

Selective Service Predicts Limited Student Deferments

FT. STEWART, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service, said Saturday that draft deferments for college students will become more difficult to obtain because of increasing manpower needs in Viet Nam.

"We have been very lenient and, therefore, it can stand some tightening," Hershey said in an interview at this Army base where draft directors from 10 states meet Sunday to discuss ways of filling quotas.

Hershey said prospective draftees must not only have reasons for deferment—"but better reasons." He said he wanted to get the views of state director on restoring Korean war standards that made it tough to get deferments and keep them.

The draft chief said it was his guess that the needs would be similar to those of the Korean war when the draft ran about 80,000 a month. That is more than double the current draft.

The conference will be the first of three regional meetings called by Hershey. Directors from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee, North Carolina, and South Carolina will attend the meeting. The Puerto Rico director also will be here.

"It will be more difficult to get a deferment hereafter," Hershey said. But the exact procedures will depend upon what results from U. S. peace moves in Viet Nam and the national budget.

"Unsolved" Problems

"We are in a situation where there are several unsolved problems," he said. "Therefore, there is a certain amount of waiting."

Hershey said he wanted to get the directors in a frame of mind for quick action in the tightening of draft loopholes.

"I have always got to prepare for the worst," the 72-year-old Hershey said. "I said two months ago I had a tendency to believe that we are going to stabilize at about 30,000 a month."

"Now I don't know what to think."

"I guess we're trying to get

Anti-war Protester Receives Sentence

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 19-year-old Pittsburgh pacifist who participated in an anti-war demonstration in violation of a probation order was sent to prison Friday for four years.

Judge Louis Rosenberg of U.S. District Court revoked the probation of Thomas W. Rodd who was arrested last week after demonstrating at the Boeing Vertol Helicopter plant near Philadelphia.

It was Judge Rosenberg who sentenced Rodd to five years in prison in 1964 for refusing to register for the draft.

Sentence was suspended and Rodd was placed on probation and ordered not to participate in any demonstrations.

ready for a Korean War affair where it will be about 80,000 a month."

Next Draftees

He said the steps of an increased draft, after available 19-year-olds have been taken, would be: 1. College students, 2. The 1Y category — those who failed their draft exams, and 3. Childless marriages.

Of the 1Y group, Hershey said he got a concession from the military to take young men scoring as low as 15 on the mental test as opposed to the 31 points now required.

Hershey said a means of uniform selection in college deferments has to be worked out and probably would be based on a combination of class standing and Selective Service tests—the two criteria of the Korean War draft.

Hershey said he would review for the state directors the policy on Selective Service law violations such as draft card burning, or interfering with local boards. He said he felt that the law was satisfied if a man who avoided the draft later agreed to serve.

Campus Briefs

Announcements for Campus Briefs must be turned in by 3:30 p.m. the day before publication. Because of space limitations, no announcements will be run more than twice.

The ASUO Campus Planning Committee will meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday in room 309 SU.

Students interested in applying to the University School of Nursing should attend a meeting at 3 or 4 p.m. Tuesday in 134 Commonwealth, or 4 or 5 p.m. Thursday in 101 Commonwealth, or contact Miss Olson, ext. 1391.

Students who are interested in teaching handicapped children to swim, or who taught them last term, will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the SU. Anyone not able to attend may leave his name at the YWCA, ext. 1858.

The Panhellenic Executive Council will meet at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday in the SU.

"Is Faith Relevant?" will be the topic at the Oregon Christian Fellowship at 9 p.m. Tuesday in the SU.

ROMAN IN THE GLOAMIN'

Now as the end of the first semester draws near, one fact emerges clearly: you are all going to flunk out of school.

There are two things you can do about it. First, you can marry money. (I don't mean you marry the money itself; I mean you marry a person who has money. Weddings between people and currency have not been legal anywhere in the United States since the Smoot-Hawley Act. Personna® Stainless Steel Blades, on the other hand, are legal everywhere and are, indeed, used with great pleasure and satisfaction in all fifty states of the Union and Duluth. I bring up Personna Stainless Steel Blades because this column is sponsored by the makers of Personna Stainless Steel Blades, and they are inclined to get edgy if I omit to mention their product. Some of them get edgy and some get double-edgy because Personna Blades come both in Injector style and Double Edge style.)

But I digress. I was saying you can marry money but, of course, you will not because you are a high-minded, clean-living, pure-hearted, freckle-faced American kid. Therefore, to keep from flunking, you must try the second method: you must learn how to take lecture notes.

According to a recent survey, eleven out of ten American undergraduates do not know the proper way to take lecture notes. To illustrate this appalling statistic, let us suppose you are taking a course in history. Let us further suppose the lecturer is lecturing on the ruling houses of England. You listen intently. You write diligently in your notebook, making a topic outline as you have been taught. Like this:

- I. House of Plantagenet.
- II. House of Lancaster.
- III. House of York.

Then you stop. You put aside your pen. You blink back a tear, for you cannot go on. Oh, yes, you know very well that the next ruling house is the House of Tudor. The trouble is you don't know the Roman numeral that comes after III.

It may, incidentally, be of some comfort to learn that you are not the only people who don't know Roman numerals. The fact is, the Romans never knew them either. Oh, I suppose they could tell you how much V or X were or like that, but when it came to real zingers like LXI or MMC, they just flung away their styluses and went downtown to have a bath or take in a circus or maybe stab Caesar a few times.

You may wonder why Rome stuck with these ridiculous numerals when the Arabs had such a nice, simple system. Well, sir, the fact is that Emperor Vespasian tried like crazy to buy the Arabic numerals from Suleiman The Magnificent, but Suleiman wouldn't do business—not even when Vespasian raised his bid to 100,000 gold piastres, plus he offered to throw in the Colosseum, the Appian Way, and Technicolor.

So Rome stuck with Roman numerals—to its sorrow, as it turned out. One day in the Forum, Cicero and Pliny got to arguing about how much is CDL times MVIX. Well, sir, pretty soon everyone in town came around to join the hassle. In all the excitement, nobody remembered to lock the north gate and—wham! before you could say ars longa—in rushed the Goths, the Visigoths, and the Green Bay Packers!

Well, sir, that's the way the empire crumbles, and I digress. Let's get back to lecture notes. Let's also say a word about Burma Shave®. Why? Because Burma Shave is made by the makers of Personna Blades who, it will be recalled, are the sponsors of this column. They are also the sponsors of the ultimate in shaving luxury. First coat your kisser with Burma Shave, regular or menthol—or, if you are the devil-may-care sort, some of each. Then whisk off your stubble with an incredibly sharp, unbelievably durable Personna Blade, Injector or Double Edge—remembering first to put the blade in a razor. The result: facial felicity, cutaneous cheer, epidermal elysium. Whether you shave every day, every III days, or every VII, you'll always find Personna and Burma Shave a winning combination.
