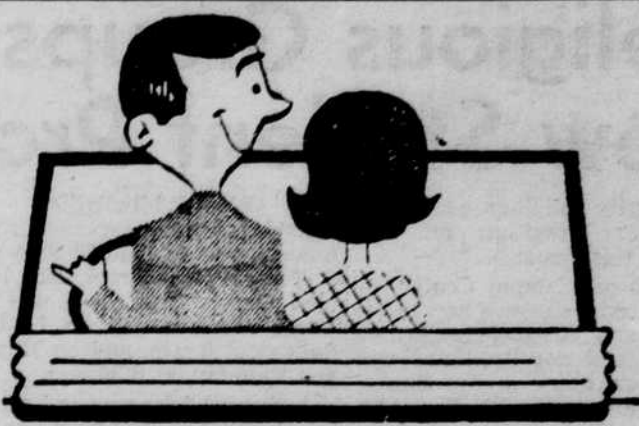

The controversial Edward Albee play has been called one of the great plays of our time. The play's director, Horace W. Robinson, has labeled the play a "distinctly different theatrical experience." He is a professor of speech and theatre at the University, and the director of the University Theatre. The original Carnival Theatre cast will be featured in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" The University Theatre company which will take "Guys and Dolls" on a USO tour of the European Command this fall will present the Frank Loesser musical on Friday and Saturday, October 1 and 2.

A musical comedy which opened on Broadway fifteen years ago and has since become an American classic, "Guys and Dolls" is based on Damon Runyon's stories of New York gangsters and show-girls. Tickets for both Carnival Festival productions are on sale. The ticket prices are $1.50 each for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and $2.50 each for "Guys and Dolls."

The University Theatre box office (342-1411, ext. 1781) is open from noon to 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from noon to 9 p.m. on nights of performances. Theatre-goers are urged to make reservations for the plays in advance. Season ticket coupon books, which are still available, may be used for Carnival Festival.
